THE papers described in this Calendar consist of two parts: the first relating to Scotland, and the second relating to Mary Queen of Scots during her detention and captivity within the realm of England. The first series is one of many collections preserved in the State Paper Office which refer to those foreign countries with which England has at any time held diplomatic relations; consisting of the correspondence between the Sovereigns and rulers of the respective countries; the treaties which were made between them; the communications which emanated from the ministers on either side; the letters of ambassadors, special commissioners, leaders of armies, spies, and other agents, who corresponded with the officers of state on the public affairs of the countries in which they resided or to which they were accredited. •

The main collection of papers relating to Scotland has always existed in the State Paper Office under the custody of the Secretary of State, but some of the letters of King Henry VIII.'s reign formed part of the Wolsey correspondence, and were originally deposited in the Chapter House, Westminster. The whole series extends over a period of ninety-five years, from the first year of the reign of King Henry VIII. to the death of Queen Elizabeth. It embraces, as regards Scotland, part of the reign of King James IV., the reign of King James V., comprising the regency of the Duke of Albany, the reign of Queen Mary, (commonly called Mary Queen of Scots,) whose reign further comprised the regencies of the Duke of Chatelherault, of Mary of Guise, (Queen Dowager of Scotland,) and of the Earls of Murray, Lennox, Mar, and Morton, down to that period of the reign of King James VI. when, upon the death of Queen Elizabeth, the King of Scotland ascended the throne of England, and the two countries were united under one rule.

As a collection of official papers relating to one country for a comparatively short period, the Scottish series is as remarkable for its extent as for its integrity; and for historical interest it is scarcely too much to say, that it is without a parallel, illustrating as it does, and describing with such minuteness, all those great scenes in the fearful drama which commenced with the battle of Flodden, and ended with the so called conspiracy of Gowry. No other portion of our national history is so full of tragic incident: war succeeds war with strange rapidity: new leaders appear upon the scene of action, and fall as suddenly as they rise: plot follows plot, murder follows murder, as the scenes of a vision or the fancies of a dramatist.

Scotland was at this period, in the estimation of the English, essentially a foreign nation; as foreign to England as France is now: passports were required, and the journey from London to Edinburgh was an affair of time and considerable danger: there was, in fact, very little intercourse between the two countries, opposed, as they were, in their political relations, and separated still more effectually by jealousies, unworthy rivalry, and mutual ignorance. Scotland was engaged with England in one great cause, the Reformation of Religion; but Scotland had been so long and so intimately connected with France, that the efforts of the Scottish Reformers were not so successful or so general at first as they were in England; and it was in order to counteract this French influence and advance the cause against Rome, that the successive wars which were then waged between these now united portions of Great Britain were undertaken.

The papers in the reign of King Henry VIII. are not very numerous, although extremely interesting. They open with a confirmation of the treaty with Scotland, which had been made by Henry VII., and the same leaf of the calendar which contains the treaty bears the records of its violation, and the narrative of the disastrous battle of Flodden. The letter of Queen Margaret which follows,* has hitherto been assigned to a later date, but it is supposed by the compiler to have been written to Queen Catharine of Arragon in reply to a letter of condolence which that lady may have sent to the Queen of Scotland when the certainty of King James' fall on the battle-field had been ascertained.

The extensive series of letters of Margaret Queen of Scotland, King Henry's sister, the widow of King James IV., will be found of much interest, and very characteristic, and some notices will be observed of her son King James V., which are very suggestive of that Monarch's character. One letter from the Earl of Surrey to Cardinal Wolsey,† tells us that the young King struck a gentleman with his dagger, who "contraried" his opinion; other letters shew his partiality for field sports; and one of his statesmen, writing to Mr. Secretary Crumwell,‡ suggests that a young lion, which had been purchased for King Henry VIII., in Flanders, should be presented to King James, "such pleasures not being getable in Scotland, " and the King being a prince delighting in such things."

• The other events of this reign, illustrated by the State Papers, are the Duke of Albany's expedition into England in 1522; the invasion of Scotland by the English army under the Earl of Surrey in 1523, and the ravaging of the coasts of the Frith of Forth at the same time; another invasion under the command of the Duke of Norfolk in 1542; the battle of Solway Moss, and the death of King James V., who fell under the weight of that great calamity. The singular condition of society at the period is shewn in many letters, as well as the barbarous lawlessness of the times, and a cause for this is suggested in a letter of Bishop Barlo's to Mr. Secretary Crumwell—a long letter on the miserable disorder, ruinous decay, and intolerable calamity of the King's subjects on the Borders. “There is no knowledge,” says the Bishop, “of Christ's gospel, although there be plenty of priests, sundry sorts of religions, multitudes of monks, and flocking companies of friars.”*

The year 1543, brings us to a new truce with Scotland, and new overtures of peace; a marriage also is requested between King Henry's son, Prince Edward, and the infant Queen Mary, but, writes Sir Ralph Sadleir,† the English Ambassador at Edinburgh, “the Scots would lever suffer extremity than submit to the obedience and subjection of England. The kirkmen,” he continues, “labour to hinder the union of the twō realms, but the nobles and all the temporality desire the marriage, and perfect friendship.” A second bond of union is also attempted in the proposed marriage of the Princess Elizabeth,‡ afterwards Queen Elizabeth, to the son of the Regent of Scotland, but both these schemes prove abortive. The instructions of the English Monarch to his Ambassadors in Scotland in 1544, give us an insight into some of the motives of his policy at this time. Certain conditions are required of the Scots before the King will aid them, the principal being the true teaching of the Word of God and the marriage of the young Queen of Scotland with the King of England's son.§

The records of the two last years of Henry VIIIth's reign

will be found of much interest. Cuthbert Tunstal, Bishop of Durham, and Sir Ralph Sadleir transmit to the King a letter in cipher from the Earl of Cassillis, and tell that Monarch that "the nature and practices of the Scots are very strange and their proceedings full of dissimulation."* A few days afterwards the Privy Council of England write to the King's Lieutenant-General in the north respecting an offer from the said Earl of Cassillis for the killing of Cardinal Beton, which the King "mislikes not;"† and shortly afterwards other letters are written in which the proposed assassination of the Cardinal is sanctioned and commended as a matter of "good service both to God and to his Majesty."‡ Meantime the English army is preparing to enter Scotland, and the Privy Council instruct their General to place no confidence in any Frenchmen, unless they give some proof of their sincerity "by entrapping or killing the Cardinal, or some other man of estimation."§ During the progress of this third invasion of Scotland the letters of the English General to the Earl of Hertford are full of graphic details. The invaders "never thought to find so fair a country in Scotland," but they wasted and destroyed it with most wanton barbarity; not so much harm having been done, as they said themselves, these hundred years.|| The abbeyes of Melrose and Dryburgh, with thirteen or fourteen villages and the whole of the harvest, were destroyed in one incursion: a few days afterwards a foray of ten hours was made along the waters of Teviot, fourteen villages were again destroyed and the Abbey of Jedburgh: a second foray was also made in East Teviotdale, and Irishmen were employed because the English borderers would not burn their neighbours' corn.¶ There is a full list of the “fortresses, abbeis, fryerhouses, market townes, villages, “toures, and places brent, rased, and cast downe, betwene the “8th of September and the 23rd of the same;” and the English General informs the Secretary of State a few days afterwards that a letter from Scotland reports that the Governor is dead, or very near dead, of very melancholy.* The next page of the Calendar reveals to us that Cardinal Beton has been assassinated; there are various reports about the murderer; and one of our informants, a spy, tells us that “all things are turned, there is no mass said, no divine service.”

The reign of King Edward VI. was also one of intense hostility to Scotland. The object of the war was stated to be, “to bring to good effect the godly purpose of the marriage between King Edward VI. and Queen Mary,”† and early in this reign was fought the disastrous battle of Pinkie. The letters of the English leaders at this period also are very curious. All the North is marching forward. An English herald has been with the Governor to stop this gathering, “and has gotten his answer—a sharp one as men judge.”‡ Instructions are issued to the Earl of Warwick to invade Scotland; the troops are to muster at Newcastle, and Lord Clinton, an English Admiral, has somewhat similar orders. The Queen and Governor of Scotland are at Edinburgh setting out proclamations “accompanied with few Lords, but certain “churl priests.”§ “If it were not for fear of the great “men and the priests, the people would be glad to submit “to the King of England’s pleasure.” There is a cry in Angus and Fife for “a good preacher, and Bibles and “Testaments, and other good English bookes of Tyndale “and Frith’s translation;”|| while the English Admiral

“ trusts soon to suppress an Abbey or two,” and promises that he “ will not leave one town nor village, nor fisher boat unburned from Fifeness to Combe’s Inch.” * The fiery cross is therefore despatched through Scotland ; Dundee is fortified ; Balmerino Abbey destroyed ; Argyle marches with his Highlanders to Perth to resist the English invaders ; the English sailors burn a nunnery, and the Admiral brings away all the nuns and many gentlemen’s daughters ; Dundee is won, and the church destroyed, and the Earl of Argyle is, at length, “ spoken with” touching the goodly purpose of marriage and peace.†

But the war still goes on : Dryfe’s Dale is laid waste ; Drumlanrig besieged ; above five hundred of the Scots taken, slain, or drowned in the Nith ;‡ the prisoners, priests, and friars led in halters, and the country on all sides in great fear.

Admiral Wyndham, riding at anchor in the river Tay, writes, at this time, to the Protector Somerset for another great ship ; then he hopes to do good service, for “ unless the enemy be handled with fire and sword they never will be good.”§ There is tampering with the Scottish nobles ; the Earl of Argyle remonstrates with Lord Grey for slanderous imputations on his honour ;|| the Master of Ruthven asks how much he shall receive for setting forth the King of England’s purpose ;¶ reports fly abroad that the English Princess, afterwards Queen Mary, is dead, and the little Queen of Scotland lies sick at Dumbarton, “ in the small pokis.”†† James Skea flies from Orkney, “ for fear of burning for the Word of God ;”‡‡ and the Duke of Somerset instructs Lord Grey “ to burn as much corn and houses beyond

Musselburgh water as he can.”* That gallant officer “feels an English heart within him, not dreadful of Spanish, Italian, or other brags,”† and does his duty; there is gambling and duelling among the soldiers, but fifteen mills are burned, and all the country destroyed three miles west of Edinburgh.‡

The English General proceeds in his career; drives the Governor of Scotland to sharp sickness, and to the point of death; then he suggests that it may advance the King’s interests to have two or three preachers sent down to him, and a physician to cure the body.§ He destroys Dunbar, which burns “handsomely;” fortifies Berwick, in anticipation of the arrival of French forces to aid his enemies; Haddington is invested; the marriage of the young Queen with the Dauphin is determined, and peace at last proclaimed.

The papers of the reign of Queen Mary of England are few, but those of Queen Elizabeth extend to sixty-nine volumes, and are of the utmost importance. Here new actors appear upon the scene, and among them John Knox, the Reformer, William Maitland, Laird of Lethington, the most subtle of Queen Mary’s statesmen, Lord James Stewart, called the good Earl of Murray, and Sir William Kyrkcaldy, Laird of Grange, who served his Queen and her enemies alternately, but ultimately lost his life in her cause, when the Castle of Edinburgh was surrendered to the English forces in 1573. The Reformers now took up that firm position which they never afterwards abandoned, and anxiously solicited the support of the English Queen. The correspondence of Knox and his associates with Sir William Cecil and Queen Elizabeth at this period is replete with interest. Cecil’s letter to Sir Henry Percy of the 4th of July 1559,* in which the aid of England is promised to the Lords of the Congregation "rather than that they who " maintain the truth of the Christian religion should be " oppressed by any foreign power," is remarkable as having been returned to its writer in accordance with his orders.

Knox's letter to Queen Elizabeth of the 20th July 1559,† wherein he defends himself for publishing his "First Blast of the Trumpet against the monstrous regiment of women," which had been given to the public in the preceding year, is worth attention, as it varies from the copy of the epistle as it exists in print; and the letter of Christopher Goodman of the 26th October of the same year‡ about the observances in Queen Elizabeth's private chapel will also attract many readers. §

The zeal of the Protestants appears to have been great, and Knox || complains of the "foolish boldness of two young plants," probably meaning Lord James Stewart and the Earl of Arran. Proclamation of war is made by Queen Mary against the English on the 2d February 1560; and again Lord Grey enters Scotland with an English army, the Laird of Grange, on behalf of the Protestants, ravaging his country between Leith and Musselburgh.¶ It is proposed to besiege the Queen Dowager's party and the French in Edinburgh Castle. Hostilities continue, and an attempt is made at treaty: meantime, Leith is assaulted and the English forces defeated, their general, Lord Grey, laying the blame on the ‡ Goodman was an M.A. of Oxford, and published various books; among others, one with this title, "How superior powers ought to be obeyed of " their subjects: and wherein they may lawfully by God's worde be " disobeyed and resisted;" printed at Geneva in 1558. This is a violent attack upon Queen Mary of England, and the book of Knox's, above quoted, was also attributed to him.

Duke of Norfolk in having hastened his proceedings, the Duke repelling the charge by saying that he “never advised him to nothing.”* Further overtures of treaty were made, which ended ultimately in peace, and a truce occurred during the progress of the treaty, when courtesies were exchanged between the besiegers and the besieged in Leith. Upon this occasion the English Ambassador bears willing testimony to the valour of the French soldiers, their necessities and endurance, and mentions the difference between the “vivers” of the two parties, cheerfully contrasting the roast beef of the English with the baked horses and roasted rats of the French.† In this successful embassy Sir William Cecill was one of the Queen of England’s Commissioners, and appears to have attained his object, according to his own statement, when other expedients had failed, by “sending a brawling message” to the Commissioners on the other side.‡ The ratification by Parliament of the “Confession of Faith, as professed and believed by the Protestants of Scotland,”§ was one of the consequences of this treaty.

After Queen Mary’s return to Scotland, upon the death of her husband, King Francis, in 1561,|| the State Papers are for a short period of a more pacific character,—the Queen’s gentleness and Mr. Knox’s vehemence, the endeavour on all sides to shake the lady’s constancy in her faith, and the various overtures of marriage which were made to her, forming the chief points of the narrative. An anonymous letter will be found in the Appendix ¶ respecting the suit of Lord Robert Dudley, and curious mention in it of the Queen’s objections to that nobleman; and of a rival suitor in the person of Lord Darnley. This letter is undoubtedly in the handwriting of the Laird of Grange, and the various devices which were adopted to conceal the authorship of the letter and ensure its safe delivery are very remarkable.

At this time the communications between the two Queens are of an interesting and familiar character. Queen Elizabeth's letter of the 15th of October 1562,* respecting a massacre of Protestants in France, is especially valuable; and in the end of the letter is an allusion to a "heart" which Queen Mary had presented to her good cousin; respecting which heart, "adamas in cordis effigiem sculptus, quem Maria Elizabethæ Angliæ misit," some verses may be found among the published editions of the poems of George Buchanan.

It may be sufficient here to say that all the great events in Queen Mary's career are illustrated most profusely in these records: her marriage with Lord Darnley: the murder of Riccio: the alleged implication of John Knox in that dark deed, which, be it observed, is not proved by these State Papers: the murder of Darnley: the hasty marriage with Bothwell: the flight of that murderer: the Queen's imprisonment at Lochleven and subsequent escape: and finally, as regards her career in Scotland, the last stand made by her friends at Langside, and the consequent flight into England. Then comes the long narrative of the Queen's imprisonment in England, with the contemporaneous history of the government of Scotland in her absence by the four successive regents, the Earls of Murray, Lennox, Mar, and Morton, two of whom were assassinated, and the last publicly executed for murder; and then Queen Mary's death at Fotheringay.

King James's reign also presents many events of great interest, such as the mysterious conspiracy against the King's person, alleged, but not proved, to have been contrived by the Earl of Gowry; and the numerous plots and factions which existed at the latter end of that King's reign in Scotland, although his reign was a period comparatively of civilization and peace.

The letters of Queen Elizabeth and Queen Mary may be contrasted profitably, perhaps to the advantage of the latter; the extraordinary epistles of the Queen of England to King James, with that monarch's pedantic replies, throw light upon their respective characters, and will well repay the reader's attention: nor will they be without their use to the philologist.

The correspondence of Queen Elizabeth's statesmen, Lord Burghley, the Earls of Leicester and Sussex, Lord Hunsdon, Sir Francis Walsyngham, and others, will be found to sustain their writers' reputation for ability. The letters of the Earl of Leicester to Sir Nicholas Throckmorton, relating to the detention of Queen Mary at Lochleven by her rebel nobles, may be pointed out as hitherto unknown, and of exceeding interest. The reader's attention is also directed to the extraordinary minuteness and value of the despatches of four gentlemen successively resident in Scotland, the ambassadors and special correspondents of those times,—Thomas Randolphe, Henry Kylligrew, Robert Bowes, and George Nicolson. The letters of the last-mentioned person, in particular, furnish very graphic details of the life and times of King James VI.

Is it too much to say that the history of this not very remote period remains yet to be written? That new biographies of the three personages who stand out most prominently in these pages, viz. Queen Elizabeth, Queen

Mary, and King James, are required? Their letters, and the other documents which relate to them, and which are here described, will furnish ample materials for a fairer and far more agreeable portraiture of the two Queens than has been hitherto presented: a less agreeable, but perhaps a juster one, of King James. A careful perusal of the Calendar may place Queen Elizabeth's conduct to Queen Mary in no unfavourable light, and will remove somewhat of the general impression which exists as to the guilt of Queen Mary.

It is not, however, only as illustrative of affairs of State and the political history of the times, that these records are valuable. They contain much that is exceedingly interesting from the light it throws on the condition of society, and the manners and customs of our ancestors. The laws of the country, and the severity with which they were administered; the condition of the army and navy; the state of science, especially of medical science,—are illustrated by many papers; and a few hints about pictures will interest the lover of the fine arts.

There are also some very curious notices of the contemporary literature of the period. Mention will be found of Miles Coverdale, of Tyndale and of Frith, of Calvin, Beza, Peter Martyr, Hieronymus Cardanus, Bullinger, John Knox (whose name has already been mentioned), Parsons the Jesuit, James Tyrie Knox's opponent, George Buchanan and others. Two letters of Buchanan's, in page 416, may be pointed out especially. Buchanan was Queen Mary's preceptor, and read Livy with her daily, as Mr. Randolphe tells Sir William Cecil, in a letter dated the 7th April 1562.* Subsequently, he was tutor to King James; and that Monarch was more happy, the same ambassador thought, to have had Buchanan for a master than Alexander the Great was to have had Aristotle. An interesting letter will be found from Mr. Kyllgrew to Secretary Walsyngham, (dated June 30th, 1574,*) containing an account of a visit to King James when he was barely eight years old. It is recorded in the letter that the little King made some pretty speeches about the Queen of England; translated a chapter from the Bible from Latin into French and from French into English, extempore; and that his preceptors, Buchanan and Peter Young, made the King dance before the ambassador, which he did with a very good grace. Buchanan's conduct to Queen Mary is illustrated by passages in subsequent letters, and there are some notes about his published works.

Of Thomas Churchyard the poet, the author of "Chips concerning Scotland," (first published in 1575,) a notice will be found,† which seems to confirm the statement of his irregularity of life. The English ambassador resident at the Scottish Court, begs, that his letters may be properly addressed with his full title as ambassador, "to save his throat from cutting, lest he be taken but as a companion of Churchyard's, who is now great at the Court;" and then he asks, "Who was it whom Churchyard slew last?"‡

The attention of the literary antiquary will be arrested by the interesting letter of Mr. Alexander Dicsone,§ evidently a gentleman of taste and education, who appears, like other collectors, to have incurred suspicion by having books and manuscripts in his possession ; and his letter, in which he specifies some of his treasures, preserves to us the title of some of the writings of Sir Philip Sidney. There are also other allusions to Sir Philip Sidney : * one recording his mission to the Court of France in 1584, to condole with the King upon the death of the Duke of Anjou.

Another notice occurs of Mr. Dicsone.† “ There is “ a book in preparation,” writes Mr. George Nicolson, “ of Walter Quin, the Irishman, concerning the King’s “ title to England ; Waldegrave has refused to print it. “ Quin is answering Spenser’s book, whereat the King “ is offended ; and Dixon, that taught the Art of Memory “ in England, is answering Doleman.”‡

The name of Barnaby Rich, “ one of the phalanx of poets “ who united their endeavours under Elizabeth to free the “ Low Countries from the weight of the Spanish yoke,” (among whom were Sir Philip Sidney, Churchyard, and others,) will be found at page 683 of the Calendar. Rich had published various works : among others, “ A right excellent “ and pleasant Dialogue between Mercury and an English “ Souldier, containing his Supplication to Mars, beautified “ with sundry worthy histories, rare inventions, and politike “ devises.” London, 1574, 4to. And in 1581, appeared his “ Straunge and wonderful Adventures of Simonides, a Gentilman Spaniard.” In the same year also was published “ Riche his Farewell to Militarie Profession ; conteinyng

It appears from a letter of Mr. George Nicolson's to Mr. Bowes,* (dated 18th June 1595,) that a later edition of this “Farewell” was published in 1594, which King James evidently thought the first,—an edition which is not mentioned by modern bibliographers; and in the conclusion of this book, called “Rich his Farewell,” writes Mr. Nicolson, “such matter is noted as the King is not pleased “with.” “He says little,” adds the writer very ominously,
 “but thinks the more.” A reference to “The Conclusion” of this curious book will present to the reader the grounds of King James' complaint, and he will find that in a subsequent edition of Rich's book published in 1606, the word “Constantinople” is substituted for “Scotland,” and the name of “the Turk” for that of “the King.”

King James VI's Court was graced very frequently by the presence of men of letters, as these Papers testify, and his Majesty was well supplied with the literature of the day. On the 12th November 1596,† Mr. Bowes writes to Lord Burghley of another insult offered to his Majesty of Scotland: “Great offence hath been conceived by the King “against Master Edmund Spenser, for publishing in print, in “the second part of the Fairy Queen, Chapter 9, some dishonourable effects, as the King deemeth, against himself

says the Ambassador, "about the privilege under which " the book is published, yet he still desireth that " Edmund Spenser for this fault may be duly tried and " punished."

The matter complained of is evidently that contained in Book V. Canto IX., where a prisoner is brought to the bar before Marcella—

"Then was there brought as prisoner to the barre,
 A ladie of great countenance and place,
 But that she it with foule abuse did marre ;
 Yet did appeare rare beautie in her face,
 But blotted with condition vile and base,
 That all her other honour did obscure,
 And titles of nobilitie deface ;
 Yet in that wretched semblant she did sure
 The people's great compassion unto her allure."

In these volumes will be found the description of many ballads, in black letter, and some other printed documents of great rarity, with a few proclamations. There are also numerous notices of authors and books whose names are less well known at the present day than those already mentioned: of Master Quin the Irishman,* for instance, who is writing verses and presenting them to King James,
 to that Monarch's great satisfaction,—verses afterwards published by their author in a "Sertum Poeticum" printed at Edinburgh in 1600: of Henry Constable the author of "Diana, or the excellent conceitfull Sonnets of H. C.," printed at London in 1584, and many others. One notice will be found of the great Lord Bacon,† in a letter of his friend and former companion at the Court of France, Sir Amias Powlet; and there are two paragraphs which probably refer to John Lilly, the dramatist—"Euphues
 "Lilly," called by Blount "the only rare poet of that time,

“ the witty, comical, facetiously quick and unparalleled “ John Lilly.” Some notices of plays and players are very suggestive, while the numerous references to poets and poetry also afford room for speculation. For instance, one William Wilson,* “pretending to be a poet,” was at Edinburgh in 1592. Is some known poet concealed under this name? If so, who is meant?

Frequent allusions are made to other illustrious Englishmen besides those previously noticed : to Sir Francis Drake, for instance, and Sir Walter Raleigh, then in the zenith of his fame, of whom there is curious mention in a letter of Anthony Babington’s, written the day before that traitor’s execution ; and some valuable historical particulars are to be found relating to the trial and execution of the Duke of Norfolk for the contemplated marriage with Queen Mary, and the conspiracies of Parry and Babington against the life of Queen Elizabeth. The genealogist will find numerous pedigrees and carefully compiled lists of the nobility of Scotland of great value, and materials for local history, necessarily very ample as regards Scotland, with some curious notices of a similar character relating to England. The future historian of Staffordshire, for example, will find interest in the full particulars about Tutbury, Chartley, Cannock, Beaudesert, Lichfield, Burton, and other places : and the occasional mention of the gentry, whose descendants still reside in the county, such as the Gresleys, the Bagots, the Pagets, and the Chetwynds.

Some papers of great curiosity about witchcraft will be found in the Calendar ; not the least singular being an account† of a long oration made by King James before the judges of

Scotland in the Tolbooth at Edinburgh, in which he reproves them for their ignorance of the Law in having acquitted some wretched creatures charged with this dark crime, and explains to his officers what a witch, in his opinion, really is. Other strange papers are those which refer to the proposed excommunication of Archbishop Patrick Adamson, partly on account of "some errors noted in his sermons" before the King, as also for his extraordinary favour "towards a witch, in saving her from that due punishment" which should have been inflicted on her.*

The documents described in the Appendix consist of a portion of the so called "Conway Papers," being the State Papers which were formerly in the possession of the Lords Conway, Secretaries of State during the reigns of James I. and Charles I. They are of various dates, and some are of exceeding interest. The correspondence of Sir Nicholas Throckmorton was among these "Conway Papers," and is of much value.

The second series of papers relates to Mary Queen of Scots after her flight from Scotland, and consists of the correspondence which passed between Queen Mary and Queen Elizabeth, and their respective ministers; the reports and letters of the nobles and others who were successively appointed to take charge of the captive Queen; the correspondence of her friends and servants; some of the evidence supposed to have been produced against the Queen at York and elsewhere; the alleged love-letters to the Earl of Bothwell; and a large mass of papers which it is stated were seized in the Queen's apartments at Chartley Castle in 1586, upon the discovery of Babington's conspiracy against Queen Elizabeth. These papers consist chiefly of letters in cipher, with contemporary deciphers, and it is stated that they were written by Queen Mary to foreign princes and divers ecclesiastics and others, her agents abroad, for the re-establishment of the Romish religion in England, and the subversion of the throne of Queen Elizabeth.

The reader's attention is requested not only to the contents of these records, but also to the circumstances under which they are preserved to us. The evidence they contain is all important, there is abundance of insinuation, there is much assertion of guilt, but proof nowhere as far as the compiler has been able to seek it. He wishes therefore to point out, especially, first, that the monstrous letters to Bothwell are not in Queen Mary's handwriting; secondly, that there is not, in the State Papers here described, any one which shows participation on the Queen's part in the murder of Darnley; and, lastly, that all the letters in cipher, above alluded to, profess only to be copies, copies in cipher, and copies deciphered. They are nearly all in the handwriting of one Mr. Thomas Phelippes, a person of much ingenuity and ability in the use of his pen, who was employed by the English ministers to decipher letters. Occasionally he counterfeited them; and his conduct was subsequently investigated and brought to light in the reign of King James. The attention of many readers will be arrested by those passages wherein Mr. Phelippes* and others artfully connect Queen Mary's name with Babington's; and some may wonder, perhaps, what those plans of Mr. Phelippes could have been which the captive Queen's stern keeper, Sir Amias Powlet, dared not put into execution.*

Considerable difficulty has been found in fixing the dates of some of the papers. It must not be assumed that the dates here assigned, are, in all cases, correct. The compiler has done what he could to fix them correctly; but many of the facts mentioned in these letters find no record in the pages of historians; so that he has been without any other guidance than such as was afforded by the documents themselves. It is hoped that none of the papers are materially misplaced; and that if the reader discovers an error, he will attribute it to any cause rather than to a want of due care and attention.

Very difficult was it to determine, in certain cases, whether particular letters should be classed with the Scottish Papers or with those relating to the Borders: and impossible to adhere to the rules of classification usually observed, without depriving many important documents of their greatest interest. The compiler has been allowed therefore occasionally to insert the letters of the Border officers among the Scottish Papers, when those letters referred exclusively to Scottish affairs.

Care has been taken, in describing the contents of the letters, to preserve the language of the original documents as far as was possible; whereby the writers have been left to tell their own stories, and express their own opinions, in their own words. On no occasion have invidious terms been used which do not exist in the letters: and in cases where errors of expression occur, the writers themselves must be held responsible for them. An endeavour, in fact, has been made to preserve in the abstracts the features observable in the entire documents: to retain the vigour and the colour of the originals without distortion or exaggeration.

In conclusion, the compiler desires to testify very gratefully and affectionately his sense of the kindness and efficient help he has received, during the progress of the work, from his friend Robert Lemon, Esq.; in his anxious zeal, and energy in the public service.

- Jan. 22. 12. Queen Margaret to Adam Williamson, Clerk. His counsel Perth. right pleasant if it had been possible to follow it; but the people of that land are so inquisitive, and there are none whom she may trust but her husband [the Earl of Angus] and his uncle.

- July 14. 13. Thomas Lord Dacre of Gillesland to the Privy Council of Eng-Carlisle. land. The Pope's briefs for the Bishop elect of Dunkeld; the King's intercession in his behalf; arrest of the messengers by whom he sent them to Scotland; examination of the Bishop by the Duke of Albany; the archbishopric of St. Andrews obtained by the Bishop of Moray; the Captain of Stirling committed to ward. Incloses,

13. I. Dacre to Queen Margaret. The King's intercession with the Pope in behalf of Mr. Gawen Douglas for the bishopric of Dunkeld. Revocation of the authority of the archbishopric of St. Andrews. Kirkoswald, July 2.

13. II. Dacre to Gawen Douglas, Bishop elect of Dunkeld. Letters from the King; two briefs from the Pope who consents to his appointment to the bishopric; revocation of the Pope's authority to the Archbishop of St. Andrews, who is fled out of Flanders, and is thought to be hidden in Scotland. Kirkoswald, July 2.

13. III. Dacre to Bp. Douglas. To the same effect as the preceding, his communication being repeated on account of the arrest of his servant at Moffat with the former letters. Holme Abbey, July 6.

- July. 14. [Lord Home?] to Lord Dacre. In reply to his letter desiring him to write to the King that he should never be entreated to the Duke's ways; explains why he has not been able to write; and this day they have taken all his places, so that he is "at the point." [Signature torn off.]

VOL. I.

- Aug. 4. Naward. 15. Lord Dacre to the Privy Council. Lord Home fast and sure upon the Queen of Scots' party. Albany set to have the children. Angus charged by the Duke to starve out the Queen at Stirling. Conflict there. The Earl's escape. The Queen's intentions in case of a second attempt. Money wanted for the Earl, &c.
- Aug. 8. Edinburgh. 16. John Duke of Albany to Lord Dacre. Has written lately by Lion King-at-Arms. Begs him to keep good rule until the last of August, when the Commissioners shall be convened.
- Aug. 9. 17. Memorandum of assent given by Lord Dacre to David Purves, at the request of the Duke of Albany, for making redress for slaughters.
- Aug. 10. Edinburgh. 18. Albany to Dacre. Hopes he will persevere in his efforts to preserve peace. Will put a remedy for the three slaughters committed by Scots. Has appointed Lord Maxwell to have the rule of the West Marches and the Laird of Cessford of the Middle Borders. Defends his conduct against Lord Home by reason of his damnable enterprize against the King. Denies that he has usurped the King's authority.
- Aug. 10. Edinburgh. 19. Albany to Dacre. Requests credence for Thomas Fasintoun, one of his chaplains, whom he has instructed to shew him certain things in his name.
- Aug. 12. Harbottle. 20. Dacre to Albany. In respect to his appointment of Lord Maxwell and the Laird of Cessford to have rule on the Borders. Approves his choice of the former, but cannot and will not meet the latter. Has consented to the convening of the Commissioners on a deferred day. Reported assembly of forces in Scotland to besiege Berwick.
- Aug. 13. Harbottle. 21. Dacre to Albany. The comprehension last made is not likely to be kept. Sorry for his displeasure against Lord Home. Deprecates the assembling of forces on the Borders as likely to cause unkindness betwixt the realms, and to be chargeable to the King, his master.
- Aug. 14. Edinburgh. 22. Albany to Dacre. Desires that the comprehension may be augmented by all good and honest means. Cessford not likely to take any revenge for the murder of his father by Englishmen. Has assembled his forces to chastise the Chamberlain, and in the execution of the King's service shall raise forces as often as need requires; but has suspended the assembly, the Chamberlain having surrendered his places into his hands.
- Aug. 17. Harbottle. 23. Dacre to Albany. The comprehension must be augmented by the King of England and his Council. Must be content with the appointment of Cessford. Glad that he has suspended the assembly. If he send Mons. de Villebresme to the French King, prays God that he will also send to King Henry, as his Highness regards his nephew of Scotland marvellously.

24. Margaret Queen of Scotland to King Henry VIII. Certain things which she has done contrary to his pleasure. Determination of Parliament respecting the custody of the King and his brother, her sons. Is deliberate to take one part with her cousin [Albany], but begs he [King Henry] will send some wise man to make a 'sicker' way betwixt them. Intends to take to her chamber within twelve days, as she has not past eight weeks to her time.

Aug. 22.
Edinburgh.

25. Queen Margaret to King Henry. Received his letter by the French messenger. Thanks for his good mind. The Duke of Albany so set to peace that he will come to England himself to bring it to a good end. Wishes some wise man were sent there to consider how the peace may be sickrest made.

Aug. 29.

29. Albany to the Duke of Suffolk. The hindrance to the comprehension made by the Borderers. Has instructed the bearer Rougecroix to show the King his mind and intention, and begs to know the King's pleasure in return. •

Oct. 14.
Edinburgh.

30. Albany to Cardinal Wolsey. The hindrance made by the Borderers. He himself will be found applicable in all good and honourable ways towards the entertainment of the comprehension.

Dec. 27.
Edinburgh.

31. Albany to Lord Dacre. Understanding the King's opinion of their labours, and being about to send to him again, they wish information about the diet appointed at Carlisle, that it may be held after the receipt of the King's answer, if it be necessary.

Dec. 28.
Morpeth.

32. Christopher Garneys to Henry VIII. Removal of the Queen of Scots; her feebleness. Scottish visitors. The Lord Chamberlain's devotion to the King. The stuff sent to the Queen of Scots by King Henry. An ambassador from the Duke of Albany. Magnificence of Lord Dacre's arrangements in honour of the Queen of Scots. Her excessive weakness and marvellous mind upon her apparel; gowns of cloth of gold and silk; more wanted. Death of the Prince.

VOL. I.

Jan. 6.
Morpeth.

33. Lord Dacre and Dr. Tho. Magnus to Henry VIII. Great infirmity of the Queen of Scots; if she were recovered of her ache she would be strong enough to stir, sit up, stand and go, which she cannot do at this time. Requests the speedy sending of another physician.

April 11.
Berwick.

34. Sir Anthony Ughtredd, Captain of Berwick, to Wolsey. His reception of the Scotch ambassadors. Whatsoever the King shall require they dare in no wise deny, being so timorous and dreadful of his displeasure.

* April 18.
Edinburgh.

35. Albany to Dacre. In reply to his letter, stating that he is not bound to abstain from making any invasion into Scotland, if his Sovereign commands it. Will not enter upon the subject until the coming of his secretary, Jean de Barbon, who, he hears, has been taken at sea by Englishmen.

April 18.

36. Duke of Albany's instructions to Unicorn Pursuivant, of matters to be declared to Lord Dacre; of the proposed truce; Ambassadors to be sent to England, &c.

April 21.
Whittingham.

37. Dacre to Albany. Strange that he makes new overtures every time he writes. The affairs of Scotland cannot be mixed with those of France. Has no power to arrange for any cessation of war at this time. Marvels that he gives credence to such light tales as that about De Barbon.

Oct. 20.
Edinburgh.

38. Albany to Cardinal Wolsey. Being sure of his aid in maintaining peace between the two realms, sends him a letter respecting the late attempts on the Borders, which he cannot conjecture can proceed of aught else than the evil mind of those who have the rule on the English side.

Oct.

39. Cardinal Wolsey to Queen Margaret. The persons whom Lord Dacre had sent into Scotland for her conjunct feoffment, jewels, plate, and stuff have been well received by the Duke of Albany.

Dec. 1.
Harbottle.

40. Dacre to Wolsey. Albany's favourable reception of the King's letters. His willingness to visit the King on his way to France. Meeting with the Scottish Commissioners at Morpeth. Abstinence agreed upon. Border garrisons, &c.

Jan. 1.
Edinburgh.

41. James Betoun, Archbishop of Glasgow, Chancellor of Scotland, to Wolsey. Understands his good, true, and constant mind towards peace and amity between England and Scotland. The Governor is set all ways for peace, and he himself will do his poor "davour" thereto.

[Feb.]

42. Certain articles concerning the King of England's mind and pleasure, to be declared to the Duke of Albany by Clarenceux King-at-Arms. King Henry's consent to see the Duke of Albany. The Duke's request for the King's acknowledgment of his title as Governor of Scotland. The truce to be void in case the Duke refuses to come to the King's presence, &c.

VOL. I.

March 13. 43. Archbishop Betoun to Cardinal Wolsey. Received his letters Edinburgh. by Clarenceux, by which he understands his noble, good, and constant mind to the continuance of peace; refers to Clarenceux, and begs he will continue in the same mind henceforward.
- March 17. 44. Thomas Benolt, Clarenceux, to Wolsey. Reports his proceed-Carlisle. ings with the Duke of Albany and Council of Scotland respecting the prorogation [prolongation of truce], and the desired provision for the Queen of Scotland. They swear many great oaths that her Grace shall be right heartily welcome, and that the Duke and all the nobles will meet her.
- [April 6.] 45. James V., King of Scotland. Safe conduct, as amended in England, for his mother, Queen Margaret, to come into Scotland, and to enjoy all the revenues, profits, and emoluments of her dowry.
- [April 6.] 46. The additional article to the above safe conduct, as suggested in England, in case the Queen do any offence in Scotland. With a note at the foot, in the hand of Queen Margaret, promising obedience.
- [April 15.] 47. Clarenceux to Lord Dacre. The provision for the Queen or Scots granted, and the letters of prorogation. Robin Car is the man who hath given the Queen the worst advisement. The truce to be published to day.
- April 15. 48. Duke of Albany to Dacre. Thanks for his good mind towards Holyrood. the tranquillity between the two realms. Requests him to deliver up George Home, the Prior his brother, and their accomplices.
- April 16. 49. Archbishop Betoun to Wolsey. Return of Clarenceux to Edinburgh. England. Himself and Albany always set for the continuance of peace.
- April 17. 50. Dacre to Albany. Knows not where Geo. Home and his Naward. brother the Prior are. Will not receive the bastard son of the Chamberlain without the Duke's leave.
- April 17. 51. Dacre to Wolsey. Clarenceux to return to Scotland. The Naward. safe conduct for the Queen. Truce proclaimed. A book which he has drawn up for the defence of the Marches. Arms brought into Scotland. The Duke's intention to remove the King. Angus sent for by the Duke, &c.
- May 28. 52. George Talbot, Earl of Shrewsbury, to Wolsey. Letters from Doncaster. the Queen of Scots to the King's Highness. Her journeys and sickness. The custody of Sir Richard Bosom, who is unquiet and unwell in his mind.
- July 26. 53. Duke of Albany to Wolsey. Sends the request for the safe Dieppe. conduct for their ambassadors. The fault can only be that of the scribe. Glad that the King knows that it was no fault of his that he did not pay his reverence to him, as well as for that which he told Malyne respecting the prorogation of the truce. Fr.
- Aug. 7. 54. Queen Margaret to Henry VIII. The King, her son, fares Edinburgh. well and is in good health. Requests a passport for Marchmont Herald to go to France.

SCOTLAND—HENRY VIII.

Vol. I.

1517.
Aug. 18. Dundee. 55. Archbishop Betoun to Cardinal Wolsey. Received his letters by Clarendieux. Beseeches him to nourish tranquillity between the realms, as well for the honour of the King as the Governor, who is set and given all ways towards it.
March 5. Harbottle. 56. Lord Dacre to Wolsey. Evil treatment of the Queen of Scots; her safe conduct; her plate and jewels in pledge. Renunciation of all right to her property by Angus. Necessity of helping her.
- June 8. Harbottle. 57. Dacre to Wolsey. Arrest of the French Orator by David Home. Expedience of the latter having his pardon. The Queen lies in Edinburgh like a poor suitor. Strength of Wark Castle, &c.
- July 25. Cawmyllis. 58. David Howin, of Wedderburn, to Wolsey. Being a banished man, on account of his trouble and business, he has taken the Orator of France as a means for obtaining pardon. Lord Dacre, however, having laboured for the release of this Orator, he cannot hold him, but sends him up with his brother Alexander Home; and as he cannot depend on the Duke of Albany nor the Lords of Scotland, who slew Lord Home, requests that intercession may be made to the King of England for the pardon of himself and his family.
- Sept. 4. Edinburgh. 59. King James V. to King Henry VIII. Requests a passport for John ———, with a ship of 100 tons, to trade to England. [Signed, JAMES, Chancellor.]
[Nov.] 60. The first article of a treaty of truce between England and Scotland for a year. Lat.
- [Nov.] 61. Translation of the same.
- [Nov.] 62. Another article, probably of the same treaty.
1520.
Nov. 16. Edinburgh. 63. King James V. to Lord Dacre. The truce expiring on the Feast of St. Andrew, and, as he may not easily at this time send an Ambassador to England, requests him to procure a commission, with sufficient authority for the continuation of the truce.
- Nov. 22. Harbottle. 64. Dacre to King James. No time to get the commission required. Had asked for the names of Ambassadors in July. Sees no remedy now but that one of his Grace's Council should meet him on Tuesday or Wednesday, in the Middle Marches, and take an abstinence for a month.
- Nov. 24. Edinburgh. 65. John Campbell to Lord Dacre. Is appointed by the Lords of Council to meet him. As the weather is bad, begs that he will be in Ridenfurd on Thursday.

VOL. I.

Nov. 25. 66. King James V. Letters patent, appointing Thomas, Abbot of Edinburgh. Kelso, his Commissioner, to treat with Lord Dacre for continuation of the peace with England. Lat.

Nov. 27. 67. King James to Lord Dacre. Master John Campbell, of Edinburgh. Thornton, should have passed towards him for the prorogation of the truce; but through certain urgent causes, and especially the arrival of the Sieur D'Aubigny and M. de Planis, from France, the Abbot of Kelso and Master Thomas Nudry are appointed in his stead.

Nov. 27. 68. Mons. Jehan de Planis, French Ambassador in Scotland, to Dunbar. Dacre. Urges the prolongation of the truce between England and Scotland. Fr.

Nov. 29. 69. "Copie of the Mynet of Abstinence" [between England and Scotland], "to endure unto the furste daye of January."

Nov. 30. 70. Lord Dacre to M. de Planis. Expresses satisfaction at his Harbottle. arrival in Scotland, and informs him that a new abstinence has been taken until the 1st of January.

Nov. 30. 71. Dacre to the Treasurer of Scotland [John Campbell].
Harbottle. So many names are put in the safe conduct, that it is thought they will send but light personages to make requisition to the King of England for peace. Recommends that six only be named, two bishops, two lords, and two clerks, and one of each of these to be selected by the King and Council.

Dec. 6. 72. Jehan de Planis to Lord Dacre. Satisfaction at the proro-Edinburgh. gation of the peace. Suggests its further prorogation for four or five months. Hopes that arrangements will be made for the settlement of the Border matters.

Dec. 6. 73. John Campbell to Dacre. Explains the reasons on account Edinburgh. of which the names of so many persons were set down in the safe conduct. Thinks the abstinence too short, and prays a further prorogation.

Dec. 1. 74. Duke of Albany to the Cardinal of Ancona. In commendation Stirling Castle. of James, Archbishop of Glasgow, whom he nominates and recommends to the office of Archbishop of St. Andrews, vacant by the death of Andrew Forman. Lat.

Dec. 1. 75. Albany to the Senate of Cardinals. To the same effect as the Stirling. preceding. Lat.

Dec. 9. 76. James V. to Henry VIII. Requests safe conduct for Walter, Edinburgh. Abbot of Glenluce, and twelve in his company, to come to England to his Majesty. Signed by Albany.

Dec. 10. 77. Albany to King Henry. Informs him of his arrival in Edinburgh. Scotland on the 18th of November. Has made reverence to the Queen, and assures him of his intention to preserve the peace between the two kingdoms. Fr.

VOL. I.

Dec. 10. 78. Duke of Albany to Katharine Queen of England. His arrival in Edinburgh. Scotland; his intention to maintain peace. His Secretary sent to the Catholic King, her nephew, whose mission he begs she will aid. Fr.

Dec. 10. 79. Albany to Cardinal Wolsey. Requests him to inform the King Edinburgh. of his arrival, and to assure him that he is come solely for the desire he has to do service to the King his nephew, and the Queen his sister. Fr.

Dec. 11. 80. Albany to Wolsey. The King of England's orders for the Edinburgh. reformation of the disorders on the Borders. If matters depended on himself, they would serve not only for the good of those countries, but of all Christianity. The letter demanded by Clarencieux is inconsistent with his honour. Is willing to give the Earl of Angus leave to visit the Queen, &c. Fr.

Dec. 16. 81. Albany to Henry VIII. Requests safe conduct for John Edinburgh. Duncanson, clerk, to pass into England and beyond sea.

Dec. 24. 82. Gawin Douglas Bishop of Dunkeld to Cardinal Wolsey.
Waltham Cross. Informs him of his arrival in England as Ambassador from the Earl of Angus and the Lords of Scotland. Requests his favourable aid.

Dec. 31. 83. Bp. Douglas to Wolsey. Informs him that Walter, Commen-London. dator of the Abbey of Glenluce and Secretary to the Duke of Albany, accompanied by Ross, Herald, and Carrick, Pursuivant, and their servants, have come to London. Requests he may have audience of the King as soon as they have, as he might give His Majesty some information concerning them.

Jan. 21. 84. Sir Anth. Ughtredd to Wolsey. Informs him that the Duke of Berwick. Albany has taken the castle of Tantallon from the Earl of Angus, and has in his company the Earls of Huntly, Argyle, Arran, Lennox, and others, to the number of 7 Earls; and that the Earl of Angus has come in and submitted to Albany, contrary to his oath on the Evangelists to Lord Dacre. Has raised 250 men to defend Berwick, 150 of whom he has since discharged. The Abbot of St.
Mary is lately dead.

Jan. 31. 85. Bp. Douglas to Wolsey. So full of vehement annoy that The Inn of Carlisle. he dare not come to his presence. Begg's compassion, as he has erred for those who have now wrought their own perpetual shame. Is weary of his life. Promises not to take part with Albany nor Angus, or to go to Scotland. Alludes to a design of the Duke to marry the Queen. Hopes he shall see him punished, &c.

Feb. 15. 86. Dacre to Wolsey. At the coming of Clarencieux, diets were Norham. appointed to be held, at which it was declared by the Scottish Commissioners, that until they were sure of peace there should be no redress. Clarencieux has uttered his credence to the Queen, the Duke, and the estates in open Parliament; and the Duke is resolved to remain in Scotland.

VOL. I.

- March 14. 87. Lord Dacre to Cardinal Wolsey. The French King's servant
Norham Castle. conducted to Scotland. Departure of Angus and his brother for France. Begs him to write to the Pope in favour of the Bishop of Dunkeld, for the Archbishopric of St. Andrews.
- March 22. 88. Dacre to Wolsey. Has received his Grace's letters, dated Norham. Feb. 20, about the King of France sending a gentleman with letters to Albany, directing him to go to France; which gentleman arrived at Berwick on Thursday, March 6, and from thence had been conveyed into Scotland. The Duke has summoned the Estates to meet him.
- March 30. 89. Duke of Albany to Wolsey. Requests a passport for Edinburgh. Champagne, Officer at Arms of France, to pass from Dover to Boulogne. Fr.
- March. 90. Instructions from Henry VIII. to John Kite, Bishop of Carlisle, to join Lord Dacre as his Counsellor and Treasurer, in the payment of the garrison, as well as for rewards to be paid to the gentlemen of the Borders who shall do the King acceptable service in resistance of the authority of the Duke of Albany.
- July 3. 91. Dacre to Wolsey. Has received his letters ordering him Norham. to repair to the King's presence, which he could not do at that present, the Duke of Albany being on the Borders with his army unskaled.
- July 30. 92. Instructions from Henry VIII. to the Earl of Shrewsbury, his Highness' Lieutenant General in the North. To repair to York and assemble troops to resist any invasion of England by the Duke of Albany.
- [August.] 93. Albany to the Captain of Berwick [Sir Ant. Ughtredd]. The man to whom he had sent Clarendieu's letters has seen them, and requests the safe conduct for two reasons: one, to know the date of the letters; the other, to know what surety there would be, as Carrick, a Pursuivant, had lately been arrested by Lord Dacre. He wishes also to know if Dacre has power to make truce or abstinence of war.
- [August.] 94. Ughtredd to Albany. The safe conduct is in his hands, and he will insert what names he wishes. Will show the King's safe conduct to any trusty and secret servant that Albany will send.
- August 19. 95. Ughtredd to Wolsey. The Duke of Albany is not coming in Berwick. person to Berwick, but has sent the Lord Fleming and two Earls with great power, towards the Borders, under pretence of seizing the Lord Chamberlain and destroying his lands. Warrant for money for the Abbot of St. Mary's to Wm. Pawne or Geo. Lawson.

- August 27. 96. Albany to Ughtredd. Seeing the ill treatment that Carrick Edinburgh. received, he will not trust any of his servants into England; but, for the esteem he bears him, has sent a Herald to receive the safe conduct. Requests answer to that part of his first letter relative to Dacre's powers.
- August 29. 97. Ughtredd to Albany. Cannot answer for any other man's Berwick. deeds, and Dacre must answer about Carrick. Cannot send the safe conduct for reasons specified, but sends a true copy, and will deliver the original to those who should come to Berwick. Dacre has full power to take abstinence of war and peace.
- August 30. 98. Albany to Ughtredd. Is satisfied with the explanations in Edinburgh. his last letter; and when he has received answer from the Queen's Grace, and understood her intention, he will act accordingly.
- Sept. 3. 99. Ughtredd to Albany. Clarencieux has procured the safe Berwick. conduct. Begs to know whether he will have it or not in such manner as he has explained in his former letters.
- [Sept.] Cardinal Wolsey to Albany. Truce procured by mediation of the Queen of Scots for a month, which is rather displeasing than acceptable to the King, who was desirous to have tried his righteous quarrel, with the aid of God, by force of battle. And albeit he [Albany] threatens vengeance, yet God is so equal that he often averteth it to the necks of them that intend it.
- October 8. 100. Albany to Dacre. Requests that the bearers, Sir James Edinburgh. Cocks and Alex. Mure, who are going into Flanders for redress on both sides, for ships, merchandize, and gear taken, may have sure passage, &c. according to their safe conduct.
- October 14. 101. Dacre to Albany. In reply to his request for further absti-Hexham. nence, advises the sending of some honourable Lord to meet them of the part of England. Suggests the prolongation of the truce for a complete month, and requests a meeting at Coldstream for the settlement of Border matters.
- October 17. 102. Albany to Dacre. Sends the bearer with copy of his letters Edinburgh. to Wolsey. Begs him to help the peace.
- Dec. 18. 103. Archbishop Betoun to Dacre. Received his letters. Thanks Stirling. him for his good will therein expressed. The Lords have gladly accepted the prorogation of peace lately sent by the Ambassadors and Clarencieux, and seals shall be interchanged accordingly.

[Feb.]

I. King Henry VIII. to James V. Having demanded restitution of certain spoil, and such spoil being justified by his Council, fears that he shall be enforced to cause such things to be done, whereof, for the love he bears him, he will be right sorry; but begs he will attribute the same to his own Governors and Council.

Feb. 11. 2. Captain David Falconnar to [the Earl of Surrey]. Recommends Harling. a Captain of Lanceknights, Zownkarskep van Geyssindam, in case his Lordship takes any men of war into Scotland.
- March 25. 3. Queen Margaret to Surrey. Being informed that he is come to the Borders, requests his protection of the Prioress of Coldstream, who is nearest the skaith, and whose place has been troubled divers times before.
- [March.] 4. Thomas Howard Earl of Surrey to Cardinal Wolsey. Arrangements for an invasion into Scotland with ten thousand men. Expects Lord Dacre to-night, and Sir Wm. Bulmer to-morrow, who has invaded the Merse, and of whom, he trusts, they shall hear of a good journey. Thinks the fault of the misorder of the men of war rests with Madyson of Hull.
- April 10. 5. Surrey to Wolsey. Will keep his letter secret. Nine ships gone Newcastle. to fetch the Duke of Albany. Sir Anthony Poynter had need have 12 or 14 sail to intercept him.
- April 13. 6. Sir Anthony Ughtredd to Surrey. The Earls of Huntly, Berwick. Argyle, and Lennox are gone to Edinburgh to hold a Parliament there. Lord Hamilton is sent to Wedderburne for fear the Englishmen enter suddenly. Recommends his Lordship to come with a great number.
- April 15. 7. Surrey to Wolsey. Remonstrates that letters of thanks have Newcastle. been sent from the King to Sir Wm. Bulmer and others for their conduct in the late rode into Scotland, but that many other and higher noblemen and gentlemen, whom he names, and who have done equal service, have been entirely overlooked. Requests that a son of the late Lord Montegale may marry one of his [Surrey's] daughters.
- May 10. 8. William Sabin to Surrey. Operations with the fleet. Fru-Skate Road. strated intention to burn Tantallon and Kilkhorn; a fight at the latter place. Bombardment of Leith. Chace and boarding of a ship of Copman haven [Copenhagen]. Had he had two good ships to have landed 500 men, he would have burnt half a dozen good villages, as they stand very well and near the water side.
- May 21. 9. Surrey to Wolsey. Informs him that at the last journey the Ainwick. people of the Bishoprick had done good service, and he should pay them 6d. per day. Requests answer to the articles contained in the King's letter, and to know where he shall remain. The Lord Warden is coming up to his Grace.
- Aug. 14. 10. Surrey to Wolsey. The King's commands for the burning of Newcastle. Jedworth; want of powder and shot. Great divisions among the gentry. Border thieves.
- Sept. 2. 11. Surrey to Henry VIII. Has arrested several thieves of Newcastle. Ridsdale and Tindale, and put James Dod, of the Burn-mouth, to execution. Others of the prisoners have been rescued by Lord Dacre's tenants.

VOL. II.

Sept. 4. Newcastle. 12. Surrey to Wolsey. Reported alteration in the mind of the Queen of Scots, by reason of gifts from the Frenchmen. Probability of the Lords' consent to the King's removal. The King says he will no longer be confined, and struck a gentleman with a dagger who contraried his opinion. The bad feeling towards the Duke of Albany. Want of ordnance.
- [Sept. 4.] 13. "Newes oute of Scotland." A longer respite desired for the Duke's coming refused by the Lords. The Government to be committed to four Temporal Lords. The Duke dispatched from France with a great power. His threats to give battle to England. The King's dissatisfaction with him.
- Sept. 17. Morpeth. 14. Surrey to Wolsey. Letters from the Queen of Scots, one of which was devised by the Lords, and not to be credited. Promises from the Homes and Douglas to support the King; expedience of having them into England. Incloses,
14. I. Earl of Surrey to Queen Margaret. Letters to her from King Henry. The King of Scots put to some liberty; his prosperous estate. Peace will never be till the nobles abandon the Duke, and till that is done the King will not desist to make war with Scotland. [This letter was to be "shewed to the Lords of Scotland." The following was private.] Morpeth [Sept. 16.]
14. II. Surrey to Queen Margaret. If she takes the King out on Monday or Tuesday she can do nothing more for his Grace's surety; the sooner she causes the Lords to send for peace the better. [Sept. 16.]
- Oct. 1. Newcastle. 15. Surrey to Queen Margaret. Has received her letters by Patrick Sinclair, and his instructions, the copies of which he has sent to the King. Begs her to persist in the noble and virtuous mind she is in, and to trust nothing to the Duke or Frenchmen.
- Oct. 1. Newcastle. 16. Surrey to Wolsey. Requests to be discharged of his office after this brunt is passed, when the Duke shall have essayed all he can. The country being in such good order through his rule, that all the thieves are gone to rob about London. Recommends Lord Dacre as his successor.
- Oct. 3. Newcastle. 17. Surrey to Wolsey. A right good journey made by Bulmer and Eure into Scotland. Two other good rodes. Hourly expectation of the Duke's invasion, with the help of the Frenchmen.
- Oct. 18. Norham. 18. Sir William Bulmer to Surrey. News from spies. The Duke keeps his journey, hath sent part of his ordnance, and is coming to Wark.
- Oct. 19. Norham. 19. Bulmer to Surrey. News from a spy. The Duke's ordnance sent forward to Lauder. Albany's doubts about the Earl's [Surrey's] fighting him. The King viewed the ordnance. Carts with swords on either side. A foray expected.

VOL. II.

- Oct. 19. 20. Queen Margaret to the Earl of Surrey. Sends letters and requests a good and honest answer, that the Governor may see her writings are taken thankfully, and that the King, her brother, will do more for her than any other.
- Oct. 19. 21. Surrey to Wolsey. Thanks for letters; will do his best, and fears nothing but that the Scots will not dare join in battle. News from Scottish spies as to the Duke's movements.
- Oct. 20. 22. Sir Wm. Bulmer to Surrey. News from a spy. Huntly's and Lennox's excuses for not joining the Duke. The Duke's preparations for battle. New guns in carts, &c.
- Oct. 22. 23. Bulmer to Surrey. The Queen of Scots will send to him tomorrow. Sandy Trotter and another Trotter are coming to him, both of whom are spies of the Duke, and not to be trusted.
- Oct. 24. 24. Bulmer to Surrey. The Duke of Albany the night previous was at Hadington, and it was uncertain whether he would go to Wark or Berwick. One of Bulmer's spies taken. Requests directions if the Duke should go to Berwick and not to Norham.
- [Oct.] 25. Queen Margaret to Patrick Sinclair. Adam Dundas gone to England with the French King's Great Seal. Dreads treason. Prays him to keep this letter secret. [Subscribed "Yours ze wyte."]
- Nov. 1. 26. Surrey to the Prior and Chancellor of Durham. Thanks them Holy Island. for apprehending the person that called himself the Duke of Albany's brother. Draws near the enemy to-morrow, but fears they will not stay to meet him.
- [Nov. 3 & 4.] 27. Surrey to Wolsey. Shameful entry and flight of the Duke of Albany. Want of money. The good service of the nobles and others who have attended him. Begs to be discharged, and recommends Lord Dacre as his successor.
- Nov. 5. 28. Surrey to Wolsey. Names of gentlemen to whom he recommends the King's thanks. Shameful departure of the Duke of Albany. Reproaches of the Scottish gentlemen. Good conduct of the soldiers.
- Nov. 7. 29. Surrey to Wolsey. Money wanted for the garrisons. Arrangements for invasions twice a fortnight. The Duke the worst spoken-of man that ever was. Begs to be discharged, and recommends Lord Dacre as his successor. A general Council summoned by the Duke at Edinburgh.
- Nov. 10. 30. Queen Margaret to Surrey. Expresses her desire to make a peace between the realms; begs him to assist her, and requests that for her sake he will grant an abstinence from war for three or four months.

VOL. II.

- 1523.
- Nov. 10. 31. Queen Margaret to Surrey. Requests a safe conduct for her servant, John Cantley, to come to him, and speak the errands she has charged him with.
- Nov. 11. 32. Anthony Ughtredd to Surrey. Arrival of James Dogge, a messenger from the Queen of Scots, who requested a safe conduct for Master John Cantley.
- Nov. 13. 33. Surrey to Wolsey. The army paid and fully contented, there being 900 horsemen and 700 footmen, besides 300 at Berwick. Requests that Dr. Magnus may have leave to go to London. Relates money matters and the persons and companies discharged, viz. Sir Edwd. Ringley, Wm. Pawne, Tho. Atelyf, Edw. Madyson, and others. Received letters from the Queen of Scots for safe conduct for John Cantley, who is coming to him; his object supposed to be for negotiating a peace. Divers French ships of war on the coast.
- Nov. 19. 34. Surrey to Wolsey. Has taken order between the Lord Dacre, Sir Wm. Bulmer, and Sir Wm. Eure, Lieutenants of the Marches, for the good rule and governance of the same. Recommends that Sir Wm. Heron should be appointed Sheriff of Northumberland.
- [Nov. 24.] 35. Queen Margaret to Surrey. John Cantley coming to him Stirling. again, for whom she requests a safe conduct. Begs answer to a former letter, and good words for the Prioress of Coldstream.
- Nov. 28. 36. Surrey to Wolsey. Letter from Sir John Bulmer, by which it Newcastle. appeared the Duke of Albany intended to make a marriage between the Scottish King and the French King's daughter. The French Ambassador, with 500 or 600 men on board ships endeavouring to pass to France, has been driven back by contrary wind. Requests they may be looked out for between Dover and Calais, as they surely will pass with the first fair wind.
- Dec. 2. 37. Queen Margaret to Albany. Received his letter and fair words by M. de Gonzolles; when his deeds and his words are all one she will thank him. Complains of the Lords' decision that she should not abide with her son. They have done her the greatest displeasure, but she sees her reward, and trusts to God for help in her just quarrels and causes.
- Dec. 2. 38. Surrey to Wolsey. Letters from the Queen of Scots, that Newcastle. she was put from the person of the King, her son. Albany thought to be going to France, and that he intends to take the young King with him. If Albany does not go, he will be poisoned.
- Dec. 5. 39. Surrey to Wolsey. Has received letters countermanding his Tuxford. return and ordering him stay at Newcastle; has consequently sent back his retinue, but he himself must prosecute his journey to London, for reasons which he specifies.
- Dec. 27. Dacre to the Duke of Albany. Sends back Carrick, Pursuivant, Morpeth. with an answer to some proposals for a universal peace. Will put his own effectual endeavour to help it. [See 1524, Jan. 8.]

41. Queen Margaret to the Earl of Surrey. Received his letters by Master John Cantley. Visit of the Governor and Lords to the King, her son. Her complaint to them that the King was taken from her custody; the Governor's explanation; her consent to the arrangement. The Lords refuse consent to the Governor's going to France; supposed reason for their doing so. The vacant benefices. The Lords wish her away from her son, and refuse her permission to coin gold or silver to pay her expenses. The King of England must help her. The Lords suspect that she will take her son into England. Thanks for 200 marks. If it were not for her brother's help she should be constrained to leave the kingdom. Has refused a pension offered by the French Ambassador.

Norham. who is about to meet certain Lords in Galloway, in secret, and she trusts they will take the King her son's part.
- July 7. 58. Stephen Gardynere to Wolsey. Arrangements for supply of Barnet. money to the Earl of Angus. The King thinks Master Ratclyff a very meet personage to go to Scotland. The Earl is to come to Barnet to take leave.
- July 17. 59. Dacre to Wolsey. Letters between Queen Margaret and Morpeth. King Henry VIII. The letter sent from King Henry to the King of Scots by the friar. The Chancellor's consent to the taking forth of the young King. Conditions on which the Queen will mediate for Angus.
- July 19. 60. Duke of Norfolk to Wolsey. Letters from the Queen of Scots and Dacre. Probabilities of the King's being at liberty.
The Chancellor very subtle. The Queen not joyful about Angus' coming. If he (Norfolk) may at once go on to Newcastle, the King's party will be the bolder.

VOL. II.

July 24. 61. Archibald Douglas, Earl of Angus, to Cardinal Wolsey.
Jedburgh. Letters from King Henry by Clarencieux. The whole authority of the realm put into the hands of King James. Shall be diligent and afraid to him. Offers his service whenever it shall please his Grace [Wolsey] to charge his simplicity.
- August 5. 62. King James V. to King Henry VIII. Thanks for his letter
Edinburgh. and kindness. Has well weighed his letter; and, following his advice, has taken upon himself, with the help of his mother, the government of his realm, and expelled all authority of the Duke of Albany.

October 3. 27. King Henry VIII. to King James V. Credential letter for Southampton. Mr. Barlo, Prior of Bisham, instructed in certain great and weighty causes in his behalf.

Dec. 11. 28. Henry Lord Methven to Mr. Sec. Crumwell. Requests that Edinburgh. the King of England may be assured of his willingness to do him service before all princes in the world, saving only the King of Scotland His Highness's nephew.

Dec. 12. 29. Queen Margaret to Henry VIII. In respect to the desired Edinburgh. meeting between His Grace and her son, who will not only visit him, but loves him better nor any man living next himself, and will take his part against all living creatures. She, his sister, has been the labourer hereof, he is her only brother, and she is his only sister, and since so it is she hopes that no divorce or contrary may have place.

Dec. 12. 30. Queen Margaret to Crumwell. Details her efforts in respect Edinburgh. of the proposed meeting between her son and King Henry. The King her son's long journey to give audience to the Ambassadors; her own journey in very bad weather. The King's consent to the meeting. The opposition made in a sermon by a black friar, whom she will remember.

[Dec. 12.] 31. Queen Margaret to the Duke of Norfolk. Informs him of her efforts in respect of the Ambassadors Barlow and Holcroft, who have had audience and received answers in conformity with their wishes.

Dec. 12. 32. Adam Otterburn to Crumwell. Was handled with a sudden Edinburgh. soreness on his knee, so that he could not do fit service to the King of England's Ambassadors. Thinks them honourable personages; and though they could not agree concerning the authority of the Pope and Kirkmen, yet he knows the King will keep the treaty.

May 19. 57. Bishop Stewart to Mr. Sec. Crumwell. Commends Lord Jedburgh. Howard. The King will do what is desired by the King of England as to the Sheriff of Linlithgow, but he must first be reconciled by the Pope.
- May 20. 58. King James V. to King Henry VIII. Explains respecting the Linlithgow. proposed interview between them. Denies that he ever agreed to meet at York, and his Council are not willing he should go farther into England than to Newcastle. Will believe nothing but that he is his most faithful and kind uncle.
- May 20. 59. Duplicate of the preceding letter.
Linlithgow.
- May 23. 60. Bishop Barlo to Crumwell. Has stayed after my Lord's Edinburgh. departure at the request of the Queen, who hopes to receive some relief of her sorrow; but it will be no more unpleasant for him to depart than it was for Lot to pass out of Sodom.
- May 25. 61. Queen Margaret to Henry VIII. Lord William Howard and Edinburgh. the Bishop will inform him of everything. All came not to purpose as they intended. Entreats his remembrance in the matters regarding herself.
- May 25. 62. Queen Margaret to Crumwell. Begs that he will be her good Edinburgh. friend in certain private matters, of which she has written by Lord William.
- June 10. 63. Henry VIII. to James V. In reply to his letter, of a right Westminster. loving sort and fashion, which contains, nevertheless, a certain argument and disputation respecting their deferred interview: yet he shall accomplish as much friendship towards him as he himself promises. Refers to Sir Adam Otterburn.
- July 18. 64. Queen Margaret to Henry VIII. Will remain in Scotland according to his advice. Is in great distress on account of debts contracted in preparing for her proposed journey to England, and requests his assistance.
- July. 65. Queen Margaret to Henry VIII. Beseeches him to help her and not let her be dishonoured, and earnestly requests answer in these her most weighty matters.
- [August.] 66. Henry VIII. to Queen Margaret. Surprised at her application for money considering how liberally their father, King Henry VII., had provided for her at her marriage. The things procured by her for the interview are such as may be restored to the owners.

Amiens. France. The Scottish King is at Rouen, where he intends going to-morrow to deliver his instructions.
- April 24. 5. Queen Margaret to King Henry VIII. Having got no answer to Edinburgh. her letters sent by Mr. Sadleyr, thinks he has forgotten her affairs.
The King purposes to return soon, and has written in her behalf to the Lords there.
- May 14. Lord Privy Seal [Crumwell] to Queen Margaret. Has travailed with the King in her behalf, and his Highness, like her most kind and loving brother, hath been glad to advance her Grace's quiet and commodity. Wishes to be advised of the news of those parts, and begs her acceptance of a poor token of cramp rings.
- [May.] 6. Instructions by the King's Matie given unto Ralph Sadleyr sent at this tyme unto the King of Scottes:—To explain that the warlike preparations in England are intended only for defence against the Bishop of Rome; to warn the King of Scotland against the craft and deceit of the said Bishop; to submit to him that he is able of his own wits to understand Christ's Word as well as his clergy; to request him to treat the King's slanderers as the Emperor hath lately done the King's rebel, Cardinal Pole; and to persuade him to a meeting with his Majesty in some commodious part northwards.
- June 7. 7. Queen Margaret to Henry VIII. Thanks for his present of 200*l*. Her disposition to serve him in Scotland. The King in a good mind towards his Grace; the Abbot of Arbroath to be sent to express it. Her divorce and partition is now at the giving of the sentence. Refers to Master Sadleyr, to whom she prays his Grace will give credence.
- Aug. 9. 8. David Betoun, Abbot of Arbroath, to Crumwell. Being in Stantford. embassy from Scotland, and hearing the King is in those parts, requests to know where and when he shall have an interview.
- Oct. 16. 9. Queen Margaret to Henry VIII. The King has stayed her divorce, pretending that she means to marry him that was Earl of Angus. Her son is more unkind to her daily, and she had lever be dead than treated as she is. Shall never have another husband, and unless she gets some remedy she shall pass to some religious place and bide with them.
- Nov. 3. 10. King James V. to Henry VIII. Respecting some naval stores Stirling. belonging to the King which had been captured by French ships and carried into Leith, of which goods Henry VIII. demands restitution, but which cannot be found.
- Nov. 13. 11. James V. to Henry VIII. Congratulates him on the great Linlithgow. benefit shown to him by Almighty God in the birth of his son, a grace not only unto him, but to himself, his kinsman, and to the support, strength, and comfort of them both.
- [Nov.] 14. 12. Queen Margaret to Crumwell. Thanks him for his joyful tidings of the birth of a prince to the King, her brother. She is as heavily troubled as any gentlewoman may be. Begs he will be her special friend in considering the letter which she has written to the King. [Dated October 14, in error.]

Stirling. a man-at-arms of the King of France, may have a safe conduct through England in the best and most hasty sort.

[June.] 16. Queen Margaret to Henry VIII. Begg he will afford her some money and silver work to enable her to appear according to her rank on the occasion of the arrival of this lady, the King her son's spouse, in Scotland.

July 31. 17. Queen Margaret to Henry VIII. Arrival of the young Edinburgh. Queen, who behaved very honourably towards her. Now that there is another Princess she hopes he will be a loving brother to her.
Shall think it long till she has answer to her writings.

[Aug.] 18. Sir Wm. Kingston to Crumwell. Ross Herald has brought a Mr. Shurley's letter from the King of Scots requesting safe conduct for certain house. lords and gentlewomen [Madame de Montreuil and others] from Scotland into France. King Henry wishes some one to keep them company, and good cheer to be made them; but they are to make no great haste because his Majesty may perhaps be near Dover when they come to the sea side.

from England with the Earl of Arran, Governor of Scotland; and of the first proceedings of Parliament relative to the treaty with England.
- [March 25.] 11. King Henry VIII. to the Earl of Arran. Acknowledges the receipt by Lyon Herald of the Statutes of the Order of the Garter, with the collar and garter, appertaining to the late King of Scots.
- March 25. 12. Copy of the preceding letter.
- March 27. 13. Sir Ralph Sadleir to Lord ——. No news but what he has Edinburgh. written in his letter to the King. The Scots would lever suffer extremity than submit to the subjection of England. The kirkmen labour to hinder the union of the two realms, but the nobles and all the temporality desire the marriage, and perfect friendship with England.
- March. 14. Henry VIII. to ——. Is desirous of knowing the forces Westminster. of the realm, in case of a war with Scotland. *Orders a Muster to be made of all able men, horse and foot, of his tenants, &c.
[Circular, signed with a stamp.]
- March. 15. Memorandum, suggesting the appointment of certain counsellors, and naming them, to attend to the weighty affairs of the realm of Scotland, the Governor being but a young man and easy to be led.
- April 14. 16. Henry VIII. to Sir Ralph Sadleir. In answer to his letter
St. James's. of the 6th, and giving him minute directions for his negociations in Scotland, particularly with respect to Angus and Sir George Douglas; and to get certain strong fortresses into the hands of the English party. Overtures for peace, and for the marriage of the young Queen * with the Prince, the King's son.
- April 14. 17. Another copy of the above letter.
- May 1. 18. Privy Council to Sadleir. Directs him in his negociations with the Governor, the Earls of Angus, Glencairn, Cassilis, and others, as to the proposed marriage of the young Queen. Transmit articles which the King is willing to agree to.
- May 1. 19. Articles to be proposed to the Ambassadors of Scotland, which if they will not agree to, then the King of England may follow his purpose by force.
- May 6. 20. Earl of Arran to Henry VIII. Returns his thanks for an Edinburgh. *overture of marriage between his noble daughter, the Princess Elizabeth, and his eldest son [Lord James Hamilton]. Has given full powers to the Earl of Glencairn and Sir George Douglas to perfect the said contract.

- Sept. 8. Edinburgh. 40. Sadleir to the Earl of Arran. In respect to the reports of his sudden departure to Stirling to join the party of the Cardinal. Disbelieves the report, but requests to know by letter how he remains affected towards the King's Majesty and the accomplishment of his oath.
- Sept. 9. 41. Henry VIII. to the Magistrates of the town of Edinburgh. Hearing that his Ambassador has been threatened with violence, warns them for fear of his extreme displeasure to forbear from any such outrage.
- Nov. 11. Tantallon. 42. Sadleir to Arran. His "strange behaviour and practices" digress in no way from his office as the King's Ambassador. Considers his commission to be in force till it shall please his Majesty to revoke him.
- Sept. 11. Edinburgh. 43. Sadleir to Lord Parr. Sends letters. Assures his Lordship that never so noble a Prince's servant was so evil entreated as he is among these rude unreasonable people, and never had man to do with so inconsistent and beastly a nation.
- Nov. 17. Lindores. 44. Arran, Governor of Scotland, to the Earl of Angus. Desires him to cause Sir Ralph Sadleyr, who has been directing and receiving letters to and from divers great men of the realm, to depart out of his house of Tantallon, and thereby to avoid the suspicion which has arisen of himself.
- Nov. 26. Linlithgow. 45. Arran to Angus. Commands him by Rothsay Herald, in the Queen's name, to cause Sir Ralph Sadleir, who has been endeavouring to corrupt the faithful subjects of the realm, to quit Tantallon Castle immediately.
- Dec. 16. 46. Message sent by Henry VIII. to the Government of Scotland, by a Herald, denouncing war, if the terms of the treaties are not immediately fulfilled.

Dalkeith. Majesty of his faithful mind, notwithstanding that the contrary hath been vehemently showed against him. Requests credence for the bearer, his Majesty's chaplain.
- [March.] 5. Lord Maxwell to Secretary Paget. Has been a long time in prison, and requests to be tried. Denies that he has been unfaithful to the King since he has been a prisoner. If his son has not done the King's pleasure he shall get nothing which he can hold from him, and shall have his malediction.
- March. 6. Instructions from Henry VIII. to Lord Wharton and Sir Robert Bowes, his Commissioners:—To meet at Carlisle with other Commissioners appointed by the Earls of Lennox, Angus, and others; to settle the conditions upon which the King will consent to send an army into Scotland to aid their party against the Cardinal and the Earl of Arran; the points of the conditions being the delivery of hostages in England, the true teaching of the Word of God in Scotland, the marriage of the young Queen of Scotland with the King of England's son, &c.
- March. 7. Copy of the preceding minute of instructions.

suggest to Angus and others the delivery of Tantallon and certain towns into the hands of the English; and to procure the marriage between Prince Edward and the young Queen.
- May. 9. Instructions, corrected in many places by Secretary Paget, to Lord Wharton and Sir R. Bowes:—To enter into articles of agreement on the King's behalf, with the Earls of Lennox and Glencairn, the former instructions being cancelled as far as regards the Earls of Angus and Cassilis, on account of their having joined the party of the Earl of Arran and Cardinal Betoun.
- May 17. 10. Indenture of agreement between Lord Wharton and Sir Carlisle. Rob. Bowes on the part of the King of England, and Hugh Cunningham and Thos. Bishop on the part of Lennox and Glencairn, by which the Earls agree to put the King in possession of several of the strongest fortresses in Scotland, and to promote the marriage of the young Queen with Prince Edward; Lennox to be appointed Governor of Scotland and marry Lady Margaret Douglas, the King's niece, and Glencairn to receive a pension of 1,000 crowns per annum.

April 2. 14. Earl of Cassillis to King Henry VIII. Conference with the Edinburgh. Governor and Cardinal Betoun on the subject of his mission. The matter deferred till the Queen and the Earls of Argyle and Huntley were present. Another meeting summoned for the 15th. Their content that the peace and marriage take effect. Suggests that there be no great invasion of Scotland. [In cipher.]
- April 2. 15. Contemporary decipher of the above letter.
- April 2. 16. Cassillis to Henry VIII. The Master of Maxwell's devotion to Edinburgh. the King's service. Suggests that his father, Lord Maxwell, should be sent to the Borders. Final resolution to be taken at the Convention on the 15th.
- April 10. 17. Privy Council to Cassillis. The King will forbear taking revenge if the Scottish Nobility, at the Convention on the 15th, will agree to the treaties of peace and marriage. Hope that the Earl of Angus and his brother may prove worthy of favour, but his Majesty does not think proper to release Lord Maxwell.
- April 20. 18. Cassillis to Henry VIII. States that in the Convention the influence of the Queen, the Governor, and the Cardinal prevailed to the deferring of his Majesty's purpose. Recommends therefore that he should immediately invade Scotland; first sending Sir Ralph Sadleir or others to make assurance to his supporters, and to publish a proclamation that he only intends the weal of the young Queen. [In cipher.]
- April 20. 19. Contemporary decipher of the above letter.
- [April.] 20. Lord Maxwell to the Privy Council. Counts himself a dead man without the King's pardon. Begs his mercy, and he will do him such service as no Scottish man shall do the like on the West Borders.
- [April.] 21. Maxwell to the Privy Council. Had written before, that Tower. they would intercede with the King for his pardon. Does not desire liberty but that he may be held a prisoner at Carlisle, so that he may be able by communication with his friends to make some recompense for the great trespass he has committed against his Majesty.
- [April.] 22. The confession of Lord Maxwell as to the offers made to Angus, Sir George Douglas, and himself, by the Queen of Scotland and the Council.

28. The Privy Council of England to the Earl of Hertford, Lieutenant General in the North. In reference to a letter from the Earl of Cassillis, containing an offer for the killing of the Cardinal [Betoun.] Inform him that the King reputes the fact not meet to be set forward expressly by himself, and yet not misliking the offer, thinketh good that Mr. Sadleir, to whom the letter was addressed, should write to the Earl and advise him what he [Sadleir] would do, were he in the Earl's place, and so able, as he is, to do his Majesty good service. Informs him also of the King's consent that Mr. Forster shall be sent to Scotland to practise with the Lords.

May 31.
Darlington.

29. Earl of Hertford to Mr. Secretary Paget. Recommends an invasion of Scotland as the only way to bring them to conformity. Means to take Home Castle, to encamp at Kelso, fortify the church, and devastate and destroy the country beyond.

June 3.
Newcastle.

30. Hertford, Bp. Tunstal, and Sadleir to Henry VIII. Acknowledge receipt of the letter of May 30. Sadleir will write to Lord Cassillis in the matter touching the Cardinal; and Mr. Forster shall be sent to Scotland to confer with the Earls the King's friends.

barton; their forces, &c.
- June 18. 39. Hertford to Lord Maxwell. Thinks his son forgets his duty.
Darlington. Refuses to make suit to the King that he should go into Scotland, because he can as well practise with his friends there by means of letters, and such as choose may come to Carlisle.
- July 9. 40. Hertford to Paget. Thinks his proposition to borrow some Darlington. plate in all the churches the most ready and present relief for his Majesty, as God's service cannot thereby be anything diminished; the worst that he sees in it is that a bruit may arise that the King is driven to shift for money.
- July 12. 41. Hertford, Bishop Tunstal, and Sir Ralph Sadleir to Privy Darlington. Council. Transmit letters in cipher from the Laird of Brunstone to Sadleir, relative to the killing of Cardinal Betoun; and copy of Sadleir's answer, who has also written on the same subject to the Earl of Cassillis, but received no reply. Inclosure,
41. 1. Sir Ralph Sadleyr to the Laird of Brunstone. In reply to his letter concerning an offer, for a small sum of money, to take him out of the way that hath been the worker of all their mischiefs. Judges that he means the Cardinal; and it is his opinion that it would be acceptable service to God to take him out of the way. The King will not meddle in the matter, but it will be good service, both to God, and to his Majesty. When the act is executed he will undertake that the reward shall be paid immediately, though himself should bear the charge.
- July 19. 42. Hertford, &c. to Paget. Intelligence from Scotland. Robert Darlington. Maxwell not over hasty to become pledge for his father. If he does not come at a day fixed, they intend to send Lord Maxwell back to the Tower. Carlisle may be made tenable against the power of Scotland. Request pikes and money.

 Newcastle. Have taken order for troops from Yorkshire; it will be four days before they reach the Borders, and they must be informed if the King approves not the charge.
- Aug. 14. 59. Hertford, Tunstal, and Sadleir to Henry VIII. Retreat of the Newcastle. Scots. Have therefore stayed the power which they had sent for from Yorkshire. Suggest the putting in execution their proposition for the fortifying of Kelso, and wasting the country in Scotland, as the corn is very forward, and, if they can destroy it, the Scots will have to live in the more penury all the year.
- Aug. 14. 60. Draft of the preceding letter.
- Aug. 14. 61. Privy Council to Hertford. The King thanks him for his Guildford. discreet and temperate proceedings; and not doubting his foresight approves his device for the assembling of a power to resist the Scots and for the fortification of Kelso.
- Aug. 19. 62. Hertford, Tunstal, and Sadleir to Henry VIII. The Scots Newcastle. assembling on the Borders. The King's approval of his plan for the fortification of Kelso. Money. Wants the assistance of Sir Richard Lee, or some other person skilled in fortification.
- Aug. 19. 63. Draft of the same letter, in the hand of Sadleyr.
- Aug. 23. 64. Privy Council to Hertford. The King desires to confer with Oking. the Earl of Lennox, relative to some letters received from the Lord of the Isles. Death of the Duke of Suffolk,

Vol. VIII.

- Aug. 25. Newcastle. 65. Earl of Hertford, Bishop Tunstal, and Sir Ralph Sadleir to King Henry VIII. Intended enterprise against Kelso. A proclamation to be issued on the army's entering Scotland. Return of Mr. Forster from Scotland. Inclose,
65. 1. Earls of Angus, Marshall, Cassillis, and Sir Geo. Douglas to Hertford. Inform him that they have united to serve the King of England. Advise that he should invade Scotland at this time of harvest, with his substancious armies, and proclaim that they mean no hurt to them who will assist in bringing about the peace and marriage. The French Captain is not likely to remain long on the Borders. Melrose, Aug. 16.
- Aug. 25. 66. Draft of the preceding letter, in the handwriting of Sadleir.
- Aug. 27. Newcastle. 67. Hertford, &c., to Mr. Sec. Paget. The Earl of Lennox sets out immediately for London; but Hertford requests he may return as soon as possible and go with him into Scotland.
- Aug. 27. 68. Draft of the preceding letter, in the handwriting of Sadleir.
- Sept. 4. Oatlands. 69. Agreement between Henry VIII., and the Commissioners of the Lord of the Isles, whereby the latter receives a pension of 2,000 crowns, and engages to furnish 8,000 men to serve under the command of the Earl of Lennox in the invasion of Scotland.
- Sept. 4. Oatlands. 70. Henry VIII. to Donald McOnell Earl of Ross, Lord of the Isles. Has made honourable answer to his credence delivered by the Commissioners from the Isles; and conferred with Lennox thereon. Encourages him to proceed like a noble man, and to believe that he has given himself to the service of such a Prince as will consider his well doings.
- Sept. 4. Oatlands. 71. Henry VIII. to Hector McLean, Lord of the Isles. To the same effect, and in the same words as the preceding.
- Sept. 4. Oatlands. 72. Privy Council to the Earl of Ormond. Convey the King's commands that he should accompany Lennox in conducting 3,000 Irish kerns and gallo-glasses to the aid of Donald Lord of the Isles.
- Sept. 5. Newcastle. 73. Hertford, Archbp. of York, Bishop Tunstal, and Sadleir to Paget. Forward plans for the fortification of Kelso. Have written to Angus and his party. The Earl intends to encamp on Monday. Want of money.
- Sept. 5. 74. Paget to Hertford. French news. Commission from the Lord of the Isles to the King. The agreement made with him to serve the King of England with troops in Scotland.
- Sept. 9. 75. Privy Council to Hertford. Doubts raised in the Council about the fortification of Kelso. Caution him against placing confidence in any Frenchmen, unless they give some proof of their sincerity by entrapping or killing the Cardinal, Lorges, the Governor, or some other man of estimation.
- Sept. 9. 76. Original minute, from which it appears that the preceding letter was remodelled:

Vol. VIII.

Sept. 9.
Irwen.

77. Earls of Angus and Cassillis and Sir Geo. Douglas to the Earl of Hertford. In reply to his summons that they should join the King's army; but before they do so they must know the manner of his proceedings, and be used as friends. Wish to send him their advice, because they should have more experience than the English, how he may best annoy the army. [Cipher.]

Sept. 9.

78. Decipher of the same letter.

Sept. 11.
Kelso.

79. Hertford, Sir H. Knyvet, Sir Ralph Sadleir, and others, to King Henry VIII. Arrival of the army before Kelso. Attack on the abbey by the Spaniards; they retire. Summons to surrender refused. Assaults with ordnance. The church won; the steeple still defended. Night: escape of some of the Scots with ropes. Morning: capture of the place, and slaughter of the Scots within it. Impossibility of fortifying Kelso. Intend to rase it, to burn Melrose and Dryburgh, and all the corn and villages in their way.

Sept. 13.
Kelso.

80. Hertford, Knyvet, Sadleir, and others, to Henry VIII. Expediency of fortifying Home Castle instead of Kelso. Burning of Melrose Abbey and town, Dryburgh Abbey, and thirteen or fourteen towns and villages, and corn. Not so much harm done these hundred years. The army to move to Jedworth on Tuesday, and thence to Wark, burning and wasting the country in their way.

Sept. 13.
Kelso.

81. Hertford and Sadleir to Mr. Sec. Paget. Letter in cipher from Angus, Cassillis, and Douglas. The latter offers to make the onset upon the Governor. Whether he mean it or no they shall not take him [Hertford] at any advantage. Money wanted for the troops.

Sept. 18.
Warkeshaugh.

82. Hertford and others to Henry VIII. March of the army from Kelso. Burning on either side of them. Ten hours foray along the water of Teviot. Destruction of fourteen or fifteen villages. Burning of Jedburgh Abbey and town. A parley with some gentlemen of Teviotdale. Another foray in East Teviotdale; Irishmen employed, because the Borderers would not burn their neighbours property. Corn burnt. The fair country. The forward harvest. Great impoverishment. A foray by the Scots on the English Borders. Home Castle. The plague in the army. Good conduct of the foreigners.

Sept. 18.
Warkeshaugh.

83. Hertford and Sadleir to Paget. As they are about to dissolve the army, request him to send them money with as much haste as possible.

Sept. 19.
Warkeshaugh.

84. Hertford to Henry VIII. Robert Maxwell and divers others taken prisoners. Ill luck of the Scots. God's just judgment against them for their untruth.

Sept. 23.
Horton.

85. Hertford and others to Henry VIII. Reasons for not assaulting Home Castle. Progress of the army through the Merse. The plenteous country burnt and wasted throughout. Piles and buildings overthrown. Burning of Dunse Castle, and the simple and peevish town. Good service of Sir John Ellerker. A chase after some Scotch prisoners. Dissolution of the army.

1545.

Vol. VIII.

- Sept. 27. 86. Earl of Hertford and Sir Ralph Sadleir to King Henry VIII.
Newcastle. Have given permission to Robert Maxwell to have conference with his father, Lord Maxwell, in their presence, they being inclined to surrender their castle of Lochmaben to the King. Inclose a device of Sir George Douglas to promote the King's interest in Scotland. Statement of the towns destroyed. Never thought to find so fair a country in Scotland. Inclose.
86. I. Sir George Douglas to Hertford. Begs that he will not destroy his estates of Coldingham and Bonkill, or those of his kinsmen the Lairds of Wedderburn, Blackadder, and West Nisba. Tantallon. September 20.

Carlisle. the Isle of Man by the Scottish fleet. Dreadful commandments given by the Governor to the Nobles. The Earl of Huntley can bring no great power with him, nor Argyle.

VOL. I.

1547.
[Sept. 3] 48. Laird of Ormistoun to the Duke of Somerset. The Queen and Governor have been in Edinburgh ten days setting out proclamations, accompanied with few Lords, but with certain churl priests. The fiery cross is to pass through the realm as soon as his Grace's army takes Scottish ground. All men were to meet on Fallo Mure the last day of this month past (August). Leith is left void, all the inhabitants being made to keep Edinburgh. The Earls of Huntley and Argyle come as stark as they may.
- Sept. 6.
Carlisle. 49. The Earl of Lennox and Lord Wharton to Somerset. Letter from the Earl of Glencairn. A great division among the Nobles, and no great power assembled, all the West Marchers remaining at home. Inclosure,
49. 1. [Glencairn] to Lennox and Wharton. Names of divers persons who have promised to assist in the forth-putting of the Word of God, and marriage, and peace, and siclyk. All the Queen's lieges, between sixty and sixteen, to convene on Fauley Moor on Wednesday the last of August. Trusts the Lord Protector and his army shall be in little danger. [Subscribed, "Ze wait quhay."] Sept. 3.
- Sept. 16.
Carlisle. 50. Lennox and Wharton to Somerset. Proclamation for mustering the army to invade Scotland. Encamping in Scotland. Surrender of Milk Castle. March to Annan; assault on the steeple; protracted defence; surrender; destruction of the church and town. General foray. Return to Carlisle.
- Sept. 16.
Carlisle. 51. Wharton to the Privy Council. To the same effect as the preceding, and on the comfortable news of the Lord Protector's victory, and proceedings of the King's army.
- Sept. 16.
Carlisle. 52. Wharton to the Protector. His service with Lennox impeded by want of victual and ordnance. Hopes to be able to burn the towns of Dumfries, Lochmaben, and others. The Marchers object to invade Scotland otherwise than for a Warden's Rood. David Irvine, a spy of his, has been hanged at Edinburgh.
- [Sept.] 53. Instructions for Norroy [Dethick], about to proceed on a mission to the Queen Dowager and Council of Scotland. To explain that the Protector's invasion of Scotland is only to bring to good effect the godly purpose of the marriage between King Edward VI. and Queen Mary, to shew them the advantages of the match, and to tell them that, in case they do not yield to the Protector's amicable proceedings, he will accomplish his purpose by force.
- Sept. 23. 54. Articles made and agreed upon for the delivery of Home Castle, and for the receiving of certain gentlemen of the Merse, under the protection of the King of England.
- Sept. 23. 55. Another copy of the same.
- Sept. 24.
Broughty Craig
Castle. 56. Edward Lord Clynton, Sir A. Duddeley, and others, to Somerset. Surrender of the castle of Broughty Craig; its position and strength; their progress in fortifying it. If it were not for fear of the great men and the priests, the people would be glad to submit to the King's Majesty. Requests orders for the victualling of the castle.

Sept. 27. Carlisle. 57. The Earl of Lennox to the Duke of Somerset. Acknowledges letters not a little to his comfort, in the well accepting of his doings in the King's service. Thanks him for permission to repair to his wife, and begs that the injuries he has sustained may be kept in mind when occasion offers.
- Sept. 29. Carlisle. 58. Lennox and Lord Wharton to Somerset. In favour of Mr. Roughe, a Scot, one of the number of the castle of St. Andrews, who used himself with preaching and instruction of the Scriptures, but was absent at the time of the siege, and fled into England.
- Sept. 30. Berwick. 59. Earl of Warwick to Somerset. The Earl [Bothwell] will deliver the Hermitage to King Edward VI. if the Duke can obtain him a wife in England, the Duchess of Suffolk, the Lady Mary, or the Lady Elizabeth; or permission to see these ladies, as though if he liked them they would not dislike him; or else if his Grace will allow him an hundred "wagers" [soldiers], he will not only deliver up his house, but become the King's servant.
- Sept. 30. Newcastle. 60. Bishop Tunstal to Somerset. Sends a draft of a Commission for the Earl of Warwick and others; also copies of the treaties for peace and marriage made with the Scots by the late King Henry VIII.

Feb. 27. 58. William Lord Grey to the Duke of Somerset. Has had a Berwick. conference with the Lords of Lothian respecting the defence of their country. Expediency of investing Dunbar. Suggests the placing of some ships to prevent the French from transporting the Queen to France.
- Feb. 27. 59. Sir Thomas Palmer and Sir Andrew Duddeley to Somerset.
Broughty. The Earl of Argyle has offered his command in those parts to Patrick Lord Gray. Arrival of troops under Sir John Campbell at Dundee; their hasty retreat. The Earl of Rothes hath protested he will flee to Denmark. They of Dundee require much to have a safeguard. The fort [Broughty] advanceth to strength apace.
- [Feb.] 60. Duke of Somerset's instructions to John Brende, about to proceed to Scotland :—To repair to Lord Grey, thence to Broughty to Sir Andrew Duddeley to express his Grace's approval of the money lately delivered to Argyle; to treat with Argyle respecting the marriage of the Queen, and to offer him a certain sum of money by year, land, &c., if he will bring it to pass; mentioning also certain terms as to the situation in which the two countries will stand towards each other, and the relative authority of each of the sovereigns, if the marriage take effect.
- March 1. 61. Grey to Somerset. Having no one whom he can send to Berwick. declare and debate with his Grace as himself, thinks his absence would nothing hinder the service. Begs instructions as to the Scottish Queen's servant. Remarks respecting the expenses of the last journey.
- March 1. 62. Grey to Somerset. Reports the retaking of Saltoun by the Berwick. Governor of Scotland, and the burning of the Laird of Ormistoun's house. Begs that a great power be sent to fortify Dunbar or Had-dington, to be a continual refuge to their friends and a continual scourge to the enemy.
- March 2. 63. Grey to Somerset. Is informed that the Governor intends to Warkworth. send Argyle and Rothes, to commune with him for peace. Requests his Grace's pleasure. Begs that the Archbishop of York be ordered to levy men for the light horse. Explains in regard to the loss of Saltoun.
- March 2. 64. Robert Moffet of the Grantoun to Lord Wharton. Reports Moffet. the departure of the Queen to Dumbarton. Arrival of some ships at Bute to take her away. Departure of the Lord Lieutenant to Haddington, and of the Governor, to win other houses against those which my Lord Lieutenant won.
- March 6. 65. Earl of Lennox to Somerset. Returns thanks for being Castle of employed in the King's service. Advises that no confidence be placed Wreysell. in Patrick Colquhoun, who is a very untrue and crafty fellow.
- March 6. 66. Grey to Somerset. Complains of reduction in the number Newcastle. of his attendants. Requests some credible man to be sent for the better order of the Spaniards. Reminds the Duke of their want of pay.

Vol. III.

1548.

- March 6. Broughty. 67. Sir Thomas Palmer and Sir Andrew Duddeley to the Duke of Somerset. Report the state of the fortifications at Broughty, lack of timber, &c. Arrival of Sir John Luttrell at Broughty, and the Earl of Argyle at Cupar, where William Lord Grey and Mr. Brende have ridden to commune with him. The country on both sides is in great fear.
- March 6. Broughty Craig. 68. Sir John Luttrell to Somerset. Has ruined the fortifications of Comby's Inche [Inch Colm], and arrived in the Tay. Was forced, on account of the desertion of one of the hoys, to burn some of the provisions. Returns thanks for his appointment as Governor of Dundee, in case it be fortified. Has been there with Sir Thomas Palmer, and thinks it will require six hundred men at least to keep it. Shall endeavour, in the meanwhile, to aid Mr. Dudleye the best he may.
- March 6. In the bark Ager in the river Tay. 69. Thomas Wyndam to Somerset. Arrival of a ship from London with provisions. The Mary Hanborow returned from Inch Colm with Sir John Luttrell. Begg another great ship. Hopes then to do good service, for unless the enemy be handled with fire and sword they never will be good.
- March 7. Dundee. 70. Sir Thomas Palmer to Somerset. Has viewed Dundee. Hears that proclamation was made at St Johnston's that all men from 16 to 60 should on Friday next be at Dundee, on pain of death, with 15 days victuals. Argyle said that he had received the King's money, but should yet prove himself truer than a great many of them that say so, and asked to be furnished with a thousand men to win Broughty. Thinks their design is to garrison Dundee, but will in the meantime make all things sure about Broughty.
- March 7. Warkworth. 71. Lord Grey to Somerset. Is advertised that Lord Eure is dead. Requests instruction as to the filling up of his place as Warden of the East Marches, and recommends his son Harry Eure.
- March 7. Broughty Craig. 72. Sir Andrew Duddeley to Somerset. Mr. Brende hath been with Argyle. Trusts his Grace shall have him, if a Scotsman may be trusted. Lord Grey hath taken great pains in the matter. Progress of the work at Broughty. The Master of Ruthven hath sent to know what he shall have for the setting forth of the King's purpose, and the delivery of St. Johnston's.
- March 8. Warkworth. 73. Grey to Somerset. Begg favour for Unfrye Tompson, post of Berwick, who has served honestly in his charge.
- March 8. Warkworth. 74. Grey to Somerset. In favour of William Farewell, as a man of honesty and ability, to fill the office of Surveyor of his Majesty's ——— in Northumberland.
- March 9. Warkworth. 75. John Brende to Somerset. Reports the result of his interview with Argyle. States the effect produced on him by his different propositions as to the delivery up of the Queen, the letting the Earl of Huntly return home, and the tempting him with the government of the country. Commends Lord Gray for his diligence in the matter and advises that he be rewarded.
- [March.] 76. Orders given by Lord Grey on his repair to the Court out of the North, for the fortifications at Lauder and Yester.

Vol. III.

- March 15. 77. The Earl of Argyle to Lord Grey. States that Master Alexander Castle Carriek. Gordon had told the Queen that he (Grey) had bidden the Laird of Fyvie to break the Northland, and commit slaughter there, for the Earl of Huntly would not come home so long as the wars lasted. That himself (Argyle) favoured England and promised kindness to them, and had got a great sum of angel nobles. Believes his Lordship is not the man to allege such tales without being able to "true" them, but advertises him beforehand that he may be the readier to defend himself honestly.
- March 16 78. Nyniane Cokbourn to the Duke of Somerset. Communicates Colstoun. the result of an interview with the Queen [Dowager]. Hears that the Princess [Mary] is dead, but trusts it is not a verity. Hopes his Grace will remember the Laird of Ormistoun, whose part was honestest than the Master of Maxwell's or the Laird of Cloisburn's.
- March 20. 79. Earl of Huntly to Somerset. Is informed that the Governor Newcastle. repents that the Queen is gone to Dumbarton, and is labouring to bring her back again to Stirling, but she has been very sick in the small "pokis." The Governor may be brought to a good appointment. Commissioners to be sent to the Borders. Will do all he can for the furthering of the King's purpose.
- March 22. 80. Sir Robert Bowes to Lord Grey. Has come to Roxburgh for Roxburgh. preparation of carriage horses, and intends setting forward on the morrow for Lauder. The Governor is at Edinburgh with three or four hundred men and is coming to Peebles. The Earl of Angus and Sir George Douglas are with the like number at Dalkeith.
- March? 81. Petition of James Skea of Orkney to Somerset. To be admitted into his service, having been obliged to fly to England, for fear of burning for the Word of God; and being willing to show his Grace all the use, fashion, and order of his country in such a way as shall be of most profit to England, now in the time of these wars.
- March? 82. Petition of Henry Durham, Scottishman, late Captain of Broughty Castle, to Somerset. For the recompense which had been promised to him on his surrender of the said castle to Sir Andrew Duddeley; and to be accepted into the King's Majesty's service.
- March 27. 83. Lord Grey to Somerset. Denies certain charges of ill will towards the Spaniards, brought against him by their Captain Camboo [Gamboa]. Feels an English heart within him, not dreadful of Spanish, Italian, or other brags, and shall take his revenge after the order and law of his own country.
- March 27. 84. James Cokburn, Laird of Langtown, to Somerset. Informs him that the Earl of Bothwell sent a servant lately to the Governor saying, that he was holden against his will. Angus and his brother George be come to Tantallon. Believes George and the Governor shall not agree.

March 31. 86. William Lord Grey to Somerset. Reports a communication between Sir Robert Bowes and Sir George Douglas; the latter being unwilling to join with them unless they entered Scotland with a good power. Requests his Grace's opinion as to whether he is to be trusted. Begg also, for their security, that the demilances and the strangers, especially Captain Andrea, be dispatched to him. [This letter is dated 1547 instead of 1548.]

[March]. 87. Duke of Somerset's Instructions [to Lord Grey] for the fortification and furnishing of Lauder, Home, Haddington, &c., and to burn as much corn and houses beyond Musselburgh Water as he can.

[March.] 88. Duke of Somerset's instructions to Grey, more fully set out, for the victualling of Broughty Craig, Lauder, Home, Haddington, &c.

[March] 89. Anne estimate what workmen and labourers, with the provyeyone and caryages, must be hadde ffor Lawdar.

[March.] 90. James Henrison to Somerset. Offers various suggestions for the furtherance of his Grace's purpose towards Scotland, in regard to the Earl of Huntly, the expediency of fortifying Dundee, the Earl of Bothwell, the Master of Home, &c. Requests a passport to Edinburgh to his friends, and that his Grace will be gracious to certain prisoners in Colchester. Begg also the deanery of Oikland [Auckland ?] in recompense of his damage and losses.

March 11. 1. Thomas Wyndam to the Duke of Somerset. Will repair to In the bark Tynemouth with all the ships as directed. Details his intended move-Ager. ments and the state of the shipping. Doubts not to keep the river in spite of all France and Scotland.

March 15. 2. Margaret Countess of Lennox to her father the Earl of Angus.
Castell Wresil. After desiring his blessing, complains of his great unnaturalness in having refused to see her, and in being so unstable that everybody may turn him. If he would agree to this godly marriage no blood need be shed. Her uncle George and Drumlanrig would be glad to see him in his grave; her uncle says that he will make all his [Angus's] sons bastards; but, if she lives, he shall have the least part, or else many a man shall smart for it.

March 19. 3. Sir John Luttrell to Somerset. Has taken charge of the new Broughty. fort beside Broughty, and doubts not to yield his Grace a good account thereof. Hears that the Governor will be there shortly after Easter. Has also heard that the young Queen is dead, but is assured that she is alive, and has lately recovered from the measles.

March 20. 4. Earl of Huntly to Sir Ralph Fane. The Governor of Scotland Newcastle. likely to agree. Thanks for good entertainment and for the setting forward of his affairs. Keeps his man until his hawks and greyhounds come.

March 21. 5. Luttrell to Somerset. Has entered on his duty at the new Broughty. fort. Trusts to yield a good account of it, if famine do not more hurt than fear of other attempts.

March 21. 6. Hugh Lord Somerville to Lord Wharton. Wishes to leave Cochele. Scotland. States his services in endeavouring to promote the godly [Conthalley.] marriage. Trusts he shall ever be found of a true mind to perform the promise which he made to set it forward.

March 21. 7. Sir Andrew Duddeley to Somerset. The new fort groweth to Broughty Craig. a good strength. Good service of Mr. John Rosset, the Italian, whom they have appointed Master of the Ordnance.

March 22. 8. Patrick Lord Gray to Somerset. In respect of a cruel report Dundee. that he had not used himself to the furtherance of the King's affairs.
Assures him that he shall ever be ready to spend his life in the King's service. Explains his reasons for treating with the Earl of Argyle. Has not received his wages nor the 300 horsemen.

Vol. V.

- 1549.
- March 22. 9. Alexander Whytlaw to Somerset. In behalf of Lord Gray ; Dundee. had his conduct been otherwise it would more have hindered than
- furthered the King's service.

Broughty. Scotland, for some recompence for his services. States the advantages that may ensue thereby.
- March. 11. Alexander Whytlaw to Somerset. Refers for further advertisement to Sir Andrew Duddeley. Will labour in the King's service faithfully. Lord Gray and his friends are in great danger.
- March. 12. Instructions given to Sir John Luttrell and Thomas Fisher, Esq., to confer with Argyle and sundry others, the Nobles of Scotland, for the return of the Queen from France and accomplishment of the godly purpose of marriage.
- March. 13. Articles gathered and devised by Sir John Luttrell and Mr. Fisher to confer with Argyle and others, according to the preceding instructions.

- June 28. 42. Sir Henry Percy to Sir Thomas Parry and Sir William Cecill. Norham. Letter from Kyrkcauld, who has spoken in secret with Argyle and others of his faction. Hears that they mind to come forward to Edinburgh, which is suspicious. A good eye to be kept on France. Incloses,
42. 1. W. Kyrkcauld to Percy. Begs him to look over his letter to Cecill and send it with all haste. Movements of Argyle, Glencairn, &c., for the taking of St. Johnston's. The Queen will not resist, but purposes to keep Edinburgh if she can. The Grange, June 25.
- June 28. 43. John Knox to Cecill. This is the fourth letter he has written St. Johnston s. since his departure from Geneva. In one he desired leave to pass through England, to communicate matters to some person of solid judgment, which he will not commit to paper and ink. Understands that his name is become odious to the Queen, but England hath never received hurt by him. His eye hath long looked to a perpetual concord between the two realms, and the preaching of Jesus Christ crucified will effect it. The reformation is somewhat violent, because the adversaries be stubborn. None that profess Christ Jesus intend to usurp anything unless strangers be brought in. Requests that he may come to England; and begs him to assure her Majesty that willingly he never offended her.

Edinburgh. her to appoint Commissioners to join with others of Scotland to treat upon the ransoming of the prisoners taken in the late wars.
- June 30. 46. Bishop Tunstall to Elizabeth. Having concluded the treaty, Auckland. begs leave to repair to Her Majesty, to declare the state of the two realms, and that he may see her once this summer, because he does not look to live long.
- June 30. 47. Tunstall to Cecill. Begs him to further his suit to see the Auckland. Queen at once, as he can the easier carry his old carcase in the summer.
- July 1. 48. W. Kyrkcaldy to Sir Henry Percy. The coming forward of the congregation. Their only intention is the reformation of religion. Retirement of the Queen and the Frenchmen to Dunbar. Adherence of the Duke and Nobles to the congregation. Good will towards England as long as it maintains the gospel of Christ. The manner of their proceeding in the churches, cleansing them of images, abolishing mass, reading the book of godly King Edward instead, &c, &c. [This letter is signed, "Yo^{rs} as ze knaw to the deathe." There is a postscript by Percy respecting a letter which Knox had written to Cecill, and inclosing the following list.]
48. 1. "The names of the Erlls, Lords, w^t some principall barons and gentilmen of the congregation." In the autograph of W. Kyrkcaldy. July 1559.
- July 1. 49. John Knox to Percy. Requires such friendship of him that Edinburgh. there may be conference and knowledge from time to time between the faithful of both the realms. Begs him to persuade himself, and assure others, that they mean neither sedition, nor yet rebellion, against any just and lawful authority, but only the advancement of Christ's religion, and the liberty of the poor realm.
- July 3. 50. Sir James Croft to Cecill. A herald sent by the Queen of Scots to the Queen of England. The protestants at Edinburgh in great numbers "intending" to Kelso and all the abbies westward. The Queen at Dunbar in great fear. [In cipher.]
- July 4. 51. Sir Thomas Parry and Sir William Cecill to Percy. Have received his letters, and have imparted the matter in Kyrkcaldy where it ought to be imparted. Cecill does presently write a letter as Secretary in answer to it, which he requests may be shewn to Kyrkcaldy, but not delivered out of his hands.

- July 4. 52. Sir W. Cecill to Sir Henry Percy. Desires him to see Kyrkcaldy and thank him for his letter. Wishes him to learn, in case support should be sent from England, what manner of amity would ensue between the two realms. Rather than that kingdom, and especially those who maintain the truth of the Christian religion, should be oppressed by any foreign power, the authority of England would adventure with power and force to aid them. [Indorsed by Cecill "My lre to Sr H. Percy retorneel ageyn to me."]

- July 4. 53. Draft of the same letter in Cecill's autograph.
- Greenwich.
- July 8. * 54. Sir James Croft to Cecill. Departure of the Duke of Chatelherault from the Queen. A message from the Protestants to her, about the maintenance of religion, and the dismissal of the French. [In cipher.]
- Berwick.
- July 8. 55. Cecill to Croft. Wishes his neighbours could be advertised of certain news from France. Intends to essay the Protestants first with promises, next with money, and last with arms. Begs him to keep them in comfort, that England will not see them ruined; and to kindle the fire, for, if it should quench, the opportunity will be lost.
- July 11. 56. Croft to Cecill. Reports the state of the fort at Aymouth. Requests advice as to its being razed Incloses,
- Berwick.
56. 1. A letter of intelligence out of Scotland respecting the Queen Dowager and the Protestants, and the general opinion that the Duke of Chatelherault would take part with them. [In cipher.] July 11.
- July 12. 57. John Knox to Cecill. Begs the delivery of a letter to the Queen wherein is his confession as to what he thinks of her authority. Hears there is a confutation set forth of his "First Blast." The time is come that Christ must reign, and the hearts of the inhabitants be joined together. If the most part of women be such as they would not willingly have to reign over them, they ought, in establishing one who is indeed godly and profitable to her country, to take heed lest they give interest, and title, to many who would bring their country into bondage, and slavery. Mr. Whitlaw has arrived, from whom he understands the matters for which he has laboured ever since the death of King Edward. The news brought to Mr. Kyrkcaldy will be joyful to all when they are divulged.
- Edinburgh.
- July 12. 58. Croft to Cecill. Has instructed Whytlaw. The Protestants are about to meet the Queen's Commissioners. Trusts that the French power will be sent away immediately. [Partly in cipher.]
- Berwick.
- July 13. 59. Queen Elizabeth to Mary Queen Dowager of Scotland. Expresses her intention to appoint Commissioners for the ransoming of prisoners, in pursuance of the late treaty.
- Greenwich.
- July 14. 60. Croft to Cecill. Has spoken with Kyrkcaldy, who will give him knowledge of the Protestants, and what amity they will offer. Believes that in anywise they will put forth the French. [Partly in cipher.]
- Berwick.

July 18.
Edinburgh.

61. W. Kyrkcaldy to Sir W. Cecill. Has declared the contents of his letter, which were accepted in very good part; dares not make the matter known to many at first, on account of the suspicions of the Queen Dowager, and the chance of corruption among the poorer nobility.

July 19.
Edinburgh.

62. Earls of Argyle and Glencairn, James Prior of St. Andrews, and Lords Ruthven, Boyd, and Uchiltre to Cecill. Their joy at his letter, which has been notified to them by Kyrkcaldy. Their only purpose is to advance the glory of Christ, to preach his Evangill, and to remove superstition. They desire nothing on earth so much, as perpetual amity with England; and utterly abhor such infidelity as the revolting to France. Are seeking Heaven now, rather than earth, and, even if they should look anything to temporal commodity, should not return to that yoke, the burthen of which, they begin to perceive and to feel, would be intolerable. [In the handwriting of John Knox.]

July 19.
Edinburgh.

63. Argyle, Glencairn, Prior of St. Andrews, Ruthven, Boyd, and Uchiltre, to Queen Elizabeth. Have enterprized to enter in battle against the devil and against idolatry. Knowing that her Grace has enterprized like reformation in religion, request such support in this their present danger, as may declare her Grace and her Council unfeignedly to "thrust" the advancement of Christ Jesus and of His glorious Gospel.

July 19.
Edinburgh.

64. Henry Balnaves of Halhill to Cecill. Knowing his honest love and constancy towards Christ's holy religion, begs him so to labour, that the message sent to the Queen by the Lords of the Congregation may take good success.

July 20.
Edinburgh.

65. John Knox to Queen Elizabeth. Her unjust displeasure a grievous and almost intolerable burthen to him; maliciously nor of purpose he never offended her or her realm. Cannot deny the writing of a book against the unjust "regiment" of women, but it toucheth not her Grace in special; and how can he envy that which most he has "thrustured?" Thanks God that her head has been exalted to the manifestation of His glory. He loves and reverences her, and prays that her reign may be long, prosperous, and quiet. If he should flatter her he were no friend. The only way to retain the benefits which God has so abundantly poured out upon her, is to give Him the whole glory of her exaltation. She must consider how from fear of her life she did decline from God and bow to idolatry; and her authority must not be grounded upon law, but upon His providence that hath exalted her, contrary to her deserving.

July 20.
Berwick.

66. Sir James Croft to Cecill. Communications between the Protestants and the Duke of Chatellerault. Death of the French King. Kyrkcaldy has not yet declared himself by reason of his poverty. [Partly in cipher.] Incloses,

66. i. The Queen Dowager of Scotland to Croft. Will give him warning, so that he may either come or send to view the fort of Aymouth when its demolition shall be ended.

SCOTLAND—ELIZABETH.

VOL. I.

July 22. 67. Sir Henry Percy to Sir W. Cecill. Has shown his letter to Norham. Kyrkcaldy. Has written to Mr. Knox, as desired, and has appointed Kyrkcaldy to make communications with Sir James Croft as well as himself. [Partly in cipher.]
- July 22. 68. Sir James Croft to Cecill. Reports his conversation with Berwick. Whytlaw on his departure towards the Court. Is surprised that the French have not been put out; and thinks the Protestants in great peril. Begs that great care be had for Berwick. [Partly in cipher.]
- July 23. 69. Articles agreed upon with the Protestants of Scotland:—for Leith. the evacuation of Leith, the delivery up of the stamping irons for the coinage, the obedience to be paid to the King and Queen, and the Regent, cessation of hostilities with Churelmen until January 10, &c. Fr.
- July 23. 70. Sir Henry Percy to Cecill. Has received answer from Knox, Norham. and has conveyed a letter to the Lord Prior. All the Merse and Teviotdale goeth towards the Dowager. Explains why he has not yet been able to receive the castle of Tynemouth. [Partly in cipher.]
- July 24. 71. Croft to Cecill. The secretary who writes his letters in Berwick. cipher does not know their contents. Doubts lest the Bishop of Durham will resign his office. Advises the disposing of Norham.
[In cipher.]
- July 25. 72. Proclamation by the Lords of the Congregation, made at the Market Cross of Edinburgh, of the agreement between the Protestants and their adversaries lately made at Leith.
- July 26. 73. Croft to Cecill. Reports a meeting between the French army Berwick. under the Duke and Mons. D'Oysel, and the Protestants, a respite of further proceedings for three days, and intended departure of the Queen to Dunbar.
- July 26. 74. Croft to Cecill. Has received intelligence from Kyrkcaldy, Berwick. who hath declared himself and is with the Protestants. Incloses,

July 28.

77. Sir William Cecill to the Lords of the Congregation. The proceedings in Scotland for the abandonment of idolatry, and the maintenance of the freedom of their country from strangers, are such as all Christian men ought to allow. Nothing can be more joyful to them in England who have exalted their Queen to her kingdom, and brought in their Saviour Christ Jesus, than that the same blessing may come to Scotland. Has doubts whether they are taking the surest way, and marvels that they do not help themselves, for the young Queen [Mary] ~~seems~~ years to destroy the whole house of the Hamiltons. They in England should be utterly void of zeal to God were they not to favour the Lords' purposes.

July 29.

78. Sir W. Cecill to Sir J. Croft. Mr. Whytlaw has gone without his answer because of the expected arrival of Mr. Knox. Begs that the Protestants be kept from coming to any agreement with France, and that they be assured of help from England.

August 1.

Berwick.

79. Croft to Cecill. The Duke of Chatelherault will take part with the Protestants. Refusal of the inhabitants of Edinburgh to hear mass. Addition to the strength of the Protestants in the Earl Morton and the Master of Maxwell.

August 3.

Berwick.

80. Croft to Cecill. Particulars of an interview with Mr. Knox, who was to have come to him in secret in behalf of the Protestants, but he was so well known that his being there was soon published abroad. He said that the Protestants would leave France and enter into amity with England, the Queen of England to have some one in Scotland to advise them, the government of Scotland to be altered, Arran to be conveyed to England, and, if he was misliked, then the Prior of St. Andrews was to be thought of. Incloses,

80. I. [John Knox to Sir James Croft. Sends the] Instructions given to him by the Congregation as to the entering into a league with England; begs that he will signify them to the Queen of England or her Council, and that he will make Sir H. Percy participant of the same. July 30.

81. Sir Henry Percy to Cecill. The unsecret manner of Mr. Knox's coming to Holy Island has subjected him to great mistrust from the Queen Dowager. Has received a letter from Knox, and another from the Lord Prior. Had sent the latter a cipher. Requests instructions as to receiving the house of Tynemouth. Incloses,

81. I. John Knox to Percy. Begs him to do all possible diligence that answer may be had from England with expedition, and that the entry of the Lord Marischal, his prisoner, be prolonged. Holy Island, Aug. 2.

81. II. James Stewart Prior of St. Andrews to Percy. Has received his writing; and the man he desired shall meet him at Alnwick or Newcastle. Has received the cipher, and shall use it accordingly. [Not signed.] Aug.

- August 4. 82. Sir James Croft to Sir Wm. Cecill. Departure of Knox, with Berwick. Whitlaw, to Scotland. The former, unwilling to leave his flock, desires that Mr. Balnaves should be sent to him [Cecill] in his stead. [In cipher.]
- August 5. 83. Croft to Cecill. Has sent the letter directed out of France to Berwick. the Protestants; is in good hope of their proceedings; hears that they intend to assemble again against the Frenchmen. Begs permission for Sir John Forster to cipher with him.
- August 6. 84. John Knox to Croft. Has arrived safely, but A. W. was chased Stirling. three miles. A convention is appointed at Glasgow on the 10th, and the Council must be forward in the matter. The Protestants cannot abide suspicion, and, unless they have present support, they shall seek the next remedy.
- August 6. 85. Earl of Ergill [Argyle] and Prior of St. Andrews, to Croft.
Stirling. Mean only truth, equity, and justice. Are sorry that they should be judged slow or negligent, but he knows how difficult it is to persuade a multitude to revolt against authority. Have appointed a Convention at Glasgow, that all things may be resolved fully. [This letter is in the autograph of Knox.]
- August 6. 86. Queen Elizabeth to the Earl of Northumberland. Has appointed Sir Ralph Sadleir and Sir J. Croft to join with him, for the reformation of the disorders committed by the Sects upon the frontiers.
87. Queen Elizabeth to the Queen Dowager of Scotland. Understands, notwithstanding the treaty which was made, for redress of certain misdemeanours on the frontiers, that such not only remain, but daily increase; has therefore appointed Sir Ralph Sadleir to join with the Earl of Northumberland and Sir Jas. Croft, to concur and conclude for the reformation of the same.
- August 8. 88. Queen Elizabeth's instructions to Northumberland, Sadleir, and Croft, for redress of the disorders on the frontiers.
- August 8. 89. Queen Elizabeth to Sir R. Sadleir. Having appointed him to do her service on the frontiers, authorises him to confer, treat, or practise with any person of Scotland, for the furtherance of her service; and to reward any manner of person as he shall think meet; but to do the same secretly.
- August 8. 90. "Memorial of things to be imparted to y^e Queen's Ma^{ty}."
[This is a paper of memoranda for the Queen's final instructions to Sadleir before his departure to Scotland.]
- August 8. 91. Anonymous to Sir W. Cecill. Communicates respecting the connections, possessions, &c., of the Master of Maxwell, lately escaped out of prison. Offers to bring him to the Queen's presence, and to procure offers and petitions from him in writing.
- August 8. 92. Anonymous to the Privy Council of England. Communi-cates further respecting the Master of Maxwell. Offers to speak with him, and to do any business for their honours in Angus. [Indorsed by Cecill, "Menvill's report, Mr. Maxwell."]
- August 9. 93. James Duke of Chatelherault to Cecill. Returns thanks for Hamilton. kindness to his son the Earl of Arran, and prays his assistance in procuring him a passport through England into Scotland.

- August 10. 94. Queen Elizabeth to the Queen Dowager of Scotland. Hears that she has appointed the Earl of Bothwell and others to treat about the disorders on the frontiers. He is already deputed Sir R. Sadleir, and doubts not but much good will ensue therefrom.
- August 10. 95. Mary Queen Dowager of Scotland to Queen Elizabeth. Begs Edinburgh. safe conduct for Patrick Wans and others, to pass to England, and thence to France.
- August 13. 96. Earl of Argyle and Prior of St. Andrews to Sir William Cecil.
Glasgow. Are disappointed at the unsatisfactory nature of his letter, and desire a plain answer; that they may either prepare themselves to join with him for their common defence, or else provide some other means to avoid the present inconvenience.
- August 15. 97. John Knox to Cecil. Complains that his answer was not
St. Andrews. more plain and especial. Unless they be furnished with money to pay their soldiers, they shall be compelled to seek the next way they can. Their destruction will be England's greatest loss, and when France shall be their full masters they shall be but slender friends to England. Requests a plain answer. It was much marvelled at that the Queen wrote no manner of answer, considering that her father disdained not to write more lovingly to men fewer in number and far inferior in authority.
- August 16. 98. Patrick Lord Forbes to Cecil. Begs him to forward a little London. writing to my Lord Duke [of Chatelherault], who will be very glad of some of his news.
- August 17. 99. Mons. Jehan de Faub. . . to Mons. Louvel, Secretary to the Edinburgh. Governor of Berwick [Sir James Croft]. Sends medicine with directions. Fr.
- August 17. 100. Mary Queen Dowager of Scotland to Queen Elizabeth. Begs Edinburgh. credence for an Ambassador, deputed to inform her of the particulars of the disorders on the Borders.
- August 20. 101. Sir Ralph Sadleir and Sir James Croft to Cecil. Policy of Berwick. encouraging those with whom they have to deal, and comforting them to follow their enterprizes. A communication with Knox. Necessity of the presence of the Earl of Arran. The little account made of the French power, which is expected, but, if they come, help will be required from England.
- August 24. 102. Mary Queen Dowager of Scotland to Queen Elizabeth.
Edinburgh. Requests safe conduct for Robert Boig and others to pass to England, and thence beyond sea.
- August 28. 103. Francis and Mary, King and Queen of France and Scotland.
Edinburgh. Commission for the Earl of Bothwell and others, to treat respecting the ransoming of prisoners, and for settling the disorders on the frontiers. Lat.
- August 29. 104. Sadleir to Cecil. Intends to take the assistance of Sir James Berwick. Croft in preference to that of Sir H. Percy or the Earl of Northumberland. Thinks the former not in any wise comparable to Croft, and the latter very unmeet for the charge committed to him

August 29. 105. Sir R. Sadleir and Sir J. Croft to Sir William Cecill. Have Berwick. heard nothing from the Protestants, but understand that they have had sundry meetings at Glasgow and Stirling. Arrival of Frenchmen in the Firth. Knox's name is changed to Sinclair in all the letters that pass between them. Inclose,
105. I. Mary Queen Dowager of Scotland to the Earl of Northumberland, Sir R. Sadleir, and Sir J. Croft. Cannot give a resolute answer until the coming of certain persons, whom she has appointed to join with them.
Edinburgh, August 23.
105. II. John Knox to Sir James Croft. The Queen Dowager marvellous busy in assembling all she can. Ordnance has been sent to Stirling. Begg that his wife be allowed to come to him, as his wicked carcase needeth her service. [This letter is signed in the assumed name of John Sinclair.]
Londye, in Fife, Aug. 23.
- August 30. 106. Queen Elizabeth. Confirmation of the treaty made with

- Sept. 12. 107. Sadleir and Croft to Cecill. Arrival of the Earl of Arran Berwick. in Teviotdale. Their meeting with the Scottish Commissioners. Necessity of a new commission, more specific as to the ransoming of the prisoners.
- Sept. 14. 108. Mary Queen Dowager of Scotland to Queen Elizabeth. Begg Edinburgh. safe conduct for John Levingston and others to pass through England to France, on certain her Majesty's affairs requiring expedition.
- Sept. 14. 109. Queen Dowager of Scotland to Queen Elizabeth. Begg safe Edinburgh. conduct for James Melvill and James Levingstoun to pass to England, and thence to France and other places beyond sea.
- Sept. 19. 110. Sadleir and Croft to Cecill. Joy in Scotland at the coming Berwick. home of the Earl of Arran. Incursions on the West Marches by the Graymes, which Lord Dacre winketh at. They suspect that the Earl of Northumberland is advertised by the Clerk of the Council of all secret matters concerning him. [The latter part of this letter is in cipher.]
- Sept. 21. 111. James Hamylton, Earl of Arran, to Sir Ralph Sadleir.
Hamilton. Begg the forwarding of some letters to the Queen of England's Secretary. Requests that Randolph be sent to him as soon as may be.
- Sept. 21. 112. Duke of Chatelherault to Sadleir. Returns thanks for Hamilton. friendship shown to his son [the Earl of Arran], whose presence and safety is his greatest wordly rejoicing.
- Sept. 27. 113. Sadleir to Cecill. Proclamation of the Queen Dowager, pro-Berwick. hibiting communication with the English at Berwick, but the Scots came as usual on market day. Understands that she holds him [Sadleir] in great suspicion.
- Sept. 27. 114. Alexander Whitlaw to Cecill. The order of things since Berwick. the return of Arran. His home-coming is no small comfort to his country; and the people have long thirsted for an end of the war. The defection from the French is very great.

Sept. 30. Berwick. 115. Sir R. Sadleir and Sir J. Croft to Cecill. Have advertised Whitlaw in regard to the persecution of the Master of Maxwell by the Graymes. Advise the recall of Lord Dacre, and think that he may well be charged with great negligence. [The greater part of this letter is in cipher.]
- Oct. 4. Edinburgh. 116. Mary Queen Dowager of Scotland to Queen Elizabeth. Requests an audience for M. de Croc, about to repair to France on certain her affairs. •
- Oct. 5. Westminster. 117. Queen Elizabeth to Sir R. Sadleir. It being needful that his neighbours should not lack relief, sends 3,000*l.*, and directs him how to dispose of the remaining portion of a former sum.
- Oct. 12. Berwick. 118. Sadleir and Croft to Cecill. Glad of the sending of the 3,000*l.* Communication between the Regent and the Duke. Refusal of the Congregation to obey the Regent's summons. Reported assembly of the Protestants and forwardness of the Earl of Arran. The Queen's excuse for fortifying Leith.
- Oct. 14. Berwick. 119. Sadleir and Croft to Cecill. Have received a letter in cipher from Randall [Randolph] alias Barnabe. Inclose a copy of the same,
119. ■ Thomas Randall [Randolph] to Sadleir and Croft. Strength of Leith. The Council chosen by the Protestants. All men bent against the Queen Dowager. Arran and Argyle desire to be doing. The preaching of Knox and Goodman. A letter to the Regent, demanding the departure of the French. Proceedings to be taken against her. [This letter is dated "22, hora tercia," and indorsed by Cecill "22 Octob."]
- Oct. 22. 120. List of the Council of the Protestants "erected by common election of Earls, Lords, and Barons convened at Edinburgh;" also the "names of the whole twenty-nine Earls, &c., out of which they were chosen."
- Oct. 23. Edinburgh. 121. Lords of the Congregation of Scotland to the Queen Dowager. Perceiving her evil mind against them, they have suspended her commission, and being determined by force of arms to set that town at liberty, wherein she has wrongfully planted her soldiers and strangers, request her to remove herself and all Frenchmen within twenty-four hours. •
- Oct. 26. Edinburgh. 122. Christopher Goodman to Sir William Cecill. Constrained by sundry injuries done him in his native country, he has been in Scotland six weeks, where he finds his services, which were rejected at home, everywhere desired and thankfully received. Fears there is not the like thirst for God's word in England as in Scotland, and thinks it right to tell him of many things in England which wound the hearts of the godly, as crosses and candles placed upon the Lord's table and that in the Queen's chapel, papists' apparel, pluralities, non-residents, lordly bishops instead of necessary ministers, Saints' days, the wafer-cake, &c. Is sure that God is highly displeased, and threateneth some sure plague to come.

Edinburgh. assure them that, if they cause not money to be furnished to them with all possible haste, it shall repent them much, and time will be lost which can never be recovered.
- Oct. 28. 124. James Stewart Prior of St. Andrews to Croft. Defers an-Edinburgh. swer to a letter. Their necessities in all things he refers to the "bill" of Master Harry Balnaves.
- Oct. 29. 125. Thomas Randolphe to Sadleir. The Protestants think themselves much bound to the Queen's Majesty. Finds great good will in them, but they lack ability. Their hatred towards the French and desire to join with England are equally great. [Subscribed
"Thomas Barnaby."]
- Nov. 4. 126. Sadleir and Croft to Thomas Randolphe. Have received a commission from the Court to support the Congregation with a further sum, in addition to the thousand pounds sent by the Laird of Ormistoun, and beg his opinion as to its use. More Frenchmen are coming.
If they do not take Leith soon the whole purpose will be frustrated.
Sends certain devices for the better order of their affairs, if they shall think good. Have heard ill news of Ormistoun, and that the money sent by him hath been "surprised."
- Nov. 5. 127. Sadleir and Croft to Randolphe. Sorry to hear of Ormistoun's mishap. The Lords of the Congregation must say that the money was theirs, and must learn how it came to pass that Bothwell lay in wait for him. Trust that the Queen will take the matter in good part. Balnaves must be assured that they remain his friends.
- Nov. 6. 128. Henry Balnaves to Sadleir and Croft. The loss of the money Edinburgh. sent by Ormistoun. A thousand pounds at the least must be sent immediately, or it will be the occasion to frustrate all the former "interpysal."
- Nov. 10. 129. Sadleir and Croft to Sir W. Cecil. Have intelligence that the Berwick. Protestants remain at Linlithgow, and intend taking revenge on the French. Request orders as to the supplying them with money.
- Nov. 10. 130. Paper of "Intelligence out of Scotland." Situation of the Queen Dowager and her adherents. Names of the Regents appointed by the Congregation. Deprivation of the Queen Dowager.
Her removal with the Frenchmen to Leith. Bothwell's attack upon Ormistoun. Bothwell's house [Crichton] invested by the Governor.
A skirmish with the French. Spoil of Crichton Castle. Preparation for war for the maintenance of the Word of God.
- Nov. 10. 131. The Duke of Chatelherault, Earl of Argyle, Earl of Glen-Stirling. cairn, and the Prior of St. Andrews to Cecil. Beg credence and advice for the young Laird of Lethington, whom they have directed unto the Queen's Majesty.
- Nov. 10. 132. Prior of St. Andrews to Sadleir and Croft. Craves their Stirling. assistance in the common cause as heretofore. Begg they will concur with the bearer, his friend, and further his affairs to the same effect.

Nov. 10. 133. Duke of Chatellherault to Sir William Cecill. Returns Stirling. thanks for gentleness shown to his son. Will not fail to follow his advice, and to let him understand that the benefit he has received has not been ill bestowed.
- Nov. 13. Francis and Mary, King and Queen of France, Scotland, England, Blois. &c., to the Queen Dowager of Scotland. Credit Mons. de la Brosse and the Bishop of Amiens, and authorize her to proclaim their authority against the rebels, and to take certain measures for the re-establishment of peace. Lat. [Treaty Book; II., p. 162.]
- Nov. 13. Another copy. [With other papers at Dec. 4]
- Nov. 13 134. Mary Queen Dowager of Scotland to Queen Elizabeth. Has Edinburgh. heard that the rebellers against her authority have received support from her Majesty and expect still more. Begg an answer on the subject by the bearer, Mons. du Rubay.
- Nov. 13. 135. Mary Queen Dowager of Scotland to Queen Elizabeth.
Edinburgh. Begg safe conduct for Thomas Stewart to pass to England, and thence to France and other parts beyond sea. [The Queen, in this document, still styles herself Regent of the realm.]
- Nov. 13. 136 Mary Queen Dowager to Queen Elizabeth. Complains Edinburgh. that the ship Marie of Leith, bound from Dieppe, which had been driven ashore near Ross, in Bamburgshire, has been detained by the Baillie of Ross, and the goods, some part of which belonged to Mons. D'Oysel, unjustly and wrongfully seized; and begs that due restitution be made to the owners.
- Nov. 14. 137. Privy Council to Sir R. Sadleir and Sir J. Croft. Send Mr.
Westminster. Randolphe with a sum of money to be used as occasion shall require.
Think it needful that he be sent into Scotland secretly, to comfort the Protestants, with the assurance of the Queen's intention to aid them, as well as to observe the state of the French.
- Nov. 15. 138. Prior of St. Andrews to Sir W. Cecill. Returns thanks for St. Andrews. his good mind towards the common cause, and in particular towards himself, and begs that it may continue.
- Nov. 15. 139. Sadleir and Croft to Cecill. Divers rumours about the Pro-

Balnaves, and David Forest. A proclamation of the Queen Dowager to the inhabitants of Edinburgh to induce them to return home.
- Nov. 17. 140. Earl of Arran to Cecill. Informs him of his communications St. Andrews. with his friends; their resolution to join their forces for the forth-setting of the true religion; their determination to prevent the fortification of Leith; the delay which ensued in getting their men together on account of the harvest; consequent strength of their adversaries, desertion of the countrymen, and ultimate necessity of changing their purpose.

Stirling, Nov. 11.
- Nov. 18. St. Andrews. 144. John Knox to Cecill. Begs, if he be of mind to join with them in the common cause, that his support be not so long delayed, as nothing has been, is, nor shall be more hurtful to them than the dissembling of his favours.
- Nov. 19. St. Andrews. 145. Earl of Arran to Cecill. Cannot satisfy himself without certifying by the bearer how ready he shall be to follow any advice that may proceed from him, either for the Queen's service or otherwise.
- Nov. 19. St. Andrews. 146. Henry Balnaves to Cecill. Proceedings of the Congregation; their Convention at Stirling; coming to Edinburgh, and retiring back to Stirling. Begs him, as the time and occasion require his open support, to labour so as the reasonable desires of my Lords may take good success.
- Nov. 21. Berwick. 147. Sadleir and Croft to Cecill. Send letters. Position of the Lords. A report of the death of the Queen Dowager, which they think too good to be true. Arrival of letters and 3,000*l.* by Captain Randall. Intend sending him to the Protestants. Lethington expected hourly.
- Nov. 23. Berwick. 148. Sadleir and Croft to Cecill. Advise delay in the determinations of the Privy Council till they shall hear more of the Protestants' intents and purposes. Expected arrival of Lethington, and still reported death of the Dowager.
- Nov. 23. Westminster. 149. Queen Elizabeth to the Queen Dowager of Scotland. Has given audience to M. du Rubay, and thought divers things very strange which he mentioned. Marvels much that her Majesty makes no surer account of her honour but to respect the vain reports of such as she calls rebels. Has given orders as to the ships driven ashore in Northumberland, that such direction may be taken as to the case in reason and equity doth belong.

Has already sent Sir Ralph Sadleir, who is the meetest instrument to serve her Majesty, and best esteemed with the Scots. Some ships have passed by to-day; hopes it is the ordnance. Sends the names of the pledges, and their ages.
- [April 15.] Holyrood. 30. Thomas Randolph to Henry Kylligrew. General desire for the expulsion of the French. The Bishop not to come there. Singular wisdom and godliness of the Earls of Arran and Argyle, and of the Lord James Stewart, quondam Prior of St. Andrews. Refusal of the French to commune with Lord Maxwell and the Laird of Lethington. Commencement of hostilities. Money; provisions. The Earls of Huntly and Morton.
- April 17. Before Leith. 31. W. Maitland to Cecill. Groundless fears about the taking of Leith. Firmness of their party. The Earl of Huntly and the other neutrals rendered cold only by the attempt at treaty. The Earl of Arran in possession of Blackness. Edinburgh Castle not hostile. The King of Spain more likely to hurt himself than them. The points required for their surety if the matter be settled by treaty. Passage granted to the Bishop of Valence. More to be feared from treaty than otherwise.

Vol. III.

Berwick, April 25.

44. III. Duke of Norfolk to Lord Grey. Sends the Queen's letters commanding him to proceed to the siege of Leith, and begs that he will use all possible diligence therein.

April 21.

44. IV. Duke of Norfolk to Lord Grey. Approves of his preparations against Leith. Disapproves of any arrangement for French forces to remain in Dunbar. Complains of the irregularity of his advertisements.

April 23.

April 26.
Camp before
Leith.

45. William Maitland to Cecill. Reports the different points of the conferences with the Bishop of Valence:—On the causes of the war, the desired demolition of the fortifications at Leith, the removal of the French forces, the Queen's refusal to surrender Leith, communication with her party, the impossibility of agreeing to their propositions, and breaking up of the conference. Incloses,

45. I. The Queen Dowager's answer to the articles desired of her by the Duke of Chatelherault, and the other Lords of his party, for the demolition of Leith, and the removal of the French troops out of Scotland.

April 25.

April 27.
Before Leith.

46. Duke of Chatelherault and Earl of Glencairn to ——. Have made proclamation for all men to join them at the camp on the 2nd of May, and beg that he himself will come forward with all the power he can make.

April 27.
Berwick.

47. Duke of Norfolk to Cecill. Overthrow of the Dunbar men. No way so sure for their purpose as the sword. Has sent Sir Richard Lee to prick them forward. Could not send the money, as it is in such cumbersome coin that it can only be carried in carts, of which there are none in the country. Incloses,

47. I. Lord Grey to the Duke of Norfolk. A skirmish with the companies of Dunbar; another with some Frenchmen before Leith. A strange and rare "chance" of a horseman who ran a Frenchman through the body, and broke his staff on the ground. Progress of the Bishop of Valence's attempted treaty with the Lords.

Lestarrick, April 25 and 26.

VOL. III.

- April 28. 48. Duke of Chateherault, Earl of Arran, Earl of Huntly, Earl of Argyll, Earl of Glencairn, John brother of the Earl of Menteith, the Lord James Stewart, Earl of Rothes, Lord Ruthven, Lord Boyd, Lord Ogilvy, Lord Uchiltre, and the Master of Maxwell to Queen Elizabeth. Have heard the Bishop of Valence at large in compliance with her wish, but found so little surety in the Queen Dowager's offers that they have been forced to end all communication with him. Return thanks for her Majesty's liberal support and favourable help.
- April 28. 49. The Lords of Scotland to Mary Queen of Scots. In reply to the letters of credence brought by the Bishop of Valence, and explaining the grounds on which they have taken up arms, and, though they are minded to prosecute the quarrel for preservation of her Highness's interests, yet they mean to continue her Majesty's most faithful and obedient subjects.
- April 28. 50. Thomas Randolphe to the Duke of Norfolk. The Bishop of Valence well satisfied with his treatment. The Lords better contented to give any adventure, than to enter again in communication with the Dowager. Their numbers; their constancy in the cause. The Earl of Huntly. The Earl of Morton's shifting and delay, who signs the bond secretly, and has sent again to the Lord James, but he, having been deceived twice, is loth to have further to do with him.
- April 28. 51. William Maitland to Cecill. Forwardness ament the siege. Exploit at Dunbar by Sir Harry Percy and others. A defeat of the French in the ditches of the town. Good will of the Scots towards England. The Lord of St. John's.
- April 28. 52. Duke of Norfolk and Sir Francis Leek to Cecill. Evident design of the French in the proposed retention of Dunbar. No sure way but the capture of Leith.
- April 28. 53. Lord Grey to the Duke of Norfolk. Reports an attack by Captain Somerset and Captain Markham upon the French in the trenches, last night; Captain Markham wounded and three others. Begg that letters of thanks be sent to Mr. Pelham and others. Complains of the want of horses and men. [This was probably inclosed in the following letter.]
- April 29. 54. Duke of Norfolk to Cecill. Refers to a letter of Lord Grey's. If things had been handled with celerity before, Leith had not been now to be won. Begg that a letter of thanks from the Queen be sent to Lord Grey and others. Has stayed the giving of any authority for the besieging of Edinburgh Castle; and requests to know whether King Philip is to be treated as an enemy if he should land any men in Scotland.
- April 29. 55. Thomas Randolphe to Cecill. The Earl of Huntly; his fair promises, but he has signed the bond. Arrivals of Lord Home and Cessford. The Lord of St. John's to be sent as Ambassador to the Queen of England, my Lord of Arran desiring to be excused.

VOL. III.

- 1560.
- April 29. 56. Mary Queen Dowager of Scotland to MM. D'Oysel and Edinburgh. De la Brosse. A letter from her brothers. Breaking up of the parley upon the article of the league with England. Her men desirous to take Edinburgh Castle; has victualled it the best she can. Complains of ill health. Fr. [In cipher.]
- April. 57. — to Mons. D'Oysel. Difficulty of communication. Departure of the Bishop of Valence; his fear of being made prisoner.
Fr. [In cipher.]
- April 29. 58. Translation of the two preceding letters, in English.
- April 30. 59. Sir Henry Percy to Sir William Cecill. Thanks for letters.
From the Camp. Expresses his intention to do his duty in spite of any frownings whatever. Reports particulars of the skirmish at Dunbar. Good service of the Laird of Grange. Begs remembrance of some private affairs.
- May 1. 60. Duke of Norfolk to Cecill. Forwardness of their affairs.
Berwick. Arrival of the Bishop of Valence; his infringement of his safe conduct. Arrival of Lord Home, &c. Incloses, 60. i. *Lord Grey, Sir Ralph Sadleir, and Sir James Croft to the Duke of Norfolk. Impossibility of besieging Edinburgh Castle till after the assault on Leith. The Bishop of Valence detained at Haddington for lack of safe conduct.

- May 1. 61. Duke of Norfolk to Cecill. Incloses a letter of Lord Grey's;
Berwick. thought pity to keep from him so good news.
61. i. Lord Grey to the Duke of Norfolk. Reports a very terrible fire in Leith, which yet burns marvellous vehemently, and which they help to increase by their artillery as much as may be. April 30.
- May 2. 62. Duke of Norfolk to Cecill. Quenching of the fire in Leith.
Berwick. The assault to be given on Saturday. Mr. Vaughan well deserving the Queen's favour. [Signed also by Sir Francis Leek.] Incloses, 62. i. Lord Grey, Lord Scrope, Sir Ralph Sadleir, and Sir James Croft to the Duke of Norfolk. Trust they shall be ready to give the assault on Saturday. Beg letters to the Council in favour of Captain Vaughan. Before Leith, May 1.
62. ii. Orders for the assault upon Leith on Saturday morning next [May 4], with list of the Captains and forces to be employed therein. May 1.
- May 2. 63. Commission by Francis and Mary King and Queen of France
Chenonceau. and Scotland to the Bishops of Valence and Amiens, the Seigneur D'Oysel and others, to go to Scotland and to negotiate for the restoration of amity between France and England. Fr.
- May 2. 64. Copy of the same.
- May 2. 65. Lord Grey, Sir Ralph Sadleir, and Sir James Croft, to the Camp before Leith. Duke of Norfolk, Delay in planting the battery. Trust to keep the appointed day of assault. Huntly is forward enough in words.
What Morton will do they know not.

VOL. III.

1560.
May 2. 66. William Maitland to Sir William Cecill. A straiter bond Camp before devised by the Earl of Huntley than any before. The Earl of Leith. Morton comes to the camp to-morrow. The Earl of Home gone home. Laird of Cessford. Capt. Blacater coming with Morton. The assault to be given soon. Requests in behalf of the Laird of Ormistoun, that his son may return from France.
- May 4. 67. Duke of Norfolk to Cecill. Lord Grey in hope of good success.
Berwick. Incloses a letter from him, and four other letters in cipher. [These letters in cipher are probably those described at April 29 ante, and elsewhere.]
67. 1. *Lord Grey to the Duke of Norfolk. Detention of Lord Erskine's man. The battery is planted, but the gunners have not yet found the just proportion of their mark.
His letters must now be short and sweet.
The Camp before Leith, May 3.*
- May 4. 68. Lord Grey, Lord Scrope, and Sir James Croft to the Duke of Camp before Norfolk. Report an unsuccessful battery of Leith, without being Leith. able to make a breach available for assault. Men on both sides slain in the trenches. Their power far too weak.
- May 5. Queen Dowager to Mons. D'Oysel. Breaking up of the negotiation. The Queen of England still "dissimulacious." Promise of the King of Spain to assist them. Discovery of their cipher.
Purpose of the enemy in the late assault. Their further intentions.
Lord Grey's boasts, &c. [In English, and partly in cipher, see French Correspondence.]
- May 5. 69. Duke of Norfolk to Sir William Cecill. Behaviour of Lord Berwick. Grey; his service consists of courage only, without "conduct."
Every man who can lead a band of horsemen is not fit for so great an enterprize.
- May 5. 70. Henry Kylligrew to Cecill. The Bishop of Valence's arrival Darlington. there. His desire to speak with Mons. Chapperon. Regret at the failure of his mission. Attempt at another treaty by the Queen Dowager, through Lord Erskine, &c.
- May 5. 71. Lord Grey to the Duke of Norfolk. Trenches cut. Destruction
At the Camp. of some corn mills abandoned by the enemy. Skirmishes. Many Frenchmen slain.
- May 6. 72. Thomas Randolphe to Sir William Cecill. Forwards some At the Camp. letters and commends the zeal and affection of the writer to their cause. Reports the signing of the common bond by the Earl Morton and others.
- May 7. 73. Sir George Howard and Thomas Hogan to the Duke of Edinburgh. Norfolk. Particulars of the assault upon Leith; no breach made; want of scaling ladders; marvellous great loss; the wounded soldiers lying in the streets; want of discretion in their leaders.

VOL. III.

1560.
May 8. Berwick. 74. Duke of Norfolk to Sir William Cecill. Encloses Lord Grey's letters reporting another assault. The affair marvellously ill handled. Has sent to levy 2,000 men. When he has digested his melancholy he will write at more length. Incloses,
74. I. Lord Grey, Lord Scrope, Sir Ralph Sadleir, Sir James Croft, and Sir George Howard to the Duke of Norfolk. Report an attack upon Leith, and their repulse through the cowardice and inexperience of their men. Are not able to make any more assaults. Beg advice, reinforcement, and fresh supply of munition. The Camp, May 7.
74. II. The order of the assault upon Leith. May 7.
74. III. List of the killed and wounded in the same. May 7.
74. IV. Lord Grey, Lord Scrope, Sir Ralph Sadleir, and Sir James Croft to the Duke of Norfolk. Perceiving that their case is worse than was at first supposed, have sent Mr. Killinghale to report the same. May 7
- May 8. 75. Articles for Francis Killinghale to communicate to my Lord's Grace [of Norfolk] and to the Lords of the Council, in respect to the assault on Leith, necessity of reinforcement, want of victuals, &c.
- May 8. Berwick. 76. Duke of Norfolk to Sir William Cecill. Arrival of Francis Killinghale. Great loss of footmen. Leith not to be won under twenty thousand men. Lord Grey has sent him word that he would not have made the assault but for the hastening he received by letters, but he [Norfolk] never advised him to nothing.
- May 8. Camp before Leith. 77. Lord Grey to Queen Elizabeth. Reports the assault on Leith. States the reason of their defeat. Without a speedy reinforcement they shall not be able to serve her expectation. The Scottish nobility are painful and willing, but there is no trust of help to be given by them.
- May 8. Camp before Leith. 78. Lord Grey to Sir William Cecill. Reports the assault upon Leith, and their defeat, and urges the necessity of instant reinforcement.
- May 9. Berwick. 79. Duke of Norfolk to Cecill. Mr. Killinghale is sent to satisfy Lord Grey and the rest. Has given some credit to Sir Nicholas L'Estrange. Refers to Lord Grey's complaints against himself.
- May 9. 80. Minute of particulars to be communicated to Sir William Cecill by Sir Nicholas L'Estrange, in regard to the late assault on Leith, and the causes of the defeat of the English. [In the autograph of the Duke of Norfolk.]
- May 9. 81. Report by T. Gower of the powder, shot, and other munitions remaining at the camp on May 9.
- May [10.] 82. Ratification by the Duke of Chatelherault and other Scottish Lords of the contract made at Berwick on February 27, 1560, between the Duke of Norfolk, in the name of the Queen of England, and the Lord James Stewart and others, on behalf of the Lords of the Congregation, for mutual aid and assistance against their enemies.
- May 10. Another copy of the same. [Treaty Book, I., 225.]

- Oct. 15. 84. Queen Elizabeth to Queen Mary. Fears she will think that she has drunk the waters of Lethe, but there is no such river in England. Another thing hindered her from writing, lest she should pain her by the tragedies with which her ears have been too much troubled every week. While the ravens only croaked she had the stopped ears of Ulysses, but now she has called to her aid Prometheus; and, when she recollected that she [the Queen of Scots] was touched in the matter, how her heart stirred. She passes by the horrible details; but what rhubarb shall rid her of the rage which their tyrannies have engendered? The fault rests with the wicked chiefs of the quarrel. She will not suffer such ills, but will not be accused of deceit, and has promised nothing which she will not accomplish. Trusts in this heart [a present from Queen Mary to Queen Elizabeth] which she keeps, that it will no sooner change its disposition, than when the rivers shall rise above their natural level.

Scottish Queen and her Council.
- June 5. 34. Thomas Randolphe to Lord Robert Dudley. Begg a few days Edinburgh. more before his return. He [Dudley] need not be at any charges for the interview, as it is determined that the Queen may not leave her country this year; the causes, the reasons, and the Queen's sorrow, he shall know at his coming.
- June 6. 35. Maitland to Cecill. Explains the cause of the cessation of his Lochleven. letters. Professes the same affection towards him, and the amity between their two countries, as heretofore. If a conjunction be earnestly meant, he will find conformity enough on their part; and if they conferred more frankly matters would sooner grow to a conclusion.
- June 23. 36. William Maitland to the Earl of Pembroke. Complains of the Edinburgh. nonpayment to certain merchants of a sum of money borrowed of them on the assurance of the Queen, the Duke of Norfolk, and himself.
- June 23. 37. Maitland to Cecill. Wonders at the deferring of resolution Edinburgh. in a matter wherein there is so great demonstration of good meaning on both sides; if they were more frank they should both be better able to mend what is amiss.
- July 13. 38. Earl of Murray to Cecill. Denies any intention of opposing Edinburgh. the return of the Earl of Lennox. Thinks it cannot stand with the Queen of England's honour to be the occasion of it, and is assured that it cannot hinder or alter religion thereaway.
- July 13. 39. Maitland to Cecill. Disclaims, on the part of the Earl of Edinburgh. Murray and himself, any desire to oppose the return of the Earl of Lennox. Wonders at the opposition of the Queen of England.
Dares not mention it to the Queen of Scots. Is sure that his return will not breed trouble in religion or any other way.
- July 15. 40. Queen Mary to Queen Elizabeth. Requests letters of safe Edinburgh. conduct for George Hopper, merchant, and others, to pass to England to buy goods, &c.
- July 17. 41. Commission from Queen Elizabeth to the Earl of Bedford and Sir John Forster to treat of the limits of the Marches. Lat.
- July 17. 42. Queen Elizabeth's instructions to the Earl of Bedford and Sir John Forster to settle the limits of the East and Middle Marches.

- July 27. 43. William Maitland to Sir William Cecill. Does not see how St. Johnston's. they stand at disparity. Cannot see what danger can come to them from writing freely to one another; or to him [Cecill] by favouring the Queen of Scots, if his own Sovereign's affection towards her remains the same.
- August 24. 44. Mary Queen of Scots to Queen Elizabeth. Requests safe Gartly. conduct for James Murray, of Tullybardine, to pass to England to buy goods, &c.
- Sept. 18. 45. Maitland to Cecill. The matter propounded by Mr. Ran-Edinburgh. dolphe not lightly or coldly treated by them; himself as well disposed as ever to promote the amity between the two kingdoms.
Is bound not to oppose the return of Lennox. Never shot at any other mark than the service of his mistress, the weal of his country, and the preservation of amity between the two realms
- Sept. 18. 46. Queen Mary to Queen Elizabeth. Requests safe conduct Holyrood. for Master John Sinclair, Dean of Restalrig, to return from France through England into Scotland.
- Sept. 19. 47. Earl of Murray to Cecill. Grieves that Queen Mary's letter Edinburgh. and his own should be thought so strange. The Earl of Lennox's coming home is against his will, and nothing was written by which any of them intended to displease the Queen of England in any way.
- Sept. 23. 48. Queen Elizabeth to Sir William Cecill. Perplexed for an answer to the Queen of Scots, how to satisfy her. Requests his opinion. [In Latin, endorsed by Cecill, "The Q. writing to me being sick."]
- Sept. 26. 49. Mary Queen of Scots to Queen Elizabeth. Requests safe Holyrood. conduct for Adam Hume, who is going to France on certain her affairs and business.
- Sept. 28. 50. Minute of the proceedings of the Scottish Council from the 21st to the 28th of September, in regard to the disorders between the Earl of Cassillis and all his surname, the Crawfurds, and Fergusons, the return of the Earl of Lennox, his reception, &c.
- Sept. 28. 51. Mary Queen of Scots to Queen Elizabeth. Perceiving by her Holyrood. letter how entirely she tenders the causes of the Earl of Lennox and his wife, informs her that she intends to restore them to their privileges, liberties, and old titles.
- Sept. 30. 52. Matthew Earl of Lennox to Queen Elizabeth. Has delivered Holyrood. her letter to the Queen of Scots, who not only imparted her Majesty's [Elizabeth's] goodness to him, but showed such graciousness that he thinks himself more bound to her than ever. Begs her Majesty to show the same favour to her poor kinswoman his wife.

pains and friendship towards his causes.
- [Oct. 4.] 54. Memorial of instructions delivered to Thomas Randolphe, being sent to the Queen of Scots in message from the Queen's Majesty of England, in respect to the proposition made to the Queen of Scots about her marriage, the Earl of Lennox's return to Scotland, the disorders on the Borders, &c.
- Oct. 4. Entry of the above. [See Dom., Eliz., Vol. cxxxiv., p. 454.]
- Oct. 4. Another copy. [See Nov. 17, 1563.]
- Oct. 6. 55. Mary Queen of Scots to Queen Elizabeth. Requests safe con-

- Oct. 10. 59. Mary Queen of Scots to the Queen of England. Requests Holyrood. safe conduct for William Lökkert and two others to pass to England, to buy and sell merchandize, &c.
- Oct. 16. 60. Randolphe to Cecill In regard to the case of Archibald Dunbar. Graham, and the probability of its proving a great hindrance to many of his countrymen's suits there.
- Oct. 24. 61. — Hedley to Thomas Randolphe Reported coming of the Berwick. French. Idle bruits. Purloined letters. My Lord says that he [Randolphe] must be open, and not mistrust him to be a "col-prophet," or a cormorant of others' deserts. Capel is come and Sir Richard Lee.

- Nov. 23. 70. Francis Earl. of Bedford and Thomas Randolphe to Sir Berwick. William Cecill. The Earl of Murray's and Lethington's opinion of Queen Elizabeth's marvellous strange dealings. A conference with them on Sunday at Berwick. Letters from Flanders and France.
- Dec. 2. 71. Thomas Randolphe to Cecill. The Queen not averse to the Edinburgh. subject of their conference. Hope of its growing to some good issue. Probable ill effects of Lord Darnley's coming. Confirmation of the Earldom of Angus to the young Earl. Meeting of the Parliament.
- Dec. 3. 72. Earl of Murray and William Maitland to Cecill. Their Edinburgh. desire to promote their Sovereign's honour and prosperity; will do what they can to induce her to embrace such a marriage as shall content the Queen of England. Desire to know her Majesty's real meaning. It must not be thought strange if, in default of friendly dealing on the part of England, they change their minds and save themselves the best way they can.
- Dec. 4. 73. Randolphe to Cecill. Forwards the preceding letter. Their Edinburgh. wills seem good. Thinks that the Queen is not privy to their writing.
- Dec. 8. 74. Randolphe to Cecill. Requests that the bearer, Mr. Beton, Edinburgh. may have audience of the Queen of England. Refers to him to report the state of things there.
- Dec. 14. 75. Randolphe to Cecill. A conference with the Earl of Mur-Edinburgh. ray and Laird of Lethington; their good will towards her Majesty and the Earl of Leicester. Desire for the match between the latter and the Queen of Scots. Expectation of a full and plain answer to their letter. Necessity of the Queen's marriage. No man likely to be more acceptable to the people than my Lord Robert. Talk about the Earl of Darnley. Pitiabie situation of the Duke of Chatelherault and his family. A positive statement made to Mr. John Leslie by the Earl of Lennox that his son should marry the Queen.
- Dec. 15. 76. Randolphe to Cecill. Proceedings in Parliament in respect Edinburgh. to the restoration of the Earl of Lennox. The Queen's speech. Professions towards England. Law against mass, adultery, &c.; a pretty way to get money to the Queen's coffers. Arrival of Angelo Manelio, the saltmaker; a present made to him by the Queen. The Queen's interception of letters to France from her Court. Mons.
Roulet out of favour. Mons. Riccio in his place.
- Dec. 16. 77. Randolphe to Cecill. Grieved at a complaint of his insuffi-Edinburgh. cient dealing with the two Lords at Berwick. A dinner to the Earl of Murray. Another dinner. A packet received by Thomas Ran-dolphe at 10 o'clock, [this letter evidently contained news of the illness of Queen Elizabeth]; its effect on the Earl of Murray and Lethington; their disposition to England.

78. Sir William Cecill to the Earl of Murray and William Maitland. A sudden sickness of the Queen prevented his answering them sooner. Their letters show much appearance of affection towards the honour of both Queens, but in this he challenges them both. They will see by his curious long recital of the points of their letter that he is not negligent to consider well of their writing. The Queen [Elizabeth] had thought it meet to forbear further dealing, but now, except by their negligence they pass over the opportunity offered by their Sovereign's marriage to make a perpetual amity, they shall not need to fear the practices of any abroad. How can they desire plainer speech? He has conferred with the Queen, and finds her of one mind to preserve her natural love to her sister, and to advise that which shall be most beneficial to her. What can they find but a plain intention in his Sovereign? How ready hath she been ever to promote peace. What good hath ensued to the people of both countries; and how affectionate she hath been towards her sister, all persons can testify, so careful of her sister's well doing, as to forget her own estate and needfulness of marriage. It was from this hearty love that proceeded her advice as to the choice of a husband, and then, being pressed to particularities, she named one. But what is to be thought of their conduct in the late Conference at Berwick? To propose that their Queen should marry where she would, to ask a yearly revenue out of England, and that her succession to that crown might be established by Parliament! Surely my Lord of Lethington knows how to make a bargain. As they mean now to fall roundly to work, so will he also. The Queen was loth to meddle in their Sovereign's marriage, but, being required, she gave her advice, and named a noble gentleman, noble in all qualities requisite, and comparable to any Prince born; and now they must have the establishment of their Queen's title as second to her Majesty. Truly she will never consent with any creature to so much of this request as with this noble gentleman already named; but all that she mindeth to do must be ruled by her laws. After he had written thus far he had a second conference with the Queen. She will proceed on terms and conditions meet for friendship only, and not by way of contract. They know how tickle a matter it is for Princesses to be provoked to determine of their successors; wherefore he hopes they will not let this negotiation be made a mere bargain or purchase, so that, in the unwrapping thereof, there be found no other intention than to compass a kingdom and a crown which may be sooner lost than gotten. 79. Earl of Murray and William Maitland to Sir William Cecill. He might in fewer lines have comprehended matter more to their contentation. Are unwilling to give their Sovereign advice to do that which may be dishonourable and unsafe. Queen Elizabeth's love towards her is not ill bestowed. Their words, in the Conference at Berwick, implied no disrespect towards the Earl of Leicester. Think it right that the Queen should have her free choice. Demanded no yearly revenue out of England. Desire to have the Queen's title

80. Thomas Randolphe to Sir William Cecill. Queen Mary's grief at her Majesty's sickness. The Earl of Murray and Laird of Lethington wholly bent towards England. Disposition of the Duke of Chatelherault, Argyle, and Erskine. Professions of Shane O'Neill. James MacOnell. Affairs of Ireland. Pirates, &c.

Dec. 25.
Edinburgh.

81. William Maitland to Sir William Cecill. For private friendship recommends the matter in consideration to him earnestly; and assures him of the Queen of Scots' disinterestedness. The settlement of her title would remove all objections. Begg him to speak freely where he has so good ground to do so.

Dec. 25.

- Feb. 1. 10. Maitland to Cecill. Thanks for his friendly and gentle letter. Has ever taken him as a pattern, and will follow his footsteps as near as he can. In this last letter he sees his good meaning for the first time. He himself has thought him slow and fearful, but he would not permit any one else to have a wrong impression of him. Their friendship ought to be the means to establish a like feeling between their Sovereigns, and they ought to sacrifice their very lives to attain it. Prays him, therefore, to go forward as he has begun, and to suffer neither the malice of fortune nor the envy of man to overthrow the work he has built on so good a foundation.

- March 27. 41. The Earl of Morton and Lord Ruthven to Sir William Cecill.
Berwick. Knowing his good will to themselves, and all those who are wishing in any sort to maintain the true religion, they have thought it their duty to open to him the occasions of this last enterprize, for the which they presently suffer banishment, and therefore detail the very truth of the proceedings. How the King, having conceived a deadly hatred against one David Riccio, Italian, requested them and others to fortify him in executing the said David; and how that, having deeply considered the justice of the King's desire, in respect

17. Queen Elizabeth to Queen Mary. So horrified at the terrible murder of her husband that she has scarcely the spirit to write. However much her disposition constrains her to condolence, she must speak plainly, not to seek only to please her ears, but to try and preserve her honour. People say she will not care to touch the murderers; as if they had committed their deed knowing their safety; such a thought must not remain in her heart for all the gold in the world. Exhorts her, counsels her, entreats her, to give the world proof than she is a noble Princess and an honourable lady. Fr.

Hawick. information he can as to the moving of the marriage between the Duke of Norfolk and Queen of Scots.
- Oct. 22. 63. Murray to Cecill. Assures him that neither diligence nor good Hawick. will shall be wanting to procure the information required by her Majesty as to the projected marriage between the Duke of Norfolk and Queen of Scots.
- Oct. 23. 64. Queen Elizabeth to the Earl of Murray. Has heard the Commendator of Dunfermline, finds no clear resolution in their answer, and requests to be further satisfied.

Oct. 23. Edinburgh Castle. 65. William Maitland to Sir William Cecil. Thanks for his accutomed good will, which he hears from Archie Stewart. All public men are subject to the malice of the world. The Regent has yielded more to his accusers than he would of his own nature. Doubts not that by their calumnious accusations they will impeach his honour in England as well as in Scotland, but he trusts her Majesty knows his uprightness, and will not condemn him till he has been heard and admitted to purge himself.
- Oct. 23. Edinburgh Castle. 66. William Kyrkcaldy to the Earl of Bedford. The Laird of Lethington's imprisonment caused by the malice of his enemies; the issue will be to his honour and innocence. There are reports against himself, but nothing shall make him spot his poor honesty, for which he has greater respect than for his life.
- Oct. 29. Dumfries. 67. Earl of Murray to Queen Elizabeth. Communicates all the particulars which had occurred between him and the Duke of Norfolk, in respect to the Duke's proposed marriage with the Queen of Scots.
- Oct. 29. Dumfries. 68. Earl of Murray to Queen Elizabeth. Has dealt plainly and sincerely in what he has declared to her, and begs some advertisement of her mind.
- Oct. 29. Dumfries. 69. Murray to Cecil. Complains of his want of sincerity. Trusts that matters may be handled more plainly and frankly in future.
- Oct. 31. Manderstoun. 70. John Wood to Cecil. Prosperous journey of the Regent on the frontiers. Dumbarton in great strait. A charge of deception against himself.
- [Oct.] 71. Murray to Cecil. Laird of Lethington's refusal to accuse the Duke of Norfolk. Result of his "voyage" on the Borders. Good words of Lord Herries. State of the West March. The auld Papist Laird of Seyfeld is become a good Christian man.
- Nov. 7. Edinburgh. 72. Murray to Cecil. His participation in the matter of the proposed marriage between the Duke of Norfolk and the Queen of Scots; the Laird of Lethington's also. Willingness of the latter to go to England to vindicate himself.
- Nov. 19. Edinburgh. 73. Murray to Cecil. A letter from the Bishop of Ross to Lord Herries. Help for Queen Mary coming from France. The motion of the marriage between the Queen and Duke of Norfolk.
- Nov. 22. Edinburgh. 74. Murray to Cecil. A day of law for the Laird of Lethington; his opposition to it; the result. Having heard of the commotion in the North of England against the Queen under pretence of the papistical religion, he has offered to take part with her Majesty with the whole power of the realm of Scotland.
- Nov. 27. St. Andrews. 75. Proclamation made by the Regent of Scotland, directing all persons to observe the peace with the Queen of England.

Dec. 4. York. 76. Thomas Ratchliffe, Earl of Sussex, to the Earl of Murray. Informs him of his readiness to march against the Earls of Northumberland and Westmoreland; and advises him how to act in case of their joining with the adverse party in Scotland.
- Dec. 8. Edinburgh. 77. Proclamation by the Regent of Scotland, commanding all persons between the ages of 60 and 16 to be in readiness to meet him on a certain day against divers rebellious subjects in the North of England who had ravaged their country, and were expected to retreat into Scotland.
- Dec. 14. Edinburgh. 78. Proclamation by the King of Scotland, forbidding all skippers, masters, and mariners of Scotland to receive into their vessels, or have any intelligence with, certain rebellious subjects of England.
- Dec. 18. 79. Proclamation by the Regent of Scotland commanding all persons to meet him, "well bodin in feir of weir," at Peebles, on December 20, for resisting the invasion and entry into Scotland of certain rebellious and seditious Englishmen.
- Dec. 21. Exham. 80. Earl of Sussex to the Earl of Murray. Informs him of the flight of the Earls of Northumberland and Westmoreland into Liddesdale, and requests him to do what he can to apprehend them.
- Dec. 22. Peebles. 81. Earl of Murray to Queen Elizabeth. Has received letters respecting the repair of her rebels to the frontiers. Will omit nothing, either by force or policy, that may tend to the advancement of her Majesty's service.
- Dec. 22. Peebles. 82. Earl of Murray to the Earl of Sussex and others of her Majesty's Council in the North. Communicates his movements against the rebellious Earls. Shall omit nothing, either by force or policy, by which her Majesty may have proof of his affectionate mind towards her.
- Dec. [22?]. 83. Instructions for the Marshal of Berwick, to treat with the Regent of Scotland for the delivery into custody of the Earls of Westmoreland and Northumberland.
- Dec. 22. 84. Instructions for Mr. George Carey, by the Earl of Sussex, Lord Hunsdon, and Sir Ralph Sadleir, being presently depeched about the Queen's Majesty's affairs to the Lord Regent of Scotland, to treat for the delivery into custody of the Earls of Northumberland and Westmoreland, who had fled into Liddesdale.
- Dec. 22. Peebles. 85. Earl of Murray to Sir William Cecill. Retreat of the rebels to the Harlaw Woods. His movements and intentions against them. Expedience of her Majesty's keeping a force of footmen on the Borders. Diligence of the Marshal of Berwick.
- Dec. 24. Hawick. 86. George Carey to the Earl of Sussex, Lord Hunsdon, and Sir Ralph Sadleir. Care and diligence of the Earl of Murray. His proceedings for the capture of the rebel Earls.

Jedburgh. of Captain Borthwick, slain by the outlaws.

1569 ? 88. Instrument by the Earl of Murray, showing how the Queen of Scots is the ground or fountain from which all the tumults, practices, and daily dangers in the kingdom flow; and that her remaining in England gives better opportunity for the same; that it is fit that the Queen of England be moved to send her back into Scotland, and that hostages be offered for security of her honourable and safe treatment.

1569 ? 89. A note of the places in Scotland where one John Prestall resorted.

VOL. XVII. JANUARY—APRIL, 1570.

- April 12. Alnwick. 47. Sussex to Cecil. The French Ambassador about to return to France. Expedience of sending some ships to intercept him, and take him and his writings.
- April 14. Berwick. 48. Thomas Randolphe to Cecil. If the Queen of Scots be permitted to write so often, the Queen of England will have as much need to look to herself as the late Regent had. Queen Mary's knowledge of Murray's murder. Great mischief intended against England.
- April 16. Berwick. 49. Earl of Sussex to Cecil. Details his preparations for entering Scotland; disposition of the troops; his intentions, &c. Proceedings of Lord Home, the Earl of Morton, and the Laird of Lethington.
- April 16. Edinburgh. 50. Divers Lords and others of Scotland to Queen Elizabeth. Beg her Majesty to quench the heat that has begun amongst them. Appeal to her sense of Christian charity whether, requiring water at her hands to repress a flame, she can bring oil, tinder, or other materials to increase and nourish it? The cause of their troubles is the two titles of the mother and son to the Crown of Scotland, and they suggest that her Majesty may put an end to the difficulties by entering into honourable conditions with their Queen. [Signed by the Duke of Chaittherault, the Earls of Huntly, Erroll, Argyle, Atholl, Home, Herries, Maitland, and twenty others.]
- April 16. 51. Copy of the same.
- April 16. 52. Another copy.
- April 16. Boroughbridge. 53. Matthew Stewart, Earl of Lennox, to Sir William Cecil. Professes his desire to serve Queen Elizabeth in Scotland, but begs a relief of money before he can go there.
- April 17. Berwick. 54. Earl of Sussex to Queen Elizabeth. Letters from the Lords of Scotland, and his answer. Is about to enter Scotland. Incloses,
54. I. Instructions for the Laird of Trabroun, directed from the Earls of Huntly, Argyle, Atholl, Maitland, and others, of Scotland, to the Earl of Sussex, the Queen of England's Lieutenant on the Borders, requesting to know her Majesty's meaning in sending forces so near their kingdom; to express their minds if his order is to enter therein; and to dissuade him from doing so. April 15.
54. II. Earls of Huntly, Argyle, and others, to the Earl of Sussex. Understand that he is come to the Borders with forces. Have sent the bearer to declare their meaning, and wish for peace; and have sent another gentleman to her Majesty. Edinburgh, April 15.

VOL. XVII.

54. III. Earls of Huntly, Argyle, and others, to the Earl of Sussex. Request that he will give the bearer, sent by them to the Queen of England, favourable and safe passage, in respect that his letters contain matters of weight and very great importance to both the realms. Edinburgh, April 16.

54. IV. Earl of Sussex to the Lords of Scotland. Sends a proclamation whereby they may understand her Majesty's intention in sending forces to the Borders. Dares not forbear to execute her orders against her rebels wherever they be, and cannot permit their messenger to pass to her. Berwick, April 17.

April 17. 55. Thomas Randolphe to Sir William Cecil. Incloses a letter from the Laird of Grange. Doubts not his sincerity, unless the Laird of Lethington enchant him, whose intention is to bring home the Queen.

55. I. William Kyrkcaldy to Thomas Randolphe. Reception of the Nobles at Edinburgh; provisions made with them; the chief difficulty. Good meaning of Lord Herries; reasons for setting him at liberty. Near departure of the French Ambassador; message by him. Preparations to resist the English forces. Folly of their proceedings. Strength of the contrary faction. Necessity of his brother's (himself) sticking to them, &c. Edinburgh Castle, April 16.

April 18. 56. John Gordon to Queen Elizabeth. The affection of the Scotch nobility towards her. Their desire for her to unite the kingdoms in one. Inexpedience of her supporting a small party against the greater part of the ancient nobility. Offers of aid from the King of France. Requests her Majesty to stay her intentions of hostility against them. Not being permitted to pass to her Majesty, is forced to write.

April 18. 57. John Gordon to Sir William Cecil. His commission from the Lords. Their good meaning. The greater surety of her Majesty's treating with them, than with a few who respect only their own gains and ambitions.

April 21. 58. Earl of Sussex to Cecil. The letter from the Lords to her Majesty sent by John Gordon was received while he was overthrowing the Laird of Buccleuch's house. The Duke of Chatelherault is certainly at liberty. Grange is vehemently suspected by his fellows.

April 21. 59. Queen Elizabeth to the Earl of Sussex. Expresses her approval of his answer to the letters of the Lords of Scotland. Instructs him to license John Gordon to pass to her if he have any credit from the Lords besides his letters.

- April 23. Berwick. 63. Earl of Sussex to Cecill. Articles proposed to him by the Earl of Morton. Their meaning in respect to the Conference of the Lords, &c. Increase of the Queen's party. Revolt of Grange. The reported intention of the Queen of England to restore the Queen of Scots. Incloses, 63. I. Instructions given to Mr. Archibald Douglas by the Earl of Morton and others, to be declared to the Earl of Sussex, in respect to the Queen of England's assistance to their King, and the projected invasion of Scotland by English forces.
April, 1570.
- April 25. Dalkeith. 64. Earl of Morton to Mr. Randolphe. Expediency of his making certain arrangements with the Earl of Sussex to prevent Lord Herries and others from coming to Edinburgh, and to pretend that he himself [Sussex] is coming forward to Edinburgh at once. Maitland has plainly discovered himself, and will be the chief support of the Queen's party. • The Captain of the castle [Kyrkcaldy] to be neutral, bribed with the Priory of St. Andrews. Judas non dormit. Their adversaries are raising men, and pay them in English royals. Their own want of money.
- April 26. Edinburgh Castle. 65. William Kyrkcaldy to Mr. Randolphe. Assures him that he is still the King's faithful servant, and as ready as any to revenge the death of the Regent, but now that the Regent is dead he does not mean to subject himself over far to any other. Complains of the proceedings of the English, and shows how much the Queen will lose, and how little she will gain, in persevering in her present course against Scotland.
- April 27. Berwick. 66. Earl of Lennox to Cecill. Complains of sickness and want of money. Has given half of his little store to the Earl of Morton, for payment of the soldiers who have done such good service at Glasgow.

5. I. William Maitland Laird of Lethington to the Earl of Sussex. His answer not so direct as he looked for, the principal matters being deferred till he has further knowledge of his Sovereign's will. Defends his own conduct in now adhering to the cause of the Queen of Scots. Can he [Sussex] say that he has never changed his mind? Small praise is due to them who remain always of one opinion; and although the authority of philosophers may be brought forward, he [Lethington] is not a wise man, and must be a student in that school wherein it is taught that wise men's minds must be led by probable reasons. The same firm persuasion that is requisite in matters of faith must not be required in matters of policy. What they both ought to respect first is their country. Circumstances are altered,

Vol. XIX.

To sequestrate the Queen's person for a season might have been excused, but to keep her all her days in close prison would be intolerable. He knows that the Queen [Elizabeth] will not rule her actions by his thinking; he has not uttered his opinion to that end; but he trusts that she will have regard, in her conscience and honour, to what will be thought of her conduct by all Christendom.

Blair Athol, July 16.

5. II. Earl of Sussex to the Laird of Lethington. Sees his disadvantage in dealing with him in his professed art, but his replies are most dangerous sophisms, and a little truth will discover more than a great deal of sophistry and rhetorical colours can hide. The Queen of Scots was brought to captivity by him and his faction and not by the Queen of England. By what doctrine can he think that the causes of their conduct were just then and are unjust now? or that subjects may depose or set up Princes as the sailor alters the course of his ship? He may, as the old fathers did, revocare errores suos, but he must confess them to be errors, and not defend them to be no errors. He may think it no absurdity that a thing should be considered ill to-day which was good yesterday; and they may think in Scotland that the deposing and setting up of Princes are indifferent matters, but in other places they will be taken for great absurdities and grievous errors. The principal persons in the matter are the same, the causes are the same. As to his former conduct to the Queen he leaves it to his conscience; perhaps he dealt openly on one side and secretly on the other, but, if their wishes [in Scotland] had been complied with by the Queen of England, greater severity would have been used towards their Sovereign than any one in England would have thought of.

Hampton Court. 2. Sir William Cecill to the Laird of Grange. Received letters lately which were said to come from him, and heard the "credit" of the young fellow who brought them, which was needful, for the letters were not signed and the writer's meaning could not be guessed. In answer to these letters, he cannot promise to do any more towards restoring the quietness of Scotland than he has already done. Has since received another letter, in which he recites a matter lately happened, concerning the murder of a gentleman named Seaton, and the taking one of the murderers out of the Tolbooth, which he mentions an "occasion" for, in a blow given to some friend or cousin; and, in answer to this, for the sake of their old friendship, he thinks it right to say, that he should think himself guilty of blood if he did not thoroughly dislike him for such heinous conduct, especially as for so many years he made the world to think that he professed the Evangel of Jesus Christ.
- Jan. 11.
Edinburgh. 3. Earl of Lennox to Sir William Cecill. Has sent answer to the Queen in respect to her desire for the prorogation of the Scottish Parliament.
- Jan. 18.
Balveny. 4. William Maitland to Cecill. Doubts not that the Commissioners will do everything to satisfy her Majesty. Trusts, as the quiet of the kingdom depends on the issue of this treaty, that he will hold his hand to the furtherance of the same.
- Jan. 19.
Copenhagen. 5. Thomas Buchanan to Cecill. Informs him of the daily correspondence between the murderer Bothwell and the Queen of Scots; the reason of Bothwell's detention in Denmark; his other practices; communication with England, &c.

- Jan. 27. 6. Earl of Lennox to Queen Elizabeth. Informs her of the appointment of the Earl of Morton and the Clerk Register, to join with the Abbot of Dunfermline, as Commissioners to treat with her Majesty, upon the weighty affairs of the kingdom of Scotland.
Edinburgh.
- Jan. 27. 7. Earl of Lennox to Sir William Cecill. In accordance with her Majesty's meaning, my Lord of Morton repairs to her Highness with the Clerk Register and Dunfermline, the Ambassador, to whose sufficiency he refers him.
Edinburgh.
- Jan. 29. 8. Laird of Grange to Sir William Cecill. Denies that he has supported her Majesty's rebels. The late "fact" was committed by his servant against his will. Was forced by necessity to liberate him from the Tolbooth; but did not release the woman concerned in the murder of the late Regent.
Edinburgh Castle.
- [Jan.] 9. Notes of the injuries done by the adversaries of the Queen of Scots since the last abstinence, whereby the same is manifestly infringed and violated.
- [Jan.] 10. Memorandum of the same, apparently drawn up by the Abbot of Dunfermline, to be submitted to Queen Elizabeth.
- Jan. 31. 11. "Memorie" or Petition of the Countess of Murray to Queen Elizabeth, for support and protection for herself, and her bairns, the posterity of her husband the late Regent.
- Feb. 1. 12. Countess of Murray to Queen Elizabeth. Submits the suit and petition of herself and her fatherless children. Has informed the Earl of Morton of the same, and begs her Majesty to credit him in her behalf.
Edinburgh.
- Feb. 24. 13. Lord Fleming to the Earl of Lennox. Offers to make redress of anything that can be laid to his charge since the beginning of the abstinence.
Dumbarton.
- Feb. 7 & 20. 14. Lord Fleming to the Commissioners of the Queen of Scots. Informs them of his persecution by the Earl of Lennox, and destruction of his property. Protests his fidelity to the Queen of Scots.
Dumbarton.
- March 4. 15. Testimonies [from the Holy Scriptures] to prove that the Queen's Majesty of Scotland has been unjustly removed from the possession of the Crown of Scotland. Delivered by the Bishop of Ross.
- March 9. 16. Frederick King of Denmark to the King of Scotland. In reply to his letters, and the propositions submitted to him by the Ambassador, Thomas Buchanan, in regard to the detention of the Earl of Bothwell and Captain Clark in Denmark. Lat.

- March 16. 19. Earl of Cassillis to the Laird of Grange. Informs him of the determination of the Earl of Glencairn and his Council not to conform to the abstinence, but to destroy all the houses there, to wrak the country and all his [Cassillis'] dependants and friends.
Maybole.
- March 17. 20. Proclamation by the King of Scotland, commanding all and sundry his lieges that have received wages of the Laird of Grange, and taken arms at his command, to leave him within three days under pain of death. [With notes at the bottom by two persons who made the proclamation public on the 20th.]
- March 20. 21. Laird of Grange to Sir William Drury. Begs him to forward some letters to the Court of England for the Queen of Scots' Commissioners. The conduct of the Earl of Lennox compels him to run another course than he thought to have done, but he will leave no good office undone to maintain peace between the two realms.
Edinburgh Castle.
- March 26. 22. Earl of Lennox to Queen Elizabeth. Requests safe conduct for David Borthwick to pass through her realm, and thence to France.
Glasgow.
- April 1. 23. M. Verac, French Ambassador in Scotland, to M. de la Mothe Fénélon, French Ambassador in England. Instructs him how to correspond with him, but his letters must be in cipher. Lord Cassillis has submitted to the Regent. Movements of other nobles, &c. [Partly in cipher.]
Dumbarton.
- [April 11.] 24. Challenge by Sir William Kyrkcaldy, Laird of Grange, offering to fight any person, or horseback or on foot, who will maintain the truth of certain malicious reports spread against him by the Earl of Lennox.
- April 11. 25. Thomas Hamilton, of Priestfield, to William Panther. James Bruce's and Francis Lyntown's journeys to France. Proclamation made by the Captain [of Edinburgh Castle] against Lennox. His challenge of any person who will maintain Lennox's assertions. Both parties making for the field.
- April 18. 26. Earl of Morton, Abbot of Dumfermline, and James Makgill to Lord Burghley. Recommends Michael Gilbert, Thomas Gilbert, William Foular, Simon Marjoribanks, John Acheson, David Somerville, John Esby, Archibald Fairlie, Nicholas Uduart, and William Uduart, for passports to go to France and Flanders.
Berwick.
- April 21. 27. Laird of Grange to the Earls of Sussex and Leicester. Professes his desire for the pacification of the troubles in Scotland, and recommends a course to be pursued by the Queen of England. Informs them of the ungentle and unlawful proceedings of the Earl of Lennox against him, and of the necessity of his opposing him for his own security, and, since Lennox has made open demonstration of hostility, he himself could do no less, and has joined with such of the nobility as would support him.
Edinburgh Castle.
- April. 28. A reply by the Archbishop of St. Andrews in regard to a violation of the abstinence alleged against him by the Earl of Lennox, in respect of the taking possession of the Abbey of Paisley, the said abbey being his own.

Captain of Edinburgh Castle, and the party with him, will try to prevent, having made all kinds of fortifications in the town, and lately received succour from France.

May 14. 39. Queen Elizabeth to the Earl of Morton. Recommends to him the case of Acerbo Velutelli, an Italian merchant, from whom a cargo of wood had been taken at sea by pirates, and thence carried to Scotland and sold.

May 20. 40. Queen Elizabeth to Sir William Drury. Instructs him to proceed to Scotland, and to confer with the Regent Lennox on the one part, and the Laird of Grange and Lethington on the other part, as to the hostilities between them, and to inquire as to the probability of the Regent's recovering the Castle of Edinburgh.

May 21. 41. Queen Elizabeth to the Earl of Lennox. For the desire that Westminster. she has that the contending parties in Scotland may be brought to concord again, she has sent Sir William Drury, Marshal of Berwick, to that country, and requests credit for him.

May 22. 42. Duke of Chatelherault and Earl of Huntly to Queen Elizabeth. Edinburgh. Inform her of the proceedings of themselves and others professing obedience to the Queen of Scots, and that, in consequence of their adversaries' behaviour about the late attempted treaty, they cannot any longer, in honour or conscience, suffer the people to be abused and blindly led into error; at the same time, they assure her Majesty that they mean no alteration in the good intelligence with England.

May 22. 43. Duke of Chatelherault and Earl of Huntly to Lord Burghley. Edinburgh. Request his mediation with the Queen of England, that their letter may be well accepted by her.

May 23. 44. Sir William Drury to the Privy Council. March of the Regent with his troops to Stirling. A battle near Leith. Shots from Berwick. the castle. The troops of Edinburgh issue forth against Morton. The armies within a mile of one another, but do not fight. Money received by the Laird of Grange. General dislike of the Regent. Requests directions concerning Hawle [Herlle], who was taken at Dumbarton.

May 24. 45. Sir William Drury to Lord Burghley. Starts to-night to Berwick. meet the Regent and Morton, to confer with them according to her Majesty's instructions, and will procure an abstinence if he can. Has given orders for the apprehension of John Cobham. Sends some answers from Hawle [Herlle]. Capture of a ship with munition for the castle. A man of war and pinnace off the coast with letters of marque from the Prince of Orange.

May 25. 46. Circular letter issued by the Duke of Chatelherault, the Laird Edinburgh. of Grange and their adherents for the assembly of forces on the part of the Queen of Scots.

May 25. 47. Another copy of the same letter. Edinburgh.

Leith.

2. Earl of Lennox to Queen Elizabeth. Has again sent the bearer, James Cunningham, to her, instructed by himself and others of the King's Council on the state of matters in Scotland.

[August.]

3. Paper of memoranda by Sir William Drury, probably made out for the instruction of Cunningham on his being again sent to England; respecting the position of the Regent in Scotland, and his need of the Queen of England's assistance.

August.
Hackney.

4. Countess of Lennox to Lord Burghley. Begg his attention towards the dispatch of some person to Scotland, now that he is wholly satisfied of the proceedings there, by Fowler, and as my Lord her husband looks daily for the bearer's return.

August 10.
Louvain.

5. John and Thomas Ogilvy to their brother Lord George Ogilvy of Dunlugus, in Banff. Are not willing to return home this summer for sundry causes. Lord Seton invited them to return with him, and has offered them other kindnesses, for which they desire he may be thanked.

VOL. XXI.

- 1571.
- August 11. 6. Sir William Drury to [Lord Burleigh]. The order taken Berwick. with Mons. Verac is altered, and he is commanded to remain at at St. Andrews. An alarm at the town walls by the Regent's foot bands. Challenge by the Laird of Wermyston [Ormistoun?] to the Laird of Applegarth; its acceptance; prevention of the fight; increasing use of the pistolet and harquebuss.
- August 12. 7. Articles agreed upon between the Earls of Morton and Mar, Stirling. and the Earls of Argyle, Cassillis, Eglintoun, and Lord Boyd, whereby the latter agree to serve the King and the Regent, and the former to "remit" them for want of obedience to the King in times bygone.
- August 12. 8. Another copy of the same paper, indorsed by Randolphe, Stirling. having been forwarded by him for the approbation of the Queen of England.
- August 12. 9. Sir William Drury to Lord Burghley. The Regent's discon-Berwick. tent at the reports about him and his disagreement with the nobles.
The Laird of Applegarth and others of his party taken prisoners.
Unkindness between the Laird of Farnihurst and the town of Jedworth.
- August ? 10. Drury to [Burghley]. The Earls of Morton and Argyle not to agree till they hear from him [Drury]. Morton expects a pension from the Queen of England; he and his party are to keep good terms with the Regent. [Probably a postscript to the preceding letter.]
- August 13. 11. Earl of Argyle to the Duke of Chatellherault. Explains his Stirling. reasons for joining the King's party, and offers his services to procure him some ease and quiet after this "langsum" trouble.
- August 17. 12. Earl of Argyle to the Duke of Chatellherault and Earl of Glendaruaill. Huntly. Will not go to Edinburgh, according to their summons, to put the title to the Crown of Scotland under the judgment of any other Prince, believing that no one has received power to do so from the Queen.
- Aug. 13 & 17. 13. Copy of the two preceding letters.
- August 22. 14. Sir William Drury to Lord Burghley. The reports concerning Berwick. the disagreement between the Regent and the nobles. His own conduct in the matter. The Regent's devotion to Queen Elizabeth.
The report of her Majesty's marriage.
- August 22. 15. John Case to Sir William Drury. Morton's thankfulness for Leith. the money, and his devotion to the Queen of England. Advice for the Regent. Border matters.
- August 23. 16. Earl of Morton to Queen Elizabeth. Had received her letter Leith. expressing her sorrow that her motion for cessation of hostilities had not taken effect. Is obliged for her Majesty's loving dealing towards them, and for her particular consideration towards himself.
- August 23. 17. Earl of Morton to Sir William Drury. Thanks for 500 marks Leith. with which it has pleased the Queen of England to visit him. Good effect of her counsel in her letters to the Regent. Will aid the Regent all he can. Sundry of the nobles are come over to the King's obedience, and there is good appearance that more will follow.

VOL. XXI.

- August 24. 18. Sir William Drury to Lord Burghley. Money given to the Earl Berwick. of Morton ; his offers and promises. Present and future advantage. Argyle and others have subscribed to the King. Failure of a stratagem in Edinburgh. Mons. Verac. Lady Lennox. The soldiers paid "in soveraynes [and] x^s peasyes."

remonstrance with the Regent. Morton's devotion to the Queen of England. The Regent offended with him. Determination of the nobility to take Edinburgh, &c.*
Stirling, September 2.
29. II. Earl of Morton to Drury. Promises, for the reverence he bears to the Queen of England, and on account of their own private friendship, to prevent all discord between the nobles who profess obedience to the King of Scotland.
Stirling, August 31.
29. III. List of those persons found guilty at the Parliament, and doom of forfeiture pronounced against them. August.
29. IV. The speech made by the King of Scotland in the Tolbooth.
August 28.
- Sept. 2. 30. George and John Durye to the Laird of Dunfermline. Had Louvain. written to various friends in Scotland after they had answered in the schools for their Bachelor Act. Have been kindly received by Lord Seton, the Queen's Ambassador in Louvain, who presses them to receive money to "hold" them at the schools. If he leaves them any money they beg that it may be repaid to him.
- Sept. 3. 31. William Maitland and William Kyrkcaldy to Sir William Edinburgh Drury. They wish as much health and prosperity to the Queen of Castle. England as any in Christendom, and do not desire that any gentleness which they require her Majesty to use towards their Sovereign should breed any unsurety to herself. They think the Queen of Scots should yield to any honourable conditions which may content the Queen of England, and are willing that the treaty should proceed. The nobles have long since named their Commissioner, Master Melvill, and he has only been delayed on account of the danger of his passage.
- Sept. 4. 32. Anonymous to Sir William Drury. Communicates particulars of a surprize this day upon Stirling by the Queen's party, under the Earl of Huntly. Their capture of the Nobles of the King's side, defence of Lord Morton's house until it was nearly burnt, rescue of the nobles, and death of the Regent Lennox. [Written by some person who was in the house of the Earl of Morton at the time of the attack.]
- Sept. 5. 33. "Advertisement of some of the partie of the Regent," of the attack upon Stirling by the Queen's party under the Earl of Huntly and death of the Regent.

VOL. XXI.

1571.

“Advertisement from some of the partie of the Castell” of the same affair, of the surrender of the Regent, the Earl of Morton, and other nobles ; their rescue, and death of the Regent.

- Sept. 3. 34. Anonymous to Lord Burghley. A narrative of particulars since August 24. Mons. Verac taken to Edinburgh by the Laird of Ormiston. Capture of Lord Lindsay's house. Assault on Leith. Opening of Parliament by the King. The attack upon Stirling by the Queen's party. Death of the Regent. Mar appointed in his place.
- Sept. 5. 35. Sir William Drury to Burghley. Sends an advertisement Berwick. from Scotland [probably the letter of the 4th, ante,] from a person of credit.
- Sept. 5. 36. Drury to Burghley. Other advertisements from Scotland.
Berwick. Reported death of the Regent: if it be true the Queen of England hath received a great loss, as she will never find the like affection towards her in any other Scottish-born person.
- Sept. 6. 37. Drury to Burghley. Letter from the Lairds of Grange and Berwick. Lethington. If the posts do not their duty, beg that they may hear of it. Incloses,
37. I. William Kyrkcaldy Laird of Grange to Sir William Drury. Informs him of the enterprise against Stirling. The capture of the Lords of the King's party, and their subsequent escape. Death of the Regent. A great enterprise lost by negligence. Edinburgh Castle, Sept. 5.
37. II. William Maitland and William Kyrkcaldy to Sir William Drury. Particulars of the enterprise of their men against the adverse faction at Stirling; the march of the troops, under the Earl of Huntly, by night; the horses left a mile from Stirling. The capture of the Earl of Lennox and all the nobles, except the Earls of Mar and Angus, who were in the castle. The defence of the Earl of Morton's house; its compelled surrender by fire; the soldiers and Borderers rush to the spoil. Buccleuch's movement to save Morton from the Hamiltons; consequent disorder. Death of the Regent by some of his own party, and escape of Morton and the rest of the nobles. Lennox was not hurt by any of their [the Queen's] side. The Earl of Mar is appointed Regent in his stead; and what the Queen of England may look for at his hands they leave to her own judgment. Edinburgh Castle, Sept. 6.
- Sept. 7. 38. Duke of Chatelherault, Earl of Huntly, and the Lairds of Edinburgh. Lethington and Grange to the King of France. Return thanks for his interest in the affairs of their Queen. Beg a continuance of his protection; and assure him that they will do to the utmost of their power to preserve the ancient friendship between the two countries. Fr.

VOL. XXI.

Sept. 7. 39. Mons. Verac to the King of France. Informs him of the satisfaction of the nobles of the Queen of Scots' party at the death of the Earl of Lennox, but of their fears from England; and of their wish, of the Laird of Grange especially, that his Majesty will aid them with some forces. Fr.
- Sept. 7.
Berwick. 40. Sir William Drury to Lord Burghley. Fresh advertisement respecting the death of the Regent, and the election of the Earl of Mar in his place.
- Sept. 7.
Louvain. 41. George and John Durye to John Davidson, at Lord Dunfermline's in Scotland. Marvel that they have received no answer to their letters sent through Mr. George Halket. Request him to "remember" their Mæcenæ that they shall want a good sum of money for the cold winter to come, and to enable them to proceed in their studies.
- Sept. 7.
Louvain. 42. George and John Durye to their brother, Peter Durye, or, in his absence, to Henry Durye. Michaelmas is approaching, and they need furnishing. The money which Lord Seton offered them, for their Mæcenæ's sake, they durst not receive, because they knew not his will, and were expecting help from Scotland. The pest is vehement in sundry towns thereabouts. Beg him to remind their mother of the sarks and gowns they desired in their last writings.
- Sept. 10.
Berwick. 43. Sir William Drury to Lord Burghley. Delays acting upon her Majesty's instructions, in consequence of the death of the Regent. Order given for the thieves of Teviotdale. The brave conduct of the Regent at his death. Her Majesty's loss in him.
- Sept. 13.
Leith. 44. John Lord Erskine and Earl of Mar, Regent of Scotland, to Sir William Drury. William Stewart appointed to carry his letters to her Majesty. Falsehood of the Laird of Grange's reports as to the death of the late Regent, his death, and that of many other nobles, having been conspired, and determined to be put into execution.
- Sept. 13.
Edinburgh. 45. Mons. Verac to —. Requests him to act as interpreter in some communications which he has to make to the Earl of Morton; to thank him for his efforts with the Earl of Lennox to procure his release; and to require a passport for France. Fr.
- Sept. 13.
Berwick. 46. Sir William Drury to Lord Burghley. Determined enmity of the Regent Mar, who has accepted the Regency, and the Earl of Morton against them of the castle. Intended assault of Edinburgh. Captain Cockburn to go to France. Execution of Captains Bell and Cawder; the latter after the manner of France. Their confession with respect to the murder of the late Regent Lennox.

Sept. 15.
Berwick.

48. Sir William Drury to Lord Burghley. William Stewart going to England instead of Captain Cockburn. Reported intention of Lord Claude Hamilton to have burned Glasgow. Incloses,

48. i. Earl of Mar to Sir William Drury. Complains of spoils committed on the land of Thomas Cranstoun, the husband of Lady Corsby, by some of the Homes, and requests him to give order to the Captain of Home Castle, for redress of these disorders. Leith, Sept. 14.

Sept. 16.
Leith.

49. Earl of Mar to Sir William Drury. Returns thanks for his good will and friendship, and requests him to continue therein.

Sept. 17.
Leith.

50. Earl of Morton to Sir William Drury. Sorry to hear of the troubles to some noblemen in England, and is glad for the Queen's sake that their practices are discovered. Their neighbours of Edinburgh are minded to lift more men of war, and Mons. Verac intends to lift a band in the name of the Cardinal of Lorraine.

Sept. 19.
Berwick.

51. Sir William Drury to Lord Burghley. Credits the bearer [John Case] who is instructed by him in Scottish matters, and directed to receive the Queen of England's commands thereupon.

Sept. 19.

52. Memoranda of Scottish matters by Sir William Drury for the instruction of John Case, who is going to England from him to have audience of Queen Elizabeth.

Vol. XXI.

Sept. 27. 53. Sir William Drury to Lord Burghley. Negligence of the Berwick. posts. Lady Lennox. Sir James Hamilton and the Duke of Chatelherault are reconciled. Great preparations for the defence of Edinburgh. Battering pieces prepared by the Regent. Mons.
Virac's letter to the French King contained a request for 200 men to be sent from France.
- Sept. 29. 54. Earl of Mar to Sir William Drury. Requests him to send Stirling. him a packet which James Cunningham had directed to the late Regent. Is now preparing to set the town of Edinburgh at liberty.
Finds great good will and forwardness in the nobles, who have promised obedience to the King.
- Sept. 30. 55. Sir William Drury to Lord Burghley. Intercepted letters of Berwick. Mons. Verac. Murderous designs against the King's party. Morton the chiefest mark to be shot at. Apprehension of a French boy with letters concealed in a staff or cudgel. Want of money; if the Regent and his adherents have not cause to speak English, they will presently give themselves to speak French. Incloses, 55. 1. The heads of certain intercepted letters of Mons. Verac's, directed to the French King, the Queen Mother, and others, with marginal remarks by Sir William Drury.
- Sept. 30. 56. Earl of Morton to Drury. Purport of James Cunningham's Leith. letter to him [from England]. The Queen of England's disposition towards the Regent. A chase and fight between thirteen horsemen of Edinburgh and ten of his [Morton's] servants, in which the former were beaten. A complaint by Sir Andrew Ker of shots fired at him, when on his own ground, from Wark castle.
- Oct. 1. 57. Demands made by James Cunningham to the Queen of England, for aid of money, men, and munition, to aid the King's party in Scotland.
- Oct. 2. 58. Queen Elizabeth to the Earl of Mar. Expresses her satisfaction at his appointment to the Regency, and informs him that in consequence of certain pernicious practices of the Scottish Queen against her, she does not mean to deal further by treaty, or otherwise, in her favour. Lord Hunsdon is appointed presently to repair to Scotland, to treat and conclude with him, and the rest of the nobility, for the common repose of both the realms. *
- Oct. 2. 59. Sir William Drury to Lord Burleigh. A message by a Berwick. servant of the Bishop of Ross to them in the castle, with which they seem well pleased. Mons. Verac much disliked by them.
Letters from the castle to France intercepted. Edinburgh to be defended to the risk of their lives. A fierce and cruel fight. Repair of Berwick bridge.
- Oct 4. 60. Queen Elizabeth to Sir William Drury. Has ordered 1,000*l.* to be sent to him, and authorizes him to pay it to the Regent as secretly as he may, for the satisfaction of his waged soldiers, if necessary.

VOL. XXI.

Oct. 6. Berwick. 61. [Sir William Drury] to the Lairds of Lethington and Grange. Informs them of the alteration in her Majesty's mind towards the Queen of Scots, in consequence of the discovery of certain high and dangerous practices tending to the manifest danger of her own royal person; and advises them, therefore, for their own safety, to yield themselves wholly to the obedience of the King of Scotland, who is most like to rule, whatsoever opinion they may hold to the contrary.
- Oct. 6. Berwick. 62. Sir William Drury to Lord Burleigh. His persuasions with the Lairds of Lethington and Grange, to induce them to quietness. The march of the Regent to Leith. Suspected betrayal of the town of Edinburgh; its fortifications. Brass pieces, and other munition, from Hamburg, bought by the Regent.
- Oct. 10. Edinburgh Castle. 63. William Maitland and William Kyrkcaldy to Sir William Drury. Acknowledge the receipt of his communication, made to them on the part of the Queen of England. Think it of such weight that they intend to send a messenger to her and request safe conduct for him.
- Oct. 12. Camp before Edinburgh. 64. Earl of Mar to Queen Elizabeth. Returns thanks for her favourable disposition and resolution towards the troubled state of that kingdom. Look for her further mind on the arrival of Lord Hunsdon. The sooner their present enterprise is taken in hand the better will it be for all parties, and less chargeable to her Majesty. Little faith to be placed in their adversaries.
- Oct. 12. Camp before Edinburgh. 65. Earl of Mar to Sir William Drury. Trusts that Lord Hunsdon is arrived. Thanks him for his good services with the Queen. John Case and the bearer [James Cunningham] instructed of other matters.
- Oct. 12. Camp before Edinburgh. 66. Earl of Morton to Drury. Thanks for his good and friendly dealing. John Case informed of the state of affairs. James Cunningham sent to Berwick to attend Lord Hunsdon's coming.
- Oct. 13. 67. Memoranda by James Cunningham of matters imparted to him by the Regent of Scotland, to be required of Lord Hunsdon and Sir William Drury, for aid, &c., to the King's party in Scotland; and in answer to certain proposals submitted to the Regent on behalf of the Queen of England.
- Oct. 13. 68. Memoranda by John Case of the answer of the Queen of Scots' party to the proposals made by him to them on behalf the Queen of England, his observations as to their condition, strength of Edinburgh, number of their forces, &c.
- Oct. 13. 69. Memoranda respecting the Regent and the King of Scotland's party, their strength, condition, &c.
- Oct. 13. 70. Memoranda of the number of soldiers on the sides respectively of the King's party and those of the castle and town of Edinburgh.

VOL. XXI.

Oct. 15. Berwick. 71. Sir William Drury to Lord Burghley. The Regent's and the opposite party's reception of the Queen's letters. Support of money and munitions required by the Regent. Good services of the bearer [Scudamore]. Private matters.
- Oct. 15. Berwick. 72. Sir William Drury to the Privy Council of England. Informs them of the strength and number of men in the castle and town of Edinburgh, also of the strength of the Regent's party, and their need of help. Refers to the bearer Scudamore.
- Oct. 19. Berwick. 73. Sir William Drury to Lord Burghley. A report of his [Drury's] death, but he hopes still to do his Queen good service. Commencement of the battery against Edinburgh. Confidence of them of the town. A fight between Adam Gordon and the Forbes. Repair of Berwick bridge. Incloses,
73. I. Duke of Chatelherault, Earl of Huntly, and others to the King of France. Return thanks for his interest in the affairs of their Queen, and will do all they can to bring the country to her obedience, and to preserve the ancient alliance between Scotland and France. Fr. 1571, Sept. 7.
73. II. Duke of Chatelherault and others to Catherine de Medicis, Queen Mother of France. Return thanks for her affection to the cause of the Queen of Scotland their Sovereign. Fr. 1571, Sept. 7.
- Oct. 20. 74. Queen Elizabeth's instructions for Lord Hunsdon on his going to Scotland:—To obtain the reduction of the castle and town of Edinburgh to the obedience of the King of Scotland; to procure conditions for the Lairds of Grange and Lethington at the hand of the Regent, if they deliver up the castle; to deal with Grange and Lethington; to prepare aid of forces for the Regent to recover the castle, &c.
- Oct. 22. 75. Queen Elizabeth's amended instructions to Lord Hunsdon on his being sent to Scotland.
- Oct. 22. Richmond. 76. Minute of the same instructions.
- [Oct. 22.] 77. Abstract by Lord Hunsdon of the instructions received by him from Queen Elizabeth on being sent into Scotland.
- Oct. 26. Edinburgh Castle. 78. William Maitland to Lord Burghley. Expresses his satisfaction at the recommencement of communication between them. Justifies his past conduct, and denies that he has transgressed the bounds of his duty. In the matters of England and the "practices" so much bruited he has not meddled. The Laird of Grange and himself desire to send a special messenger to the Queen of England to confer with her on the proposals which have lately been made to them by Sir William Drury.

Vol. XXI.

Oct 29.
Berwick.

79. Sir William Drury to Lord Burleigh. A letter from the Laird of Lethington. They of the castle have only acted hitherto to gain time. The Regent would be content that the troubles were ended, but Morton rules all, and is unwilling that the Queen's party should be treated with at all. The King's party look for aid from the Queen of England. The Master of Forbes is with the Regent, soliciting aid against the Gordons.

Nov. 4.
Berwick.

80. Henry Carey Lord Hunsdon to Lord Burghley. His arrival. Has sent to the Regent, the Lairds of Lethington and Grange. James Kyrkcaldy, who brought the last money, is gone again to France. The King's party intrenched at Leith. A combat between two soldiers of the King's and Queen's party; the Queen's man slain. Powder. Want of money by the King's party. The thieves of Liddesdale. Weakness of the Bishoprick.

Nov. 5.
Berwick.

81. Lord Hunsdon to the Lairds of Lethington and Grange. Informs them of the Queen of England's determination to support the King of Scotland's authority, and utterly to withdraw all his enemies. Exhorts them to remember the lamentable state of their poor afflicted country; how pleasant and profitable a time it is for murderers and thieves; how they [Lethington and Grange] will deserve the curse of the poor, whose cries will surely reach to Heaven; and advises them, therefore, to conform themselves to the King's obedience, and become his true and faithful subjects as they have been heretofore.

Nov. 10.
Berwick.

82. Lord Hunsdon to the Lairds of Lethington and Grange. Has received their letters, by which they seem to wish to have matters compounded. Explains the reasons of her Majesty's not sending particularly to the Duke of Chatellherault and the Earl of Huntly, having addressed them [Lethington and Grange] as the principal promoters and nourishers of these troubles. He has no commission to enter Scotland, and so cannot come to them as they desire, although he would not be unwilling to do so. They seem to mislike delay, and yet do little else; so he advises them to send some one to meet the King's Commissioners, who are to treat with him on Wednesday or Thursday next.

Nov. 11.
Berwick.

83. Lord Hunsdon to Lord Burghley. Difficulty of making any agreement. Tullibarne went to the castle from Leith, but for what purpose they know not. Stealing of the Earl of Morton's sheep by the castle party. Morton's message to the Laird of Grange, begging their return. Grange's answer. Grange gone to France for money. Soldiers sent by the Earl of Huntly to maintain the Gordons against Lord Forbes.

Nov. 14.
Leith.

84. Earl of Mar to Lord Hunsdon. The Commissioners on the part of the King of Scotland will be with him on Sunday. Advises that the Commissioners for the Queen's party be not suffered to go further than Berwick, as he suspects they intend some unlawful practices.

Nov. 16.
Berwick.

85. Lord Hunsdon to Lord Burghley. Earl of Morton not come, according to his expectation. The King's party treating with them of the castle. The Regent will not agree to the delivery of the Earl of Northumberland. Strength of the castle. Difficulty of his charge. Incloses,

85. 1. William Maitland and William Kyrkcaldy to Lord Hunsdon. Intend shortly to send Mr. Andrew Melvill to make some overtures to him. Edinburgh Castle, Nov. 15.

Nov. 18.

86. Instructions given to Andrew Melvill by the Lairds of Grange and Lethington, to be communicated by him to Lord Hunsdon, explaining the causes of the contest between the two parties in Scotland, and the difficulties of their position as regards the authority due to the Queen or King of Scotland, and requesting the appointment of a government by the nobility, of whom half should be of the party of the Queen.

Nov. 21.

Berwick.

87. Lord Hunsdon to the Lairds of Lethington and Grange. Marvels at their demands sent by Andrew Melvill, which they know the Queen of England will not agree to. Advises them to take another course, as, he assures them, this is the last time of asking.

Nov. 22.

Berwick.

88. Lord Hunsdon to the Privy Council of England. Arrival of Morton and Abbot of Dunfermline to treat with him for quieting the troubles there. Their consent to give hostages for the safe return of the Queen of England's soldiers. The need of her Majesty's aid both in men and money. Forces required for the winning of the castle. The required delivery of the Earl of Northumberland and the rest of the Queen of England's rebels. The plain intention and unreasonable demands of them of the castle. Incloses,

88. 1. Instructions given to Andrew Melvill by the Lairds of Grange and Lethington of matters to be communicated by him to Lord Hunsdon. 1571, Nov. 18.

Nov. 22.

Berwick.

89. Lord Hunsdon to Lord Burghley. Has sent John Case again to them of the castle, but looks for no better answer. Necessity of two or three thousand men being put in readiness to take the castle. Glad to hear of Lord Oxford's marriage so soon. Has written to his [Hunsdon's] wife, that does or hinds may not be wanting.

Nov. 24.

90. Queen Elizabeth to the Regent of Scotland. Desires his good will towards the causes of her dear cousin the Lady Margaret, Countess of Lennox.

Nov. 25.

Berwick.

91. Lord Hunsdon to Lord Burghley. Arrival of letters from the French Ambassador. Money received, and men and munition coming from France. Devices of the Queen of Scots' party to gain time. The longer the Queen of England delays the worse it will be for her. Need of one of her Majesty's pinnaces there.

VOL. XXI.

- Nov. 25. 92. The Earl of Morton's "demands" of Lord Hunsdon, in respect to the number of the Queen of England's forces that would be required to take the castle of Edinburgh, and of other assistance requested by the King of Scotland's party.
- Nov. 26. 93. Lord Hunsdon's answer to the Earl of Morton's preceding "demands."
- [Nov. 26.] 94. A note of "What ordinance and other furniture the Regent's Grace can make towards the expugnation of the castle."
- Nov. 27. 95. Lord Hunsdon to Lord Burghley. Necessity of the Queen
Berwick. of England's proceeding in the action there without further delay. Force requisite for the winning of the castle. If her Majesty will be at the charge of 4,000 men for a month all Scotland shall be brought to do what she pleases. His own wish to have the charge of the enterprize. Till the castle be won they will never leave craving for money. 200 men lost in the quarrel between the Forbeses and the Gordons. Wreck of a ship of Hull.
- Nov. 28. 96. Lord Hunsdon to Queen Elizabeth. They of the castle mean Berwick. nothing less than either to submit to her Majesty's direction or to the obedience of the King. Their desire for the setting up of the Queen of Scots and her son jointly. Force must be used, and at once. The numbers of troops required to win the castle; hopes that her Majesty will give him leave to be at it himself; that she will not let him beat the bush and others have the birds.
- Nov. 28. 97. Lord Hunsdon to the Privy Council. Answer from them of the castle. Necessity of her Majesty's using force against them. Strength of the castle. Forces required. They [the English] must win it themselves. Cart-horses wanted to convey the ordnance. The Earl of Morton requests money, their soldiers' pay being in arrear a month. Incloses, 97. 1. William Maitland and William Kyrkcaldy to Lord Hunsdon. See no reason why the Queen of England, his mistress, should allow of any particular government of their kingdom more than another; think their own plan quite as likely to preserve the amity between the two kingdoms; do not allow themselves to be guilty of any crimes, and will not be judged by other than their lawful magistrate; leave a large field for her Majesty to walk in at her pleasure, it being too narrow a close that hath but one passage to go out at. Edinburgh Castle, Nov. 24.
- Nov. 28. 98. Earl of Morton and Robert Abbot of Dunfermline to Lord Berwick. Burghley. Inform him of their late proceedings as the King of Scotland's Commissioners, with the view of treating with Lord Hunsdon. Delivered a writing to Sir William Drury, which he will communicate to him.

VOL. XXI.

[Nov. 28.] 99. Instructions to Sir William Drury to be communicated to the Queen's Majesty of England, upon the behalf of James Earl of Morton, and others, the Commissioners on the part of the King of Scotland.
- Nov. ? 100. Ane admonitioun to my Lord Regentis Grace. A ballad against the bringing in of English forces into Scotland, commencing,
 " Maist loyall Lord, ay for yi lawtie lowitt,
 Now be no' lakkit for deloyaltie,
 Thocht to ye princes place thow be promowit,
 Be not abusitt be autoritie,
 But schaw thy treuth and thy integritye,
 Sen we sa far o'sellfis hes submittit,
 And King and countray, lawis and libertie, Onto thy cair and creditt hawe committit."
- Dec. 3. 101. Earl of Mar to Lord Burghley. Credits the bearer, his Leith. cousin [Cunningham], addressed to the Queen of England, and requests him to further his business.
- Dec. 4. 102. Lord Hunsdon to Lord Burghley. Danger of delay. Captain Berwick. Cunningham addressed to the Court to hasten the Queen of England's resolution. Sorry the Duke [of Norfolk] hath deserved so ill as to be indicted. The Queen must look to her own safety; though he is loth to counsel her to blood. If she do not send forces to Scotland all her money will be lost. Sorry for the revenge taken by his [Hunsdon's] son upon one Cartwright, and grieved at her Majesty's displeasure about it.
- Dec. 14. 103. Hunsdon to Burghley. Daily conferences between the Berwick. King's and Queen's party; dislike on both sides against any English forces entering into Scotland. Great talk of the benefits received from France. Lord Home. A fight, in which the Regent's party took 50 or 60 prisoners. News from Flanders and France.
Incloses,
 103. 1. "Ane admonitioun to my Lord Regentis Grace." [Another copy of the ballad described above, indorsed by Lord Burghley "A ballet to y^e Regent agaynst coming in of Englishmen."]
- Dec. 18. 104. Hunsdon to Burghley. Necessity of the Queen of England's Berwick. sending her forces there. Practices of the Queen of Scots' party with foreign powers. Supply of money. Overthrow of the King's party in the North. Certain safe conducts refused by the Regent. Danger of delay. If the Duke [of Norfolk] be condemned, hopes the Queen will let him [Hunsdon] have the custody of his house. Incloses, 104. 1. Earl of Mar to Lord Hunsdon. Divers of her Majesty's rebels arrived from Flanders. Lord Seton coming with money for the Queen of Scots' party. Overthrow of the King's authority in the North. Leith, Dec. 16.

VOL. XXI.

1571.

Dec. 29.
Berwick.

105. Lord Hunsdon to Queen Elizabeth. In reply to her hesitation about proceeding with the Scots, and her wish to have matters accommodated by treaty; explains that he demanded surety of the Scots, in return for her friendship, because he never yet heard or read that they kept any promise longer than it served their own turn. The only way to bring them to accord by fair means is to deal harder with their Queen.

1571?

106. A note of those things wherewith the Regent hath gratified the Earl of Morton and his friends since the time of his regency.

1571?

107. "A Lewd Ballet taken w^t y^e L. Seton's writings." A ballad alluding to John Knox, commencing,

"First quhen the newis begonthe to ryse gretly they maid me wondre, Quhow that so grett a gospellar so fellouny could fondre,
Bott seing quhow all erdly thingis wor subiect to mutatioun,
Then, said I, it no grett mervail albeith the Congregatioun Wor no les than y^e pair Papistis Inclynit to fornicatioun."

VOL. XXII. JANUARY—APRIL, 1572.

1572.

Jan. 3.
Edinburgh
Castle.

1. William Maitland to Lord Burghley. Expresses his desire for a renewal of their correspondence. Sends a "Remonstrance" for the settlement of the debates in Scotland. Vindicates himself from "starting" from the late Earl of Murray, for he never left him till the Earl had left all honesty, and deep dissembling had entered in the place where most men thought was sincerity.

Jan. 5.
Amboise.

2. William Kyncaid to Burghley. Letters presented at the French Court by the Bishop of Glasgow and James Kyrkcaldy. Kyrkcaldy requests support of men, and Lord Fleming has got ten thousand francs of the Queen of Scotland's dowry. Lord Fleming lands in Galloway at a castle where Lochinvar and Lord Herries' people lie, but it will be Candlemas ere he is ready.

Jan. 6.
Berwick.

3. Lord Hunsdon to Queen Elizabeth. They of the castle seem more conformable. They desire an "indifferent" order of Government, and to refuse all foreign aid. Incloses,

3. 1. William Maitland and William Kyrkcaldy to Lord Hunsdon. Sorry that the Queen of England should conceive an ill opinion of them. She shall have no cause to use her forces against them, and they will do anything to serve her turn, their own safety provided for, but this they cannot see so long as their enemies bear rule.

Edinburgh Castle, Jan. 3.

Jan. 6.
Berwick.

4. Lord Hunsdon to Lord Burghley. Better conformity of them of the castle. They desire some equality in the Government, and will not avail themselves of foreign aid when it arrives. Mons. Verac is not idle, and communicates daily to the Regent how her Majesty deals with them of the castle.

Vol. XXII.

Jan. 7. Edinburgh Castle. 5. William Maitland and William Kyrkaldy to Lord Hunsdon. Inform him of the intention of their adversaries to take the revenues of their "livings," and request him to prevent their doing so.
- Jan. 11. Leith. 6. Earl of Mar to Lord Burghley. Begg him to give credit to James Cunningham, to whom he has sent some communication for the sake of expedition.
- Jan. 11. Berwick. 7. Lord Hunsdon to the Earl of Mar. Requests to know what articles of composition he will yield to, and desires him to forbear from levying the revenues of his adversaries. Proposes an abstinence.
- Jan. 13. Berwick. 8. Hunsdon to Burghley. Has received no answer from either party about the proposed abstinence. Incloses a letter from the Regent.
8. I. Earl of Mar to Lord Hunsdon. Defers further answer to his letter till the arrival of his servant, Cunningham, from England. Will do what he can to prevent the evil that may arise from the entry of foreign forces.
Leith, Jan. 11.
- Jan. 15. Leith. 9. Earl of Mar to Lord Hunsdon. Informs him upon what terms he will agree with the King's disobedient subjects in Edinburgh Castle. Excuses himself in regard to the levying of their forfeited revenues, and explains why he cannot agree to any fresh abstinence.
- Jan. 18. Berwick. 10. Hunsdon to Burghley. A plot against him [Burghley] and the Queen of England. Hopes the rack will make them confess their setters on. The Lairds of Grange and Lethington's desire for some one to deal between them. Daily attempts at agreements without her Majesty's aid. The proposed abstinence. Incloses,
10. I. Lord Hunsdon to the Earl of Mar. Requests to know what articles he will agree to with the Queen of Scots' party. Desires him to forbear from levying their revenues. Proposes an abstinence. [Duplicate, described ante.]
Berwick, Jan. 11.
- 10. II. Earl of Mar to Lord Hunsdon. Terms of agreement with their adversaries. Their forfeited revenues. Proposed abstinence. [Duplicate, described ante.]* Leith, Jan. 15.
- 10. III. Lord Hunsdon to Lethington and Grange. Has sent his servant to deal with the Regent respecting their forfeited revenues. Desires to know their full resolution as to their obedience to the King.* Berwick, Jan. 11.
- 10. IV. Maitland and Kyrkaldy to Lord Hunsdon. Will agree to an abstinence, and will draw up a statement of the articles upon which they will agree with the King's party.* Edinburgh Castle, Jan. 14.

VOL. XXII.

1572.

Jan. 26.
Berwick.

11. Lord Hunsdon to Lord Burghley. Desired abstinence. Principal points of difficulty. Inexpedience of the delay of her Majesty's resolution: Incloses,

11. i. Articles offered by the Lairds of Lethington and Grange for composition of the controversies in Scotland, and for the establishment of a Government. Jan. 22.

11. ii. Maitland and Kyrkcaldy to Lord Hunsdon. Deny that the town of Edinburgh was taken and fortified during an abstinence. Are content to agree to a new one, their adversaries doing the like.

Edinburgh Castle, Jan. 22.

11. iii. Earl of Mar to Lord Hunsdon. Malice of their adversaries. Inexpedience of an abstinence. Listing of a hundred horsemen to join with Lord Fleming and the forces expected from France. Leith, Jan. 23.

Jan. 31. 12. "Articles generally containing the intention of the Queen's Majesty [of England] for the reducing of the realm of Scotland to an inward peace, and so to continue free from civil wars and dissension." [Corrected by Lord Burghley.]

Jan. 31. 13. Addition to the same, "of more secrecy," in the autograph of Lord Burghley, the first point stating that the party adverse to the King must directly understand that the Queen of Scots hath of late attempted such, and so many, enterprises against the Queen of England, that her Majesty will never suffer her to have liberty to attempt the like again, and, therefore, that any expectation of her ruling alone, by restitution to her realm, or jointly with her son, is in vain.

Feb. 1.
Berwick.

14. Lord Hunsdon to Lord Burghley. Sorry that resolution in such important matters is delayed. Does not think Mr. Randolphe can do any good there. Wishes that the Duke of Norfolk's second son might marry his [Lord Hunsdon's] daughter, which he would strain himself to pay for. Sorry that Monsieur [the Duke of Anjou] is so scrupulous about religion, but religion is the mere cloak, and he does not think she [Queen Elizabeth] will ever marry. God amend the hinderers, and send the devil to fetch them.

Feb. 7.
Blois.

15. Henry Duke of Anjou to the Laird of Lethington. Informs him that the King of France has sent the bearer, Mons. Le Croc, to negotiate for the pacification of Scotland, and requests him to accept any reasonable conditions which shall be proposed. Fr.

Feb. 11.
Berwick.

16. Hunsdon to Burghley. Arrival of Mr. Marshal [Sir William Drury] and Mr. Randolphe. Little good to be done by them. Daily disorders in Scotland. Conspiracies in England, and none of the conspirators executed. Bad policy of such mercy. He would respect the Duke's [Norfolk's] life as much as any man, but considering the Queen's first, he would renounce him if he were his son.

VOL. XXII.

Feb. 18. Berwick. 17. Lord Hunsdon to Lord Burghley. Bad weather. Departure of Sir William Drury and Mr. Randolphe for Leith. Money required for the King's party. Sorry for the many alterations about the execution of the Duke of Norfolk. His grief for her Majesty's displeasure to his [Hunsdon's] son.
- Feb. 23. Leith. 18. Sir William Drury and Thomas Randolphe to the Earl of Leicester and Lord Burghley. Have dealt according to their instructions, and written to Lord Hunsdon. The country is in great calamity and misery, and much honour will be gained by her Majesty in bringing it to quietness.
- Feb. [23.] 19. Certain notes of a conference between the party of the Queen of Scots, the holders of Edinburgh Castle, and Thomas Randolphe and Sir William Drury, touching a proposed abstinence.
- [Feb. 23.] 20. The names of the Lords at Leith and in the castle of Edinburgh.
- Feb. 24. Berwick. 21. Lord Hunsdon to Lord Burghley. Anxiety of the King's party for money. Landing of Lord Seton at Harwich. Negligence at the ports and landing-places in England. Incloses, 21. I. Sir William Drury and Thomas Randolphe to Lord Hunsdon. Report their going to Leith; reception there; entertainment by the Regent; conference with him. Reception at Edinburgh, and subsequent interviews with the Lairds of Grange and Lethington.
Leith, [February] 23.
21. II. Certain notes of a conference between the Lairds of Lethington and Grange and Sir William Drury and Thomas Randolphe, touching an abstinence. [Duplicate above.] February 23.

ing the party in the castle. Houses destroyed in Edinburgh. Argyle favours the Regent. Marriage of Lord Maxwell. Submission of Lord Herries to the Regent. Death of Lieutenant George Dundas, who was wounded in a skirmish. Donald Fraser, Archdeacon of Ross, slain. Arrival of Lord Seton from Flanders.

[Feb. 26.] 25. A project of an accord for compounding the controversies of Scotland, sent from them of the Castle. [This is a project for the establishment of a Government in Scotland, composed of a certain number of the nobility of both sides, chosen with the advice of the Queen of England. It is in the handwriting of the Laird of Lethington, and has satirical notes on the margin, in Latin, by Lord Burghley.]

March 3. 26. A "ticket," sent from the castle party to Thomas Randolphe and Sir William Drury, complaining of their unfriendly manner of dealing. [In the autograph of the Laird of Lethington.]

March 4. 27. "Articles generally containing the intention of the Queen's Majesty [of England] for the reducing of the realm of Scotland to an inward peace, and so to continue free from civill warres and dissension. With the answers to every one of them," by Queen Mary's party.

March 6. 28. Notes, by Sir William Drury, for the instruction of John Case, apparently going to England.

March 6. 29. Statement of the case of Lord Home; the keeping of his house from him, &c.; and begging that the Queen of England will cause the same to be restored to his wife.

March 6. 30. Earl of Morton to the Earl of Leicester. Understands the Leith. foreign preparation intending to disturb the quiet of the kingdom, and trusts that the Queen of England will use "timous" provision to prevent the same.

March 6. 31. Earl of Mar to Queen Elizabeth. Recapitulates the late pro-Leith. ceedings with the Queen of Scots' party, and attempts at treaty. Urges her Majesty to make them comfortable by force, and states the great necessity of her sending a supply of money.

March 6. 32. John Lord Darcy to Lord Burghley. Informs him of the Harwich. detention of a Scotch ship sent from London. The vessel in which Lord Seton arrived contained two double bases and two single bases of iron, without chambers; also corslets, callivers, dagges, arming gloves, and three small barrels of powder.

March 6. 33. Archibald Douglas to Lord Burghley. Returns thanks for a Leith. hundred pounds delivered to him by Sir William Drury from the Queen of England. Will do her Majesty all the pleasure and lawful service that he may, in those parts.

Leith. Have dealt earnestly to put an end to these unnatural dealings. The heart burnings on both sides. The Regent's party the stronger. Obstinaey of the Queen's party; their dislike of the Regent; their new devised "Aristocratia." Necessity of her Majesty's interposing for them. The Regent's need of money. Incloses,
34. I. "Ticket" sent by Thomas Randolphe and Sir William Drury to them of the castle, urging them to yield obedience to the King of Scotland. March 2.
34. II. Answer to the same, declining to yield to their proposal, as certain points will be most prejudicial to them. March 3.
34. III. Another "ticket" from the castle party. They must know further of certain points before they yield to them. [March 4.]
- March 7. 35. Thomas Randolphe to Lord Burghley. Sorry to trouble him Leith. so much in so brabbling a matter. In so weak a body as Lethington's has never found a man less mindful of his God or more unnatural to his country.
- March 8. 36. Lord Hunsdon to Queen Elizabeth. Ill success of Randolphe Berwick. and Sir William Drury. The Queen's party refuse obedience to the King and the acknowledgment of the Regent. The demand for money made by Drury and Randolphe for the King's party; his reasons for refusing it.
- March 8. 37. Lord Hunsdon to Lord Burghley. Sir William Drury and Berwick. Thomas Randolphe's request for money for the King's party; his refusal to send it. Little good done by them. Difficulties. Their desire to have all the honour of the matter to themselves. Lord Seton speaks bravely of his landing and passing through England, and says he met Sir Ralph Sadleir, who gave him two shillings.
- March 11. 38. Lord Hunsdon to Lord Burghley. Particulars of the monies Berwick. expended by him in Scotland. Wishes to know of Mons. Le Croc's coming. Marvels at Sir Peter Carew's having the Stannery. Incloses, 38. I. A "brief" of the money disbursed by Lord Hunsdon for extraordinary expenses. March 11.
- March 17. 39. Queen Elizabeth to Sir William Drury and Thomas Randolphe. Instructs them to declare to the Queen of Scots' party in the castle her displeasure at their proceedings; and that, if they will not yield obedience to the King, she shall cease to treat with them. The vessel which conveyed Lord Seton to England is forthcoming; and the papers contained in it have disclosed such practices that she has stayed Mons. Le Croc's going to Scotland.

VOL. XXII.

- March 17. 40. Lord Burghley to Sir William Drury and Thomas Randolphe. Informs them of the Queen of England's reasons for staying Mons. Le Croc from going to Scotland; and of certain practices and intentions of the Queen of Scots, which prevent the Queen of England from yielding to anything that shall better the said Queen of Scots' condition.
- [March.] 41. Heads of Mons. Le Croc's instructions from France in behalf of the Queen of Scots.
- [March.] 42. Alteration of the 6th article of the instructions of Mons. Le Croc, sent from France in behalf of the Queen of Scots, respecting the required acknowledgment by the Queen's party of the authority of the King of Scotland, her son. [In the autograph of Lord Burghley.]
- March 19. 43. Sir William Drury and Thomas Randolphe to the Earl of Leith. Leicester and Lord Burghley. Express their willingness to submit their proceedings to the direction of Lord Hunsdon. Send something privately to them in respect to the Lord Seton's practice with the Duke of Alva.
- March 20. 44. Lord Hunsdon to Lord Burghley. Incloses a letter from Berwick. Drury and Randolphe. Complains of the Queen of England's carelessness of herself. Her destruction is the only thing which her enemies seek. He would not advise her to be bloody; but, if she cannot be sure without it, it were better that some members were cut off than the whole body should perish.
44. 1. Drury und Randolphe to Lord Hunsdon. The Regent has commanded that the Earl of Northumberland may not be set at liberty. Little hope of agreement there. Practices of them of the castle with Spain. Need of money for the Regent. The Earl of Argyle's submission to the King's authority. The Regent disposed to do well if he is treated well Skirmish. Capture and recapture of the Laird of Lethington's house. Lord Methven shot with a culverin from the castle. Leith, March 19.
- [March.] 45. John Earl of Mar, Regent of Scotland. Licence for Lewis Thorntoun to return to Scotland, having been banished for the slaughter of Henry Sands, by the negligent shot of a dagg.
- March 26. 46. Names of the Nobles and others of Scotland present with the Regent the 26th March, 1572, and the members of his horsemen, as well as of the Queen of Scotland's party in Edinburgh Castle. [Partly in the writing of Randolphe.]
- March 27. 47. "An article for the treaty" between the King of France and Queen of England; to send Ambassadors for the pacification of Scotland and to defend the country from foreign invasion; the Queen of England being left at liberty to compel by force any evil disposed Scots who shall continue to support her rebels.

VOL. XXII.

1572.

- March 28. 48. "A consideration of the matter of Scotland, how the same might be ordered to the indifferent satisfaction of both the Princes, the French King and the Queen of England." [In the autograph of Lord Burghley.]

April 7. 63. Articles generally containing the intention of the Queen's Majesty [of England] for the reducing of the realm of Scotland to an inward peace. [These "articles" were submitted to the different parties in Scotland on various occasions, and duplicates will be found at other dates.]

April 7. 64. Duplicate of the same.

April 8. 65. Earl of Mar to Mr. Randolphe. The little appearance of Leith. their adversaries yielding to the last demands. Fears it will be long before this fashion of dealing brings peace either by victory or treaty. The Queen of England's irresoluteness; effect of the same upon the King's party. Has written to her Majesty for the delivery of Home and Fast Castles.

Vol. XXII.

April 9. 66. Earl of Morton to the Earl of Leicester. Requests the Leith. redress of certain injuries and skaiths committed upon him, his friends and tenants, by the Queen of England's subjects, the inhabitants of the West Marches under the charge of Lord Scrope.
- April 9. 67. Earl of Morton to Lord Burghley. . Begs the redress of cer-Leith. tain injuries committed upon his tenants by the inhabitants of the West Marches.
- April 10. 68. Thomas Randolphe to Lord Burghley. Begs that he may Leith. have one or two little books written against the "home match" [the marriage of the Queen of England], a great number of which Lord Seton says were in the ship in which he came home out of Flanders.
- April 10. 69. An answer to certain articles submitted to the Queen of Scots' party, and conferred upon with the English Commissioners ;— the religion to be maintained, no remissions required, the murderers of the Earls of Murray and Lennox, forfeitures to be cancelled, &c.
- April 10. 70. Sir William Drury and Mr. Randolphe to Lord Hunsdon.
Leith. Articles submitted to the two parties in Scotland. Hostilities on either side. Herries and Maxwell about to submit. Jar between Lord Seton and the Laird of Grange. Their own danger and wish to be recalled. Lochleven's conditions [2,000*l.* sterling] for the delivery up of the Earl of Northumberland. Maxwell denies supporting Edward Dacre. Seven boats laden with corn, which should have gone to Clydesdale, have been intercepted. Huntly's brother is strong in the North. Incloses, 70. i. Additional articles proposed to the two parties in Scotland ;—religion to stand as it is, the writing of slanderous libels, books, and ballads to be forbidden, prisoners who are to be released, forts to be delivered to the King, &c. April 10.
- April 11. 71. William Maitland and William Kyrkcaldy to Lord Burghley.
The Castle. Two of the articles submitted to them, one touching the Sovereignty and the other the Government of the realm, are such as, if they once yield to, they can neither live with reputation or safety ; beg him therefore to move the Queen of England to make such an æcord as may continue without the prejudice of either side. Have drawn a "plat" of that which they may be brought to.
- April 11. 72. Maitland and Kirkaldy to Sir William Drury. Send him Edinburgh a "plat" of that whereunto they may be brought if they are well Castle. used and favourably dealt with, whereby it may appear what good will they bear to satisfy the Queen of England ; so they will desire him and Lord Hunsdon to mediate for them. Incloses, 72. i. *A plat of that which the Queen of Scots' party may be brought unto, touching the two articles submitted to them by Sir William Drury, respecting the title to the Crown of Scotland, and the administration of the authority.
[In the autograph of the Laird of Lethington.] April 11.*

Vol. XXII.

- 1572.
- April 13. 73. Sir William Drury to Lord Burghley. An overture from the Leith. castle party which is to be kept secret from France. Opposition of the Duke of Chatelherault and Lord Seton; their willingness to leave the country; cause of the unkindness between the latter and the Laird of Grange. An agreement with George Pringle for certain disclosures, &c.
- April 14. 74. Alteration of the 6th article in the instructions of Mons. Le Croc, in respect to the Sovereignty of Scotland. [Corrected by Lord Burghley, and indorsed by him "Not lyked by the Queen's Majesty."]
- April 14. 75. The same article, further altered by Lord Burghley.
- April 14. 76. Lord Hunsdon to Lord Burghley. A letter from the "Cas-Berwick. tilians" [the Queen of Scots' party in the castle of Edinburgh]. Terms on which an agreement may be made between the two parties. Incloses,
76. 1. William Maitland and William Kyrkcaldy to Lord Hunsdon. Inform him of their willingness to treat sincerely with him and the Marshal of Berwick [Sir William Drury], but decline further treating with Mr. Randolphe, as they take him to be more addicted to the adverse faction than reason or his Queen's service require. Edinburgh Castle, April 11.
- April 15. Reply by Mr. Randolphe and Sir William Drury to the answer Leith. of the Lairds of Grange and Lethington to the articles submitted to them from the Queen of England. [With No. 80.]
- April 16. 77. Queen Elizabeth to Lord Hunsdon. Instructs him to recall the Marshal and Mr. Randolphe, if by their next letter it shall appear that the accord will not take place. Could be content to pay 2,000*l.* for the delivery up of the Earl of Northumberland, but wishes him to procure an appointment for his certain delivery, and then the money shall be paid.
- April 17. 78. List of the Scotch noblemen "come to the obedience of the King," in the handwriting of Thomas Randolphe.
- April 17. 79. Demands of the "Castellans" [the Queen's party holding the castle], in respect to the title to the Crown of Scotland, and the administration of the authority.
- April 17. 80. Thomas Randolphe and Sir William Drury to the Lairds of Lethington and Grange. Request their resolution as to the first two points of the conditions submitted to them, which being yielded by them less difficulty will be made in performance of what they desire.
- April 18. 81. Lord Hunsdon to Queen Elizabeth. These controversies not Berwick. to be compounded by treaty. A hot skirmish; four horsemen of the castle taken and hanged; five on the other side hanged in revenge. Her Commissioners request leave to return home.

VOL. XXII.

- April 18. Berwick. 82. Lord Hunsdon to Lord Burghley. No chance of an end to the controversies by treaty. Desire of Mr. Marshal and Thomas Randolphe to return. The former shot at with two harquebusses. Little gratitude for the money sent to the King's party; the 1,000*l.* received with scorn to have so little. Five men hanged for revenge, one of them a Douglas. Lord Seton returning to Flanders. Incloses,
82. i. Sir William Drury and Thomas Randolphe to Lord Hunsdon. Beg that they may be licensed to return. Accusations against Archibald Douglas by the Regent. Reported death of the Earl of Morton. A hot skirmish. Four horsemen hanged up together for company. A mill destroyed. Blackness clean revolted from the Regent. Lord Fleming and others coming from France.
Leith, April 17
82. ii. "The extract of the substantiall points of the Lord Seaton's negotiations with Duke D'Alva at his last audience with him."

- Feb. 23 to April 19. 85. "A cotype of such Articles and other Matters as was exhybited by the Marshall of Berwyck and Mr. Randall [Randolphe] to my L. Regent's Grace for pacyfyeing the controversies in Scotland," with their answers, the rejoinders, &c.
- April 20. 86. Memorandum of agreement between the French Ambassador going to Scotland and Queen Elizabeth. In respect to a certain article in his instructions which the Queen of England wished to be suspended. Fr.
- April 22. Berwick. 87. Lord Hunsdon to Lord Burghley. Resolute answer from both sides. Where the greatest difficulty is. The principal hinderers. Return of the Commissioners. Incloses,
87. i. Sir William Drury to Lord Hunsdon. The executions at Leith. Six were appointed to die, but one named Bruce was rescued. Slandorous speech against them [Drury and Randolphe], but no punishment followed their complaint. The accusations against Archibald Douglas; his reported consent to the murder of the Regent; his numerous enemies.
Leith, April 18.
- April 23. Edinburgh Castle. 88. William Maitland and William Kyrkaldy to Sir William Drury. In behalf of Lord Home, that her Majesty will not press him to join the King's party, and communicate certain conditions upon which he will be quite as earnest to maintain peace between the two realms.

Vol. XXII.

- 1572.
- April 23. 89. Lord Hunsdon to Lord Burghley. Return of Mr. Marshal and Berwick. Thomas Randolphe. Apprehension of an Irish Bishop going to Flanders. It will be two or three days before he has an answer how the Earl of Northumberland shall be delivered.
- April 24. 90. Maitland and Kyrkaldy to Lord Hunsdon. Hear that he is Edinburgh shortly to repair to the English Court. Hope that he will report Castle. their intentions favourably, and that her Majesty will graciously accept their offers.
- April 24. 91. Answer by the Queen of Scots' party, to the last conditions submitted to them by the Queen of England's Commissioners ;— declining answer to the two principal articles till they know more certainly of the remainder.
- April 22. 92. Mons. Verac to the French Ambassador in England. Details Edinburgh. of the conferences of Sir William Drury and Mr. Randolphe with the Queen's party in Edinburgh Castle, the general articles submitted by them in regard to the Queen of Scots, about religion, the recompense to be made to the Laird of Grange, &c. The departure of the Commissioners. Arrest of Archibald Douglas. The reports of the Queen of England's "bravades" to the King of France, and the complaint of the King of France's conduct among the Queen of Scots' party. [In cipher.]
- April 22. 93. Decipher of the same. Fr.
- April 25. 94. M. le Croc to Lord Burleigh. Requests that he may have post London. horses to go to Scotland, and begs that he may be able to convey his letters safely to the King of France, his master. Fr.
- April 26. 95. Maurice Archbishop of Cashel to the Earl of Mar. Informs Dundee. him of the particulars of his intended journey to the King of Spain, his master, of his detention at Dundee, and of the seizure of his letters ; and requests liberation and the restoration of his letters.
- April 26. 96. "A summary of the articles propounded to both parties [in Scotland], with a note of the answers and the varieties both from the articles, and amongst themselves." [In the autograph of Lord Burghley.]
- April 27. 97. Another paper on the same subject, also by Lord Burghley.
- April 27. 98. Nicholas Arington to Lord Hunsdon. The Regent will send Leith. a gentleman to deal for the safe delivery of the Earl of Northumberland, and respecting the Irish Bishop. Five soldiers slain by the "Castilians," in the Canongate ; others hanged by Lord Morton.
Two hanged presently afterwards by the Queen's party, who were sorry they had no more. Mr. Petre hath deciphered all Mr. Archibald Douglas' letters, but none are yet revealed.
- April 28. 99. Earl of Morton to Lord Burghley. Reminds him of a former Leith. request for the redress of certain injuries committed upon him and his friends by the Queen of England's subjects in the West Marches.

1572.
April 28. Leith. 100. Earl of Morton to the Earl of Sussex. Requests his intercession with the Queen of England for the redress of certain losses sustained by his servants at Preston, in Galloway, and that the subjects of England may be restrained from any invasion of Lord Maxwell, who has now submitted to the King's authority. Fergus Graham is gone towards the Court. Some good order ought to be taken in respect to his bygone enormities.
- April 27 & 28. Berwick. 101. Lord Hunsdon to Lord Burghley. Little likelihood of finishing the troubles there. Le Croc's coming to Scotland. Looks hourly to hear respecting the delivery of the Earl of Northumberland. Necessity of her Majesty's getting rid of the Queen of Scots. The Irish Bishop. Killing and hanging on both sides.
- April 28. Berwick. 102. Lord Hunsdon to Alexander Home of Manderstoun. In reference to some proceeding against the men of Stichell and Conche Carrell. Warns him that he had better not meddle with either Home Castle or Fast Castle, and complains of his discourtesy.
- April 29. Berwick. 103. Thomas Randolphe to Lord Burghley. In favour of his old friend Captain Cokbourn, who is going to end his life in France; the better to serve his countrymen there, than where so great account has not been made of him as he hath deserved.
- April 29. 104. "Answer from the Regent of Scotland to the reply of the Queen of England's Commissioners," in regard to the articles submitted to him by her Majesty for the pacification of the troubles in Scotland.
- April 30. Leith. 105. Earl of Mar to Queen Elizabeth. Now that the obstinacy of their adversaries is known, they look that her Majesty will no longer delay to resolve in this cause of Scotland, and that, as favourable admonitions avail not, she will use the next remedy.
- April 30. Leith. 106. Earl of Mar to Lord Burghley. Remonstrates on the Queen of England's manner of dealing with him. Prays him to move her to send a speedy answer touching their long and "troublous," affairs. Informs him of the detention of the Archbishop of Cashel, and will be glad to know her Majesty's mind about him.
- April 30. 107. Queen Elizabeth to Lord Hunsdon. Informs him that she has determined to allow Mons. Le Croc to go into Scotland, and that she has instructed Sir William Drury to join with him, to treat for the restoration of tranquillity in Scotland, and to establish the King's authority; as she cannot endure that the Queen of Scots should be restored, on account of her evil demerits against herself.
- April 30. 108. Queen Elizabeth to Thomas Randolphe. Licences him to return from Scotland, and informs him of her having assented that Mons Le Croc should repair there, and that Sir William Drury should join with him.
- April 30. 109. Queen Elizabeth to Sir William Drury. Instructs him to join with Mons. Le Croc, and to mediate and commune with him for the pacification of the troubles in Scotland, and the establishment of the King's estate.

VOL. XXII.

 April 30. 110. Queen Elizabeth's instructions for Sir William Drury to treat in conjunction with M. le Croc, the French Ambassador, for the pacification of the troubles in Scotland.
- April 30. 111. Copy of part of the same.
- April. 112. "A brief note of that which seemeth reasonable" in the articles submitted by the Queen of England for the pacification of affairs in Scotland.
- April. 113. The same in French.
- [April.] 114. Summary of the articles submitted by Queen Elizabeth for the pacification of the troubles in Scotland, with the articles added by them of the castle [the Queen of Scots' party]. Fr.
- April ? 115. Consideration of what might seem lawful, honourable, and profitable for both the Princes [of England and France] in respect to the sovereignty of Scotland.
- April ? 116. "Advertisements of the ffrenche King's intent towards Scotland."

 May 1. Berwick. 1. Lord Hunsdon to Lord Burghley. Arrangements for the delivery up of the Earl of Northumberland, but they will not deliver him without the money. The Regent desires that his life may be spared, and the Bishop of Ross delivered up in return. The Irish Bishop is put into the castle of —— [sic]. The Castilians are in harder case than heretofore. Hopes he shall not offend her Majesty if by chance he can get Lord Seton into his hands on his return to Flanders.
- May 2. Berwick. 2. Lord Hunsdon to Lord Burghley. Wishes to know how he is to treat Mons. Le Croc. Earnestness of the Regent for money. Begg the 2,000*l.* for the delivery of the Earl of Northumberland. Lord Burghley appointed a Companion of the Order.
- May 2. 3. Queen Elizabeth to the Earl of Mar. Thanks him for his favour and good will towards her dear cousin the Countess of Lennox, and for the granting of the Earldom of Lennox to her son Charles, by which he plainly shows the good regard he has of the father, who spent his blood, and his life, in the service of the King and realm of Scotland.
- May 3. Berwick. 4. Sir William Drury to Lord Burghley. His danger in going again to Scotland, as he is ordered to do, with Mons. Le Croc. The Irish Bishop. Has sent him [Lord Burghley] two pedigrees. Archibald Douglas committed to ward. The Regent and his forces are gone to Hamilton, to offend the Hamiltons and win the castle.

May 5.
Berwick.

5. Queen Elizabeth to James VI. King of Scotland. Desires the delivery of a rebel, Thomas Percy, Earl of Northumberland, to the Lord Hunsdon, in accordance with the treaties between the two realms of England and Scotland.

May 7.
Berwick.

6. Lord Hunsdon to Lord Burghley. My Lord Hereford and my Lord Admiral to be called to degrees fit for them, and himself [Lord Burghley] and Lord Leicester to be officers accordingly, for which he is not sorry. Common report has given him [Lord Hunsdon] every office which has for a long time fallen, but his pap is made of the yolk of an owl's egg, and therefore his only desire is, that having served there four years, he may be recalled. The Castilians send word that they will agree neither to the Regent's Government nor the delivery of the castle, so Mons. Le Croc's coming is in vain. The 2,000*l.* must be sent with speed, as they will not deliver the Earl without the money.

May 8.
Leith.

7. Earl of Mar to Queen Elizabeth. Apologises for delay in respect to the Irish Bishop. Reminds her of his need of her aid and support of money to pay their men of war. Begs that Home and Fast castles may be delivered to him, that the people of Scotland may be "resolved" that she does not mean to retain any of the holds of the country in her power.

May 8.
Edinburgh.

8. William Maitland and William Kyrkcaldy to Queen Elizabeth. The strands will not serve, and so they have recourse to the fountain. They have abstained from foreign practices on her only account. They know her noble nature to resemble the lion's, which she "gives" in her arms, so they take the boldness to write to her, to give up their selves and their causes wholly into her hands; and under her protection they trust to find an assured quiet, and to enjoy with honour the fruit of a common peace.

May 8.
Edinburgh.

9. Alexander Lord Home to Lord Hunsdon. Begs his intercession with the Queen of England for the restoration of his houses and living, as he never offended her Majesty, nor gave her occasion to deal hardly with him.

May 8.
Edinburgh
Castle.

10. Maitland and Kyrkcaldy to the Earls of Sussex and Leicester and Lord Burghley. Being sore pressed by her Majesty's Commissioners to come to some accord with the adverse party, and the afflicted state of their realm requiring a speedy end of this unnatural division, they have recourse to their Lordships and request their aid. If they three jointly will promise to be their friends they will repose confidence in them, and go on until the matter takes a full end. They are content to submit their cause to the Queen of England; and hoping that her Majesty will deal graciously and liberally to them they dare to trust her. They will yield full obedience to the King of Scotland, hoping that with time her Majesty shall enter into better terms with their Queen; and as to the administration of the authority, they shall be content to yield to any neutral and indifferent Government which shall be appointed.

Edinburgh
Castle.

11. William Maitland and William Kyrkcaldy to Lord Hunsdon. Request his intercession with the Queen of England for the restoration to Lord Home of his houses ; and promise certain conditions for him.

May 9.
Berwick.

12. Lord Hunsdon to Queen Elizabeth. A resolute and final answer from them of the castle. Two points utterly refused, and they say plainly that no one shall bring them to yield to them. Delay in the delivery of the Earl of Northumberland. Incloses,

12. 1. Maitland and Kyrkcaldy to Lord Hunsdon and Sir William Drury. Think his dealing strange, and that they have desired better terms than the inconveniences and hard conditions with which he presses them. Seeing that the Queen of England takes the Prince under her protection as King of Scotland, they will yield full obedience to him, trusting that in time her Majesty will enter into better terms with their Queen. Cannot acknowledge the Earl of Mar's government, and mention the late case of the cruelty of Alexander Home of Manderston to the Goodman of Thirlston manse, as an instance of the Earl's unfitness for the office of Regent ; but will yield to any neutral and indifferent Government. As to the delivery of the castle, they flatly and plainly refuse it, until they shall be compelled to do so by force. Edinburgh Castle, May 8.

May 9.
Berwick.

13. Lord Hunsdon to Lord Burghley. A resolute answer from the castle. The two principal points utterly refused. No hope of treaty. An earnest solicitation in behalf of Lord Home. Difficulty about the delivery of the Earl of Northumberland. The Irish Bishop. The taking and burning of Thirlstane manse hath marvellously hardened them of the castle. Incloses,

13. 1. Earl of Mar to Lord Hunsdon. Has written to the Queen about the delivery of the Lord Bishop. Difficulty of conveying the Earl of Northumberland safely. His [Lord Hunsdon's] charge against Alexander Home of Manderston. Leith, May 8.

May 12.
Berwick.

14. Sir William Drury to Lord Burghley. Certain correspondence by Captain Cokbourn and his servant with France. A plan to take Lord Seton, who is the Queen of Scots' greatest friend. Arrival of Mons. Le Croc.

May 12.
Berwick.

15. Lord Hunsdon to Lord Burghley. Arrival of Mons. Le Croc ; detention at Berwick ; no end can follow from his going to Scotland, as he [Hunsdon] has received a resolute answer from the Queen's party, that they will neither yield to the Regent's government nor deliver the castle.

16. Earl of Mar to Lord Hunsdon. Delayed delivery of the Earl of Northumberland. Answer of his adversaries in respect to their promised obedience to the King; their complaints against him [Mar] about his usage of the Cranstouns. His opinion of the matter of Alexander Home. Request for the delivery of the Bishop of Ross. Safe conducts for Sir William Drury and Mons. le Croc.

May 14.

17. Lord Burghley to Lord Hunsdon. Informs him of the Queen of England's wishes in regard to the safe reception of the Earl of Northumberland; also about the Irish Bishop, and the requested delivery of Home Castle to the Lord thereof.

May 15.
Berwick.

18. Lord Hunsdon to Lord Burghley. Glad that her Majesty begins to proceed so roundly with the Queen of Scots. Safe conducts requested of the Regent for Mons. le Croc and Mr. Marshal. Required delivery up of the Bishop of Ross, in return for the Earl of Northumberland.

May 16.
Berwick.

19. Lord Hunsdon to the Earl of Mar. The delay in the delivery of the Earl of Northumberland. The doings at Thirlstane manse. Charge against Alexander Home of Manderston. Request for the delivery up of the Bishop of Ross.

May 17.
Berwick.

20. Lord Hunsdon to Lord Burghley. Has let Mr. Marshal have 40*l.* towards his entertainment in Scotland, or else he could not have gone. Begs the Queen's leave to lie at Bransby during the summer.

May 20.
Berwick.

21. Lord Hunsdon to Lord Burghley. Has received the 2,000*l.*; sees no haste made for its receipt by him to whom it is sent, but has written to the Regent, and expects answer to-day or to-morrow, unless there be a pad in the straw.

May 22.
Berwick.

22. Lord Hunsdon to the Earl of Mar. Requests, on behalf of the Queen of England, that there may be no further delay in the delivery of the Earl of Northumberland. Her Majesty hopeth not to find such uncourtesy in him as to stay the Irish Bishop, he being the born subject and dependant of the King of Spain, only in respect of his Popish religion.

May 22.
Edinburgh

23. William Maitland and William Kyrkcaldy to Lord Hunsdon. Return thanks for his procuring their request in regard to the delivery of Lord Home's houses. Offer themselves as sureties for the due performance of the promised conditions.

May 23.
Leith.

24. Earl of Mar to Lord Hunsdon. Has given direction for the delivery of the Earl of Northumberland. In respect to the Irish Bishop, will direct some one to her Majesty instructed to satisfy her as far as may be reasonable and possible.

May 23.
Leith.

25. Mons. le Croc to Lord Burghley. Respecting some despatches for Mons. Fénelon. Himself and the English Ambassador there shall part good friends.

VOL. XXIII.

- May 25. Berwick. 26. Lord Hunsdon to Lord Burghley. Has received a letter from Mr. Marshal. Requests instruction as to giving a passport to Mons. Verac. Expects to receive the Earl of Northumberland this week, but assures him that the Irish Bishop shall not be had. Incloses,
26. 1. Sir William Drury to Lord Hunsdon. Mons. Le Croc's request for Mons. Virac to join with him. The Regent's answer, and his own. Interview with the Regent. Mons. Le Croc fain to go to Edinburgh. A skirmish. Fifty beefs and one hundred muttons gotten into the castle. Restalrig, May 24.
- May 25. Berwick. 27. Lord Hunsdon to Lord Burghley. The Regent's misliking of his [Hunsdon's] conduct. Ill usage of himself by Lord Home and the Earl of Morton. Home looks to govern all the March. Inexpedience of restoring Home and Fast Castles. In respect of the craving for more money, her Majesty may see whether that which she hath already given be well bestowed.
- May 28. Edinburgh Castle. 28. William Maitland, Laird of Lethington to Mons. le Croc and Sir William Drury. Expresses the willingness of himself and the rest of the Queen of Scots' party to abide by any decision which they shall agree to as just and reasonable, and likely to facilitate that which they have in charge. Fr.
- May 29. Berwick. 29. Lord Hunsdon to Lord Burghley. Delivery of the Earl of Northumberland to him by the Laird of Clyshe, and payment of the money. Something was begged for one Douglas who had the keeping of him, and so he gave him 20*l.* 100*l.* paid to the Laird of Clyshe would be to good purpose. The Earl [Northumberland] readier to talk of hawks and hounds than anything else, although he is very sorrowful and fears for his life. No likelihood of the delivery of the Irish Bishop, as her Majesty will not deliver up the Bishop of Ross. They would fain have promise of his delivery, and then perhaps they will make merchandise of him as they did of the Earl, for they do all for money. The Irish Bishop said that they would rather the muckle devil ruled them than her Majesty.
- May 30. Restalrig. 30. Sir William Drury to Lord Burghley. Interview of himself and Mons. Le Croc with the Regent. The Regent's harsh treatment of Le Croc. Interview with the castle party, and final answer from the Laird of Lethington. The Irish Bishop. Arrival of Lord Fleming with money; preparations to intercept him. Incloses, 30. 1. "A memorye to my Lord Ambassador of England," declaring the final resolution of the Queen of Scots' party as to the government of Scotland, declining to acknowledge the Regent, and proposing a Government by the nobility. [In the autograph of Lethington.] May.
- May 31. Berwick. 31. Lord Hunsdon to Lord Burghley. Mons. Le Croc's son-in-law going to France, his object being to get fresh authority from the King. Final resolution from the castle. Arrival of Lord Fleming with money. Departure of Lochinvar, Herries, and others to intercept him.

Edinburgh. boy [Stewart]. Suspicions of the Scots. The Regent still very devout for the "great matter." A confession by Kyllsyth, who is pardoned on promise of amendment. Incloses,

17. 1. The examination of John Stewart, taken in the presence of Mr. Henry Kylligrew, as to his knowledge of communications between the Queen of Scots, the Lady Livingston, Alexander Hamilton, and others. June 20.

June 23. 18. Henry Kylligrew to Lord Burghley. Has not dared at Edinburgh. present to venture with the Regent upon a matter which he received in charge. Begg to be recalled.

June 23. 19. Henry Kylligrew to Mr. Walsingham. The bearer sent by Edinburgh. the Regent to seek some remedy for spoils committed upon the Scots by English pirates.

June 23. 20. Henry Kylligrew to Mr. Walsingham. Sends him a hodge-Edinburgh. podge of news. Things which he had in charge from the Queen.
One concerning "Madame, &c.," not mentioned yet. The old Countess of Argyle he saw at the Regent's board, and so he thought she needed no recommendation. Foreign news. The "great matter" to be compassed only in a certain way. Incloses,

20. 1. *"Observations and occurrences" in Scotland, being a paper of intelligence from Kylligrew; concerning the Regent. Offers made to him from France. The young King's education in the French tongue. Nobles about the Regent. Marriages among the nobility. Grudging against the Regent by the clergy. Davidson's book against the Regent's ordering of ministers. Speculations about the next Regent, if God take this one. Persons on whom pensions may be bestowed. The Regent's great expenses.
Abuse in the Colleges. Grange's wife. Foreign news.
Delay of the "great matter." Courtesy shown him [Kylligrew] by the Regent. Many visitors. Border matters.* June.

[June.] 21. The names of persons thought fit to be entertained in Scotland [with pensions from England].

[June.] 22. A similar list.

[June.] 23. Another list;—of "persons commended by the Regent," and others not commended by him, and yet by others thought meet to be entertained; with remarks on each person.

June 24. 24. Earl of Morton to Lord Burghley. Wishes greater forward-Holyrood House. ness in their deliberations touching matters there. In respect of some piracies, thinks that the Scots are heavily used, and prays that further inconvenience may be "timously" removed.

the redress of certain violence committed on him and his ship by an English pirate ship, full of cruel and merciless thieves.

VOL. XXVI.

June 24. 26. Henry Kylligrew to Mr. Walsyngham. Chance of her Majesty's Edinburgh. losing the fruit of the great liberality bestowed upon the Scots. Advantages of a league between the two countries. The sum of money which would serve that "turn." Suspicions of the Scots. The "wooing" of France, &c.

[June 25.] Queen Elizabeth to the Regent of Scotland. The Laird of Farnihurst, who was intending to proceed into France, has been stayed by Sir John Forster, her Warden of the Middle Marches. Does not mean to intercede for him, but submits to his consideration the offers made by the said Laird of Farnihurst, and points out the inconvenience of his going to France. Desires also that instructions may be sent to the Earl of Argyle to prevent the levying of men in the West of Scotland by one Sorleboy, to aid the rebels in Ireland. [Border Corr., Feb. 1576.]

June 25. 27. Mr. Kylligrew to [Mr. Walsyngham]. The Laird of Grange
Edinburgh. had become a mortal enemy to England, and, therefore, it is no harm he is gone. Pirates. The Regent will not hear of Farnihurst. The Laird of St. John's is going to England to try the baths. The Regent's treatment of the reconciled factions. No good to be done in Scotland without pensions. A certain matter he will write about in cipher when he returns from Stirling, but it cannot be performed without many and many a Council, and this would mislike their delicate ears in England. Incloses, 27. 1. The sume of the examinations of Cuptain Robert Isted and other pirates.

June 30. 28. Henry Kylligrew to Mr. Walsyngham. Visit to the King of Edinburgh. - Sept. 22. 59. Earl of Morton to Mr. Kylligrew or Sir Francis [sic] Walsyngham. Persons arrived from France to inquire respecting the friends of the Queen of Scots. Charges against certain coiners. "Shifting" of the Earl of Argyle. Charge against Sir John Forster. Frequent stealths by the English Borderers. Hawks. A passport for geldings.
Dalkeith.
- Sept. 22. 60. Earl of Morton to the Earl of Huntingdon, President of the Council in the North. Thefts committed by the Borderers. French practices and designs towards Scotland. Incloses, Dalkeith.
60. 1. The names of certain thieves, fugitives from the laws of Scotland, received into England.
- Oct. 15. 61. Henry Kylligrew to Mr. Walsyngham. Fears inconvenience if the Regent treats the Earl of Argyle hardly. Begs his advice in case he should have occasion to write to the Regent and others in Scotland.
Hendon.
- Oct. 17. 62. Henry Kylligrew to Mr. Walsyngham. Begs that the Queen may write to the Regent in favour of the Countess of Argyle.
London.
- Nov. 27. 63. Earl of Morton to the Earl of Huntingdon. Complains of the conduct of Sir John Forster, as Warden of the Middle March, where the Scottish fugitives are received and maintained.
Dalkeith.
- Nov. 27. 64. Earl of Morton to Sir Francis [sic] Walsyngham. Wishes to know the name of a certain person who spake with the French Ambassador in England, and whether he returned to France or Scotland. The gentleman who has custody of the King is sure and honest. Improbability of a certain marriage. Suggests that the French Ambassador who is coming to Scotland may be terrified with the plague.
Dalkeith.
- [Nov. 27.] 65. A decipher of part of the preceding letter.
1575. 1575.
Jan. 15. 66. Walsyngham to the Queen. Sends letters from the Regent of Scotland, and instructions delivered by the Bishop of Ross to Lysley, his servant. By them she will see how hardly the two great Princes, her neighbours, are affected towards her, and what unsound subjects she has at home. Though the Cardinal of Lorraine is dead the peril is not past, and no longer delay should be suffered for the suppression of the latent sparks of treason, which otherwise will break out into an unquenchable fire.
- Jan. 16. 67. Edward Carye to Francis Walsyngham. The Regent's letter
Hampton Court. to the Queen specified a cipher which has not been received. The man mentioned in the letter should be immediately apprehended. The Queen desires that he [Walsyngham] will draw up the instructions to the Regent, and send him a letter of thanks for his advertisements.

VOL. XXVI.

- Jan. 17. 68. Edward Caryl to Francis Walsingham. *The Queen will herself communicate to the Council the substance of the matter contained in the Scottish letters sent by him.
Hampton Court.
- Feb. 18. 69. Earl of Morton to the Privy Council of England. Informs them of the abduction into England of a grand-daughter of the late Lord Carlisle, a subject of the King of Scots; and requests an order for her delivery into his custody.
Holyrood.
- March 20. 70. Francis Walsingham to the Queen. His opinion respecting the directions given to Mr. Kyllgrew for his embassy to Scotland. Recommends that pensions be given to certain of the Nobles of Scotland, as requested by the Regent.
London.
- April 1. 71. Earl of Morton to Walsingham. Wishes to know if an Ambassador is coming to Scotland, and whether he is to have any answer to certain matters of importance of which he has written. Complains of Sir John Forster's receiving certain Scottish outlaws. General quiet in Scotland.
Dalkeith.
- April 19. 72. Earl of Morton to Queen Elizabeth. Returns thanks for her Majesty's friendly entertainment of a young gentleman, named John Seytoun on his visit to her Court.
Dalkeith.
- May 27. Queen Elizabeth's instructions to Mr. Henry Kyllgrew on his being sent into Scotland;—to explain her reasons for deferring the making of a mutual league with Scotland against foreign attempts, and especially for the cause of religion; to assure the Regent of her good will towards the kingdom; to thank him for his advice for the safe custody of the Queen of Scots, &c. [Dom. Eliz., Vol. cxxxiv., p. 267.]
- June 10. Queen Elizabeth to the Earl of Morton. Desires him to receive into his favour Mr. James Murray, whom she believes to be well affected to him and his administration. [Dom. Eliz., Vol. xlv., p. 47.]
Hatfield.
- June 10. Francis Walsingham to the Earl of Morton. Commends the energy and success with which Mr. Murray had performed his difficult mission, and his endeavours to promote amicable relations between the two countries. [Dom. Eliz., Vol. xlv., p. 48.]
- June 26. 73. Mr. Kyllgrew to Mr. Walsingham. Concerning the non-delivery of the ordnance of Home and Fast Castles to the Regent, explaining that Sir Valentine Browne had not delivered it because it had not the King of Scotland's arms or marks upon it. Incloses, London.
73. 1. The ticket of the artillery that was taken out of Home Castle.
- June ? 74. A note of things misliked in the Regent, in respect chiefly to his regulations about the coinage of silver.
- July 8. 75. Mr. Kyllgrew to Mr. Walsingham. Fray between the Lord Warden of the Middle Marches and the Laird of Carmichael [the Raid of Reidswyre]. Probability of dangerous consequences. General quiet in Scotland and obedience to the Regent.
Berwick.

1575.

Vol. XXVI.

- July 8. Dalketh. 76. Earl of Morton to Sir Francis [sic] Walsyngham. Has written to the Queen and Council of England respecting the late unhappy accident at the Middle March, and is ready to take such means as shall be thought best for eschewing of further mischief.
- [July 8.] 77. James Home, Laird of Coldenknobs, to Mr. Kyllgrew. Is come to the East March to stay any inconveniences which may arise from the affair at Reidswyre, and is desirous to speak with him.
- July 12. Kenilworth. 78. Secretary Walsyngham to Mr. Kyllgrew. Instructs him to demand of the Regent of Scotland, in respect to the late "disorder" in the Middle Marches, the slaying of Sir George Herne and others, that the Laird of Carmichael may be committed to Edinburgh Castle, and that the other persons concerned may be duly punished.
- July 16. Berwick. 79. Mr. Kyllgrew to Mr. Walsyngham. The matter "chanced" between my Lord Warden and the Laird of Carmichael. Defers going onwards to Scotland until he receives answer about the Home Castle ordinance and other matters. The posts use their discretion about the conveyance of letters unless a man paint a gallows and write many "lives" upon the packets, which he cannot do; for he thinks that a note of the time of delivery should suffice to remind them of their duties.
- July 17. Berwick. 80. Mr. Kyllgrew to Mr. Walsyngham. Particulars of the late "accident." Names of the slain. The Regent's intention to provide that like inconveniences may be prevented in future.
- July 19. Berwick. 81. Mr. Kyllgrew to Mr. Walsyngham. About to set out for Edinburgh. Reasons why he did not stay my Lord Warden from going further into Scotland. Will persuade the Regent to meet the Lord President [of the Council of the North] himself, if possible. Slaying of John of the Stone-house, who was the bravest man at this last brabble.
- [July.] 82. Queen Elizabeth to Mr. Kyllgrew. Instructs him to express her indignation to the Regent of Scotland in respect to his strange and insolent manner of dealing towards her in the detention of her Warden. Were she to be moved to take just revenge on such conduct, he would learn what it were in one of his base calling to offend her. His excuses only aggravate his fault, as her officers bear her no such small respect and reverence as he supposes. She has appointed the Earl of Huntingdon to deal with him, and himself only. He also [Kyllgrew] has not been so careful in her service as in duty he is bound.
- July 20. Berwick. 83. Nicholas Arington to Mr. Walsyngham. Mr. Kyllgrew's instructions to him on his being sent into Scotland in respect to the detention of Sir John Forster. The Regent's answer to the same, and subsequent conduct; he seems much to lament the matter, and anxious to content her Majesty, and to preserve the quiet of both realms.
- August 8. Berwick. 84. Mr. Kyllgrew to the Earl of Leicester. Excuses for his silence. His difficult position there in reference to the late "odious fact." His usage with the Regent. Begg the Earl to shield his faults, as they have not been committed maliciously.

Vol. XXVI.

- August 12. 85. Earl of Morton to Queen Elizabeth. Has forborne to trouble Dalkeith. her Majesty in respect to the late trouble happened at the Reids-wyre, until his conclusion with the Earl of Huntingdon in the matter, which he hopes for shortly, to her Majesty's honour and contentment.
- August 14. 86. Mr. Kyllgrew to the Earl of Leicester. Advice given to him Berwick. by my Lord President to delay telling the Regent of her Majesty's great misliking of his conduct; but in general terms he has let the Regent know how her Majesty is offended with him, as may appear by the inclosed copy of his letter to her Majesty. Incloses, 86. 1. The Earl of Morton to Queen Elizabeth. [Described at the date.] Dalkeith, Aug. 12.
- August 17. 87. Mr. Kyllgrew to the Earl of Leicester. The meeting between Berwick. the Regent and my Lord President. Urges his own return, and that Mr. Davison should take his place.
- August 19. 88. Mr. Kyllgrew to Mr. Walsyngham. His desire to return.
Berwick. The late raid. The English Warden not clear in the affair. Persons fit to take his [Kyllgrew's] place.
- August 19. 89. Mr. Kyllgrew to [Lord Burghley]. Blame imputed to him in respect to the meeting between the Regent and my Lord President. Expiration of his commission; his desire to return; persons proper to succeed him. The Regent's feelings towards her Majesty, &c. Incloses,
89. 1. A relation of the late occurrences in Scotland. Adam Gordon's news from France. Attempt against Arbrouth by some friends of the late Earl of Murray. Condition of the Earl of Arran. The Regent's disposition towards England. The late raid, &c. August.
- Sept. 6. 90. Lord Seton to Queen Elizabeth. Returns thanks for her Seton. courtesies shown to his son, who will do her Highness most humble and assured service, as becometh him.
- Sept. 91. Declaration made by the Regent of Scotland to the Earl of Huntingdon, concerning the late misrule and disorder which happened at the meeting between the Lord Warden of the Middle March and the Keeper of Liddesdale, on July 8th last.
- Sept. 18. 92. Mr. Kyllgrew to Sir Thomas Smith. Good service done Newcastle. by the Queen's Commissioners. Has received his letters of revocation. Taking leave of the Regent. His Grace's professions. Had hoped to have been at Court by this time, but for a mischance, his horse having almost trodden off the nail of his great toe.
- Sept. 20. 93. Earl of Morton to Mr. Walsyngham. Sends his cousin John Dalkeith. Carmichael to report the result of the conference respecting the late accident. Hopes it will be satisfactory.

VOL. XXVI.

Sept. 24. 94. Earl of Morton to Mr. Kylligrew. Begs that he will procure Dalkeith. him an answer to certain requests made previously.
- Oct. 1. 95. Earl of Morton to Mr. Kylligrew. News from France; Holyrood. escape of Mons. D'Alençon from Paris; reported league between England and Scotland against France; correspondence with the Queen of Scots. A progress made by him [the Regent]; his friendly treatment by the nobles.
- Oct. 4. 96. Earl of Morton to Sir Francis [sic] Walsyngham. Requests Holyrood. permission for Michael Sym, a goldsmith, to procure some "toyles" for coining, and some plate for his own [Morton's] use.
- *Oct. 14. 97. Walsyngham to the Earl of Morton. Glad that his doings have shown the world how free he is from evil meaning towards her Majesty. Remarks on foreign news. Thanks him for a cast of falcons.
- Nov. 4. 98. Captain Cockbourn to Lord Burghley. The war prevented Edinburgh. by the English Ambassadors. Ill speeches against Mr. Kylligrew; good offices done by him. Need of such a person there now, such a man, he means, as kens perfectly all their papists, iron shoe wearers, and them that trows and believes in witches and warlays; it would serve for mickle and more than he looks for. My good Lord of Hunsdon is hanging all their thieves, and takes as great pleasure in it as other men do in hawking and hunting.
- Nov. 4. 99. Earl of Morton to Mr. Kylligrew. Thieves on the Borders.
Holyrood. Expected answer to certain notes. Thanks for the release of John Carmichael. Robbing of some merchants. Counterfeiters of money.

VOL. XXVII. 1576—1579.

1576. 1576.
- Jan. 9. 1. Anonymous to Monsieur Pinart. Respecting a projected meeting between "their Majesties." Thanks from the Countess of Montgomery for his good will, whose eldest daughter requires a passport, being resolved not to remain in England.
- Feb. 7. 2. "Ye wait quha" to Lord ———. Is ready to depart to Scotland.
London. Professes devotion towards A [the Queen of Scots?] and towards his Lordship. Hopes he will not forget the business he spake about.
- Feb. 26. 3. Privy Council of England to the Regent of Scotland. Request Westminster. him to take order with Lord Maxwell for the restoration of certain cattle taken by his brother from the Grahams. *
- March 15. 4. Alexander Hay to Henry Kylligrew. Good feeling towards Edinburgh. him in Scotland. A suit against Lord Robert, who is still in Edinburgh Castle. False coin. Incursion from Teviotdale on Lord Angus' lands. Quiet at Edinburgh.

VOL. XXVII.

April 24. [Countess of Lennox] to Lord Ruthven. Takes no small Hackney. comfort in his letter, and especially to hear of her sweet jewel the King's Majesty. This is the first time she has written since her son's death. Wishes some information as to the Earldom of Lennox, whether it is "heritable" by her son's daughter or no. Begs him also to send her a pedigree of the Lennox family, with arms and matches, for she is about a monument which requires the help thereof.
- May 27. 6. The Regent Morton to Lord Burghley. Begs that order may Dalkeith. be given to Sir John Forster, respecting the restoration of the goods taken at the Reidswyre. A new trouble is suspected between the Fenwicks and the Rutherfords.
- June 19. 7. Earl of Morton to Lord Burghley. Begs that the passport for Dalkeith. Mr. George Halkett, going to Flanders through England, may be expedited.
- July 15. 8. Privy Council to the Regent Morton. Inform him of Sir
St. James's. John Forster's answers to certain matters alleged against him, the restoration of the goods taken at the Reidswyre, the challenge sent by Fenwick, &c.

August 31. 74. Mr. Bowes to Lord Burghley and Sir Francis Walsyngham.
Berwick. Approaching mission of himself and Lord Scrope to Scotland. The Council convened for Sept. 2. Delivery of Dumbarton Castle for the use of the Earl of Lennox. Intercepted letters. Libels against the Earl of Morton. Montbirneau, Lennox's right hand, to be dispatched again into France.

August 31. Copy of the same. [With No. 83.]

August 31. 75. Queen Elizabeth to King James VI. Being informed of some apparent mischiefs and inconveniences likely to fall out in his realm has dispatched her servant, Mr. Bowes, to him, to declare what she thinketh best to be done for preventing of these new dangers in Scotland.

August 31. 76. Sir Francis Walsyngham to Mr. Bowes. Instructions for his repair into Scotland, to warn the King of certain dangers which must arise from the delivery of Dumbarton Castle into the hands of the Earl of Lennox, the said Earl being a professed enemy of the Gospel; and, in case no more temperate means can be found to prevent it, directing him to confer with the Earl of Morton and others, the enemies of Lennox, to lay violent hands on him and his associates.

August 31. Copy of the same. [See Sept. 10.]

Sept. 1. 77. Sir Francis Walsyngham to Mr. Bowes. Desires him to Outlands. forbear conference with any one in Scotland for the employment of force, or to promise any assistance from her Majesty for preventing the intended practices of Lennox and his faction, the Scottish nature being ever prone to civil war from the disposition they have to work their revenge.

Sept. 4. Berwick. 79. Mr. Bowes to Lord Burghley and Sir Francis Walsyngham. Receipt of his instructions and preparations for setting forward to Scotland. Lennox is already at Edinburgh, strongly accompanied, and in great confidence. Delivery of Dumbarton. Letters intercepted from Drumquhassel into England. Incloses, 79. 1. Robert Commendator of Dunfermline to Mr. Bowes. Receipt of his letter, and the King's summons to his Council thereupon. Holyrood, Sept. 2.
- Sept. 4. Bowes to Burghley and Walsyngham. Copy of the preceding. [With No. 83.]
- Sept. 6. Sir Francis Walsyngham to Mr. Bowes. Instructs him how to inform the King of a pretended intention to exclude him from the possibility of his succession to the throne of England. [With No. 83.]
- Sept. 6. Berwick. 80. Mr. Bowes to Lord Burghley and Sir Francis Walsyngham. Communication with the Earl of Morton, to whom he had already given some comfort, yet he shall easily be able to retire within the bounds limited. Great alterations intended in the Council and the King's Household.
- Sept. 6. 81. Mr. Bowes to Sir Francis Walsyngham. The revocation of a part of his former instructions. The "taste" he had already given the Earl of Morton of them. Thanks for his private advice in the matter, else he had doubtless passed himself.
- Sept. 10. 82. Sir Francis Walsyngham to Mr. Bowes. Desires him, from the Queen, to remonstrate with the King of Scotland on his strange conduct in delivering Dumbarton into the hands of a foreign subject, and that therefore her Majesty has determined not to send Lord Scrope into Scotland. Instructs him also to warn the King of consequences likely to follow the confidence he is placing in the Earl of Lennox instead of the Queen of England.
- Sept. 10. Sir Francis Walsyngham to Mr. Bowes. Desires to know his advice respecting the position of Morton, Lord Hunsdon thinking it so weak that no good can be accomplished with him; as, if matters in Scotland might be brought to some reasonable stay, the matter of marriage might then come to nothing. [With No. 83.]
- April to Sept. 83. A collection of copies of letters, instructions, &c., principally relating to the negotiations of Robert Bowes in Scotland, extending from April 1 to September 10; the papers being described in this calendar at their respective dates.
- [Sept.] 84. [Mr. Bowes to Walsyngham.] The Scots' Queen's interest will be employed for the Earl of Lennox. The estate of Scotland much recovered by the Ministers. 45 [Morton] and his friends will be forward enough if her Majesty will back them.

110. Thomas Randolphe to Mr. Young. Being lately moved with remembrance of his master, Mr. George Buchanan, by the sight of his book "De Jure, etc." and calling to mind the notable acts of his life, his study, his travail, his danger, his wisdom, his learning, and, in short, as much as could be wished in a man, he thought the King more happy to have had Buchanan for a master than Alexander the Great to have had Aristotle. Thanks God that he himself was acquainted with him, and marvels that no man hath written of his life, even although he yet liveth, for if it be done after his death many things may be omitted that are worthy of famous memory.

111. Thomas Randolphe to George Buchanan. Thanks for care for his son. The King's skilfulness is not a little to be attributed to the great diligence and care of his master, and in this consisteth his [Buchanan's] praise, and through this shall his fame remain immortal. Cannot express how much he liked his last little treatise, "De jure regni apud Scotos." Urges him not to delay the publication of his "Historie of their whole Ile."

1580.

112. List of treaties made between the Kings of England and Scotland since the year 1043 until this present year 1580.

1580.

113. Anonymous letter. Arrival of a ship from Dieppe freighted with powder, which the Captain of the town had compelled the master to take on board. Part of the powder sent to Leith, Dumbarton, Blackness, and Edinburgh Castle; which is supposed to be the preparation for further matters. Certain Frenchmen have come to Scotland, and brought with them a wonderful horse, exhibiting evidence of intelligence. Some alteration is expected in the realm, and especially in religion. Violent treatment of the ministers. The King has called in by proclamation all grants of abbacies and spiritual livings. All the nobility of note have left the Court and retired to their own mansions. [On the fly leaf of this letter is a list of medicinal plants and drugs.]

- Jan. 6. Westminster. 4. Earl of Sussex to Sir Francis Walsyngham. Sorry that her Majesty has overslipped her opportunity in Scotland. A show of arms and corruption would bear the chief sway. Recommends dispatch.
- Jan. 8. Whitehall. 5. Sir Francis Walsyngham to Mr. Randolphe. Instructs him how to defend the Earl of Morton from his alleged implication in the murder of the King's father. Desires him to open Mr. Bowes' packets, if he should meet with any in his journey.
- [Jan.] 6. Queen Elizabeth's instructions to Mr. Randolphe:—To confer with the King of Scotland respecting the proceedings against the Earl of Morton; to assure him that Lennox's motives proceed only from a desire to turn him [the King] from the true service of God; to try and restore the Earl of Morton to the King's favour, and, in case he does not succeed, to confer with Morton's friends and inform them of her intention to send an army into Scotland, against those who are prosecuting the matter with such extremity against the Earl, and against all who reverence the cause of religion.
- [Jan.] 7. The "scope" of the Queen's meaning in the preceding instructions, showing the principal points desired; the last-mentioned directing the Ambassador to send for troops from England in case the proceedings against the Earl of Morton could not be stayed.
- [Jan.] 8. "A private memorial for Mr. Randolphe," directing him to endeavour to win the Captains of Edinburgh and Dumbarton Castles to the devotion of the Queen of England; to persuade Ruthven to fall away from Lennox; to procure Morton's trial by Parliament, if the King will not deal graciously with him; and to acquaint the ministers of the religion with the proceedings of D'Aubigné [Lennox] at Rome.
- Jan. 14. York. 9. Earl of Huntyngdon to Thomas Randolphe. Fears that the Earl of Morton will be headless before he [Randolphe] gets to Edinburgh. Has heard nothing from Lord Hunsdon.
- Jan. 14. Whitehall. 10. Sir Francis Walsyngham to Mr. Randolphe. Aid sought for Scotland from the Low Countries. The King of Scotland's determination to proceed against the Earl of Morton. The Prince of Orange written to. An Ambassador from Savoy stopped. [Partly in cipher.]

Jan. 1. 1. Lord John Hamilton to Sir Francis Walsyngham. Returns Moret. thanks for her Majesty's protection, and begs a continuance of the same.

Jan. 1. 2. John Colville to Mr. Davison, Ambassador in Scotland. Begs Newcastle. him to hasten a packet towards the Ambassador his colleague.

Jan. 3. 3. John Case and William Selby to Sir George Carey. Inform Ware. him of the King of Scotland's wish that he will procure an audience of her Majesty for the Duke of Lennox.

Jan. 3. 4. John Case and William Selby to Sir Francis Walsyngham. Ware. The Duke of Lennox is sorry that he may not have presence of her Majesty, but desires to send the Laird of Kilsyth with his letters and message.

Jan. 3. 5. William Davison to Lord Burghley. Informs him of an acci- Berwick. dental meeting between himself, in company with Mons. de la Mothe Fénelon, and the Duke of Lennox on this side Topcliff, the foulness of the weather and his [Davison's] haste rendering the meeting shorter than the others wished. La Mothe has met with difficulties about his entry into Scotland, which trouble him. The weight of his trunks is suspicious, and these suspicions are confirmed by his hackney man, but to discover their contents will be hard. They had a foul and tedious journey, which they passed with the more contentment together, in that La Mothe took pleasure to reason in defence of his religion, and he [Davison] had good opportunity offered to let him see its absurdities.

Edinburgh. leven committed to ward ; complaints and fears. Escape of Glamis from similar treatment. Arran to be with the King in a few days.
Daily changes in the Household. Reported gathering of Angus and other Lords.
- August 5. 4. Mr. Bowes to Walsyngham. Necessity of sending some well Edinburgh. qualified person from England to settle the troubles there. The cause of the changes at Court is attributed to the late sparing on the part of England. Warning given to the King of Scots to beware of 900. [Partly in cipher.]
- August 6. 5. Sir Francis Walsyngham to Mr. Bowes. The Queen resolved Edinburgh. to send him [Walsyngham] to Scotland, but he never undertook any service with so ill a will in his life. Little good to be done there. Mar had best act so as to provide for his own safety.
- August 7. 6. Queen Elizabeth to King James. Remonstrates on the difference between his actions and the promises he makes to her. He is not dealing with one who will take dross for good payment, nor one that can easily be beguiled ; begs him therefore to suspend his further proceedings till the arrival of an express messenger and trusty servant, by whom she means to deal with him like an affectionate sister.
- August 8. 7. Mr. Bowes to [Sir Francis Walsyngham]. Fears for those who Edinburgh. enterprised the act at Ruthven [the Raid of Ruthven]. Necessity that some persons of honour should be sent from England. Fair words of Arran. A purse of gold given by Dunfermline to Colonel Stewart to procure some favour at the hands of the King ; Stewart gave the gold to the King, and the King in his turn gave it to his Guards, who wear the pieces in their hats. Declarations made to the King in favour of his mother. Incloses,
7. 1. Prior of Blantyre to Mr. Bowes. Excuses from the King for the delay in sending certain writings, in consequence of the illness of Mr. David Makgill, and in regard to the return of the Earl of Arran to the Court, which is only to procure the settlement of the quarrel between him and the Earl of Mar. Falkland, August 6.
- August 12. 8. Mr. Bowes to Sir Francis Walsyngham. Urges him to be in Edinburgh. Scotland before the dissolution of the Convention. The King's sudden removal from Falkland. Advice required by the Earl of Mar as to taking a remission from the King. Efforts to constrain others to make repentance for the act at Ruthven. Its justification by John Dury, a minister.
- August 13. 9. A memorial of the chief matters committed to the charge or Sir Francis Walsyngham, on his being sent to Scotland, to require satisfaction for the late strange proceedings there :—To remonstrate with the King, and to recapitulate the benefits conferred upon the realm by her Majesty. [Signed by Queen Elizabeth and Lord Burghley.]

VOL. XXXIII.

Edinburgh. a letter announcing his [Walsyngham's] near arrival. Dunfermline committed to ward. Treasons alleged against him and Drumquhassel. Mar again summoned to the Court. Contentions for spoil among the courtiers.

VOL. XXXIII.

- 1583.
- August 27. 20. Mr. Bowes to Sir Francis Walsyngham. Receipt of his Edinburgh [Walsyngham's] safe conduct. The great difference between it and that granted by her Majesty to Colonel Stewart and Mr. Colville. Reported difficulties to be thrown in the way of his access to the King.
- August 27. 21. Lord Claude Hamilton to Sir Francis Walsyngham. Is thus Ware far on his way towards Scotland by the wish of her Majesty. Will not fail to speak with those who are likely to be their friends. Requests the forwarding of some letters.
- August 27. 22. Lord John Hamilton to Sir Francis Walsyngham. His London brother sent by her Majesty's desire to the Borders to travail in their cause. Explains the particulars of an interview he had with the French Ambassador, and of which on a former occasion he confesses he did not speak so freely as he ought to have done.
- August 28. 23. Sir Francis Walsyngham to Mr. Bowes. Expresses his sur-Berwick prise at the strange clause in his safe conduct ; and begs that he will procure either that he may have it in that large manner as hath been usually accustomed, or else that he may understand what such an extraordinary kind of course doth mean.
- August 29. 24. Mr. Bowes to Sir Francis Walsyngham. The King readily Edinburgh granted him a new safe conduct, and excused the faults of the other. The Master of Glamis, the Laird of Lochleven, and others are to be put to ward.
- August 30. 25. Sir Francis Walsyngham to Lord Burghley. Arrange-Berwick ments for setting forth to the seas a couple of ships, under Mr. Hawkins.
- August 30. 26. Sir Francis Walsyngham to Mr. Beale. Explains his delay before entering Scotland by reason of an unusual clause in his safe conduct; and shows the necessity of his having stayed to get it altered.
- Sept. 2. 27. Mr. Robert Melvill to Mr. Bowes. His brother of Hal Hill Falkland [Sir James Melville] is directed by the King to arrange concerning the diets of my Lord Ambassador [Walsyngham].
- Sept. 3. 28. Sir Francis Walsyngham to Mr. Beale. Informs him that a brother of Mr. Robert Melvill's has just been appointed by the King to arrange about the time and place of his audience.
- Sept. 4. 29. Robert Bowes to Mr. Robert Beale. Appointed meeting at Edinburgh the Earl of Argyle's house for the reconciliation of the Earls of Mar and Arran ; the appointment not kept by the latter ; the reason. Severe dealing of the King with Mar. Indignant reply of Argyle to the King's messenger. Mar advised by Argyle to deliver up Stirling Castle. Flight of the Master of Glamis. Great strife for office at Court. Decline of Colonel Stewart there. Arrival of Morton and others from France.

VOL. XXXIII.

- Sept. 5. 30. Sir Francis Walsyngham to Queen Elizabeth. Thinking it expedient that her Majesty should be informed of some particulars touching the state of affairs at the Scottish Court not fit to be committed to writing, he has sent Mr. Bingham, who will also signify the true cause why his audience has been deferred.
- Sept. 5. Memorial for Mr. Bingham, from Sir Francis Walsyngham, respecting his embassy to Scotland and the present state of that country:—The King generally disliked by the nobility for his dissimulation. Argyle and Glencarn have left the Court in disgust. The Secretary's resolution to return to England. Requests to be propounded to the King. Conjectures as to the motives of Sir Francis' visit to Scotland. Reasons why Walsyngham has forborne to deal with Arran and Colonel Stewart. [With No. 58.]
- Sept. 6. 31. Sir Francis Walsyngham to Lord Burghley. Buildings at Edinburgh. Burghley. Little hope of his [Walsyngham's] doing any good in Scotland. Neither time nor place appointed for his audience. Outrage committed in the Middle March. The Boroughs desirous of peace, and the Ministers. Necessity of her Majesty's placing some horsemen on the Borders. Still delayed audience, and his round dealing with Mr. Melvill in consequence. Refers to Mr. Bingham.

- [Sept.] 42. King James to Queen Elizabeth. Has had privy conference with the bearer, and doubts not he will faithfully report the same.
- Sept. 12. St. Johnston's. Sir Francis Walsyngham to Queen Elizabeth. She has formed a right estimate of the character of the young King, as he is ready to requite her kindness with ingratitude if it is in his power. The Queen, his mother, is the great mover of disaffection, and has persuaded him to attempt a change of religion, assuring him of the support of a large party in England and the aid of Spain. The scheme is only delayed. His mother, who is the layer of the plot, will, before her death; probably work his overthrow. Necessity of maintaining the friendship of the two Hamiltons, which is a thing much to be desired. It is suspected that the King has some disposition to fly to the Court of France on account of the general discontent. [With No. 58.]

Sept. 15.
Berwick.

Sir Francis Walsyngham to Queen Elizabeth. The mind of the Scottish King is so alienated from her Majesty by evil counsellors that there is no reliance to be placed on his friendship. Before he returns he will devise some plan by which the King may be compelled to depend on her favour and goodness whether he will or no. All those who are favourable to the religion established and the amity with England are strictly watched, and many compelled to quit the kingdom. Recommends the recall of Mr. Bowes who has become so hated at the Court that his person is not secure. [With No. 58.]

Sept. 15.

43. Sir Francis Walsyngham to the King of Scots. Thanks him for the order of the conference held between them. Expresses his doubt that it will neither satisfy her Majesty nor remove the jealousies of his subjects.

Sept. 15.

44. Sir Francis Walsyngham to Mr. Beale. The King's consent to stay further proceedings against those engaged in the action at Ruthven. Other "heads" set down to be performed by him. Alteration of the same. Doubts as to his sincerity.

Sept. 17.
Edinburgh.

45. Robert Bowes to Sir Francis Walsyngham. A request for him [Walsyngham] to write to the King in favour of Dunfermline. A summons by the King to the Justice Clerk refused. Fears for Gowry. Contention between Arran and Colonel Stewart. Alleged discontent of the King.

Sept. 19.

46. Robert Bowes to Sir Francis Walsyngham. Persons at Court seeking to quarrel with him. Movements of the King. The Parliament to be prorogued. Edinburgh Castle to be put into the hands of Arran. The Earl of Mar ordered to leave the realm; his supplication to the King not read. Rothes remains at home disquieted; one of his friends advises him to hang Sir Robert Melvill to recover the good opinion of his former friends. John Maitland to be Secretary. Stewart to have Dunfermline. Huntly to have Paisley.

Sept. 21.

47. Sir Francis Walsyngham to Mr. Bowes. Informs him that her Majesty does not think fit to continue his service any longer in Scotland, in consequence of the little account made of her advice and good meaning by the King, and for other reasons stated.

Sept. 21.

48. Sir Francis Walsyngham to King James. Begs the discharge from imprisonment of the Abbot of Dunfermline, in consideration of his long and faithful services.

Sept. 21.
Falkland.

49. Proclamation by the King of Scotland, offering to forgive all those who will crave his pardon for the public attempt committed against him this last year [at the Raid of Ruthven].

VOL. XXXIII.

Sept. 22. 50. Sir Francis Walsyngham to Lord Burghley. An offer made Durham. to remove the ill-affected from about the King of Scots. A speedy answer necessary, and that the matter may be used secretly.
- Sept. 22. 51. Queen Elizabeth to Mr. Bowes. Licenses him to leave Scot-Oatlands. land, in consequence of the violent and strange course of things in that realm, and to repair to his charge at Berwick; and instructs him to communicate her commands to the King of Scots.
- Sept. 23. 52. Mr. Bowes to Sir Francis Walsyngham. Glad of his revoca-Edinburgh. tion. Liberty to be granted to Dunfermline on certain conditions.
Proclamation by the King and Council; their evident designs.
Fears of the Court. Examination of Gawin Hamilton. Livingston going to France to bring home the Duke's son.
- Sept. 25. 53. Sir Francis Walsyngham to Mr. Bowes. A better warrant for his revocation. Little assurance in the proclamation. Hope of hearing from the Court touching the causes now in hand. The Ambassadors at the English Court from Navarre.
- [Sept.] 54. Sir Francis Walsyngham to Lord Burghley. Reasons for his Durham. stay there. A legation from the King of Navarre. The levy of horse and foot in Scotland will not go forward for lack of means.
Anxious to have her Majesty's resolution touching the contents of his last letters.
- Sept. 26. 55. Sir Francis Walsyngham to the Privy Council. In respect Durham. to divers great spoils and outrages committed by the Scots upon the English Borders.
- Sept. 28. 56. Mr. Bowes to Sir Francis Walsyngham. Takes his leave of Edinburgh. the King to-morrow. Impetuous proceedings at the Scottish Court.
Levy of troops. Want of money. Arran appointed Keeper of Stirling Castle and Provost of the town; Montrose and Crawford Provosts of Glasgow and Dundee. Offers made to Gowry; his fears.
Colonel Stewart hunting for the escheat of Lochleven. His great "bravery" against England. The King's adherence to the Lords; his reported purpose to go to France.
- Sept. 30. Sir Francis Walsyngham to Mr. Bowes. A certain cause going York. forward. Great assurances made that the King shall be altogether at her Majesty's devotion. Colonel Stewart and Mr. Colville to be advised to go where they may live at the least charges, for they are like to have no support from England. [With No. 58.]
- Sept. 30. Sir Francis Walsyngham to Mr. Bowes. Great assurances were York. given that the King of Scots would be altogether at Queen Elizabeth's devotion. It is supposed that the Hamiltons will be shaken off for saving of charges. Advises him to hasten his return. [With No. 58.]

VOL. XXXIII.

Sept. 30. [Sir Francis Walsyngham?] to Mr. Beale. He will perceive by York. the letter from Lord Scrope what nightly attempts are committed upon her Majesty's subjects on the West Borders. Refers the consideration of redress to the Council. Intends to return to the Court with all convenient speed. His health is much decayed through want of sleep and appetite. [With No. 58.]
- Sept. 30. List of the nobility and gentry of Scotland. [With No. 58.]
- Sept. 30. Names of the principal gentlemen residing in the Marches of England and Scotland. [With No. 58.]
- Sept. 30. List of Scottish nobility, with their opinions in religion. [*With
No. 58.*]
- Sept. 30. Sir Francis Walsyngham to Queen Elizabeth. He has instructed
Mr. Bowes to proceed no further in the proposed enterprize. Scotland looks for succour from Spain. Is disappointed that he has not been able to arrange the difference between her Majesty and the young King, who is not to be trusted. [With No. 58.]
- [Sept. 30.] 57. Heads of instructions for an embassy to Scotland.
- Sept. 58. Various papers, described at their respective dates.
- Oct. 1. 59. Robert Bowes to Sir Francis Walsyngham. The King's Edinburgh. desire for him to stay in Scotland. His professions towards her Majesty. Strife between Arran and Colonel Stewart. Disputes about the escheat of Lochleven. An Ambassador expected from France. Arran's suspicion of Huntly. Desire to change Stirling Castle for that of Edinburgh. Offers to Gowry, &c.
- Oct. 4. 60. King James to Sir Francis Walsyngham. Has set the Abbot Falkland. of Dumfermline at liberty, according to his request. Hopes that he will explain the heads of the late Conference between them, according to his true meaning, and as will best tend to disappoint the practices of those who are seeking to cast jealousies between him and the Queen of England.
- Oct. 9. 61. King James to Mr. Bowes. Begs him to "hold hand" and to Falkland. travail with Master Walsyngham to assure the Queen of his desire to entertain the amity between them, and to do everything to her liking and contentation.
- Oct. 10. 62. Robert Bowes to Sir Francis Walsyngham. Defends himself Berwick. in respect to his behaviour towards Mr. Colville when he was imprisoned by the King of Scotland, and afterwards released upon security at his [Mr. Bowes'] request.
- Oct. 11. 63. Robert Bowes to Sir Francis Walsyngham. Change in the Berwick. King's movements. Intention to remove the Captain of Edinburgh Castle. No haste to send an Ambassador to England. Chance of Dunfermline's being brought into new troubles. Envy between Arran and Stewart. The guard about the King is very strong. Sudden fears and alarms. Incloses,

63. I. Alexander Clark, Provost of Edinburgh, to Mr. Bowes. Money matters. The King thinks his advice very good, and is inclined of himself to clemency. Gowry great in his favour, and Lindsay. Angus to be restored. Troops reported to have been sent by the Queen of England to the frontiers. Edinburgh, October 10.

Oct. 13. 64. Thomas Smeton to Sir Francis Walsyngham. Thanks for a Edinburgh. book of Mr. William Whitaker's, a valiant soldier in God's church. In the colleges in Scotland there is no small number of youths well trained up in Latin, Greek, Hebrew, and philosophy, but when once they become Masters of Arts there are no means for those who wish to dedicate themselves to God, and so the greatest part are driven to France, where they make shipwreck both of their conscience and religion. Begs his help, therefore, for a scholar, Master William Lynne, who wishes to follow the study of Divinity at Oxford or Cambridge.

Oct. 16. 65. Sir Francis Walsyngham to Mr. Bowes. Neither the Queen
London. nor the Lord Treasurer are disposed to entertain "the bye course" in regard to Scottish matters. Her Majesty's good opinion of him [Bowes] is not altered. An arrangement for the procuring of intelligence from Scotland.

Oct. 17. 66. Sir Francis Walsyngham to Mr. Bowes. A mistake about the detention of some person. Begs him to obtain the King of Scots' answer to certain "griefs," which he had communicated to him from her Majesty.

Oct. 20. 67. King James to Sir Francis Walsyngham. Thanks for courtesy Edinburgh. and favours shown to Mr. Colville, and for his disposition towards the amity between the two countries.

Oct. 20. 68. Robert Bowes to Sir Francis Walsyngham. Offers made by Berwick. the Lords at Court to the Earl of Mar and by Arran to the Earl of Angus. The Duchess of Lennox to be brought to Scotland to pursue those who were the cause of her husband's death. Boyd gone to France. Strict treatment of Drumquassel. Church affairs.

Oct. 22. 69. Robert Bowes to Sir Francis Walsyngham. Excuses made by Berwick. Gowry and others for not attending the King's summons. Strict manner of keeping Stirling Castle. The Court in no little fear. Reported enterprises in hand. Church matters. Mar; Dunfermline.

Oct. 24. 70. Proclamation by the King of Scotland, denying his intention Stirling. to proceed against those persons who were concerned in the public attempt committed against him last year [at the Raid of Ruthven.]

74. King James to Queen Elizabeth. Requests safe conduct for the Archbishop of St. Andrews, who purposes going to "the Plumbers" [Plombières], for the benefit of his health.

Oct. 31.
Stirling.

75. King James to Queen Elizabeth. Begs safe conduct for George Lord Seton and the Prior of Pluscardine, his son, Ambassadors to France.

Nov. 1.
Berwick.

76. Robert Bowes to Sir Francis Walsyngham. The King's reception of a petition from the Ministers; private interview with the King on the subject; his promises. Mar to leave the realm. Angus. Lord Seton going to France as Ambassador. Drumquhassell released. Levy of troops.

Nov. 2.
Leith.

77. Mr. David Lyndesey to Mr. Bowes. Informs him of the King's intention in regard to certain Church matters, and the general quiet of the country, and urges the expediency of the King's having some advice from Sir Francis Walsyngham, whom his Majesty esteems as the wisest man that ever he spoke with.

Nov. 7.
Halhill.

78. James Melville to Mr. Henry Killygrew. The King is minded to do what he can to satisfy her Majesty. The Bishop of St. Andrews will inform him of the state of matters in Scotland. Begs him to write to Mons. de Villiers, Counsellor to the Prince of Orange, in favour of his brother William, who is not so well treated as he was.

Nov. 7.
Halhill.

79. James Melville to Sir Francis Walsyngham. The King of Scots' intention to do all amiable offices for the satisfaction of her Majesty, and to use clemency to his subjects. Object in sending Lord Seton to France.

Nov. 9.
Berwick.

80. Robert Bowes to Sir Francis Walsyngham. Opposition to the King's coming to Edinburgh. Lord Seton's commission to the French King. Livingston to go with him to bring home the Duchess of Lennox and her son. Purpose to send James Melville to England. The departure of the Archbishop of St. Andrews to be hastened; he is suspended, and may, perhaps, be excommunicated, as well on account of some errors noted in his sermons before the King, as also for his extraordinary favour towards a witch in saving her from that due punishment which should have been inflicted on her. Favour shown by the King to the Laird of Wemyss and to Bothwell. Tyrie and other Jesuits are ready to come into Scotland.

Holyrood. ver that shall not submit themselves to the King's authority, or shall refuse his offers of clemency.
- Dec. 9. 97. Mr. John Colville to Sir Francis Walsyngham. Appeals to Berwick. his bounty in consequence of the hard form used against him in Scotland, and the extremity to which he is driven. Angus, Rothés, and Gowry must take something in hand or perish.
- Dec. 10. 98. Robert Bowes to Sir Francis Walsyngham. Sweet speeches
Berwick. of the King to Rothés in favour of Angus and the others. Bothwell commanded to ward; his feeling against Arran. Situations of Angus and Lochleven. Mar embarked for Ireland. Conditions to be exacted of Mr. Colville and others.

VOL. XXXIII.

1583.

- Dec. 12. 99. Robert Bowes to Sir Francis Walsyngham. Meeting of the Berwick. Assembly. Summonses to divers Lords. Resolution to condemn the action at Ruthven. The Commissioners appointed to deal in that matter are weary of their offices. Orders sent to Angus and Gowry. Reported conference between them and others, and result.
- Dec. 12. 100. Alexander Hay to the Lady Lochleven. Remonstrates that Edinburgh. the Abbot of Cambuskenneth and the Laird of Clyshe have not accepted the offers made to them in regard to their participation in the action at Ruthven, and urges their taking the remission offered to them.
- Dec. 13. 101. Sir Francis Walsyngham to Mr. Bowes. Her Majesty will St. James'. not consent that he [Bowes] should be dispensed with, in regard to the advertisements from Scotland. Cannot yet draw any resolution from her in regard to that country.
- Dec. 17. 102. Instructions for the Sieur Mauvissière, French Ambassador, St. Germain. going to Scotland. Fr.
- Dec. 23. 103. Mr. Bowes to Sir Francis Walsyngham. Efforts of the Durham. Commissioners with Angus, and their success. Preparations also of Lochleven and others to obey the King's orders. Mar driven back into Argyle. Suspicion of the King and Court. Accusation against John Dury, for approving the Raid of Ruthven in a sermon.
- Dec. 28. 104. Sir Francis Walsyngham to Mr. Bowes. Allen has put him in mind of the hundred pounds desired to be bestowed on a certain party; but her Majesty is so coldly disposed to have any further dealings with that country that he does not mean to trouble her in the matter.
- Dec. 29. 105. Mr. Bowes to Sir F. Walsyngham. Different acts passed at Berwick. the Convention. Great offence done to the Church by the King, in releasing a man who had been committed to prison for deriding

17. Guillaume Tessier to the Earl of Gowry. Has arrived in London safe and sound, having been six months in Scotland, and has met with a good man from France, called the Seigneur Guillebert, whose virtues have reminded him of the necessity they have of such a person in Scotland. He is of such skill that he heals all sorts of incurable infirmities by the spagyric art, by means of distillations which he prepares himself. He can serve them much in Scotland, and is forced to leave England on account of the hatred conceived against him by the common doctors, through the miracles he has performed in certain so called hopeless cases, by means of his drinkable gold. thought to be Sir Thomas Gerard. Intends to try and get possession of them. Mar and others are resolved. Acknowledgment of his error by Rothés. Intelligence sent to the King of Scots of the condition of his mother; forces to be sent to the Borders; ships at sea, &c. [Partly in cipher.]

[March 19.] 24. John Colville to Sir Francis Walsyngham. Arrival of Mr. London. James Roland, a merchant from Scotland. His news of discontent there, and the object of his visit.

March 23. 25. John Colville to Sir Francis Walsyngham. Begs the sending of an enclosure to one Hamilton, of the King of France's Guard. Concerning the Bishop, the more he thinks the more sure he is, that he and all other strangers of his opinion should be removed.

April 1. 26. Mr. James Lowsone, Minister of Edinburgh, to Sir Francis Edinburgh. Walsyngham. In favour of William Cokburn, to whom an Englishman is indebted in a great sum of silver, of which he cannot get payment, and whose gear has been spoiled at sea by pirates.

April 6. 27. John Colville to Sir Francis Walsyngham. The news is good. London. A letter from Ester Wemyss, which he speaks of as inclosed, has not been received.

[April.] 28. Robert Bowes to Sir Francis Walsyngham. Gowry, Rothés, Berwick. and others are returned into known ground in Scotland, wherefore the parties are encouraged, and proceed speedily in their intentions. The principals likely to convene in Lothian. Gowry to come to Tantallon. Certain persons not to join at present. The encouragement he [Bowes] has given them. [Chiefly in cipher.]

April 15. 29. Richard Douglas to Sir Francis Walsyngham. Returns thanks Edinburgh. for past favours shown to himself and his uncle, Mr. Archibald Douglas, and begs redress for losses sustained from pirates.

April 16. 30. John Colville to "his loving brother" [William Colville] in London. Scotland. What he has written in the name of the Lords is very acceptable, and the substance of their articles is set down in a form inclosed. Answer cannot be obtained so hastily as he thinks, but her Majesty's expressions towards the nobles evidently declare her affection to them. England has never dealt with Scotland until an honourable party was in the field, maintaining an innocent and just cause, not that her Majesty would any way push them to an enterprise, for she fears the event. A messenger has been sent from the King and Arran offering to follow her advice in all things, vindicating their own conduct, and making that of the distressed nobles to appear most odious and detestable, adding also information of an intended attempt against the King by Gowry, Mar, and others, with other plausible persuasions to allure her Majesty to trust them. The sooner therefore they hasten their commission to England the better, but no one must be sent till the nobles have taken the field, for if advertisements had been sent to England before the execution of David, the taking of the Queen at Langside, or of Arran at Ruthven, none of these good actions had ever been effected, and they know that after they were accomplished, the Queen ever comforted the enterprisers. The nobles must join together in secret manner to deliver the King as was done at Ruthven, or pursue the present abusers till they are apprehended or reduced to extremity.

- April 19. Berwick. 31. Robert Bowes to Sir Francis Walsyngham. No intelligence of the purpose intended to have been begun yesterday. Fears that the apprehension of Gowry hath stayed and altered it.
- [April 20.] 32. John Colvile to Mr. Davison. News of the capture of Gowry by Colonel Stewart. All is well, even supposing he is taken.
- April 20. Berwick. 33. Robert Bowes to Sir Francis Walsyngham. Reported taking of Stirling by the Earl of Mar. Slow progress afterwards, so there is little hope of success. Alteration of the resolution in England towards Scotland. The reported power of the King is confirmed by the apprehension of Gowry.
- April 20. Berwick. 34. Robert Bowes to Sir Francis Walsyngham. A letter concerning the intended action. Confidence of the Lords who have taken it in hand. His own difficulty in respect to certain offers which are continually made to him.
- April 20. 35. The effect of the petitions of the Earls of Angus, Mar, Glamis, and others entering into the action at Stirling, to the Queen of England, praying her Majesty's assistance.
- April 25. 36. Instructions for A. B., to be presently sent into Scotland from England, to advise the King in respect of the present troubles which have arisen in his realm, and to recommend the calling of a Parliament.
- April 27. Berwick. 37. Robert Bowes to Sir Francis Walsyngham. Ill success of the enterprise. Blame and disgrace to himself [Bowes]. It is high time that he should be released from the service.
- April 29. Berwick. 38. Earls of Angus and Mar to Sir Francis Walsyngham. Inform him that they have been forced, for the safety of the King and for other causes, to take certain measures which are conceived in ill part, and which have obliged them to leave Scotland. Hope that the Queen of England will allow them to remain quietly in her country.
- April 29. At the Court. 39. Sir Francis Walsyngham to Mr. Davison. Informs him of the Queen's wish that he should not proceed to Scotland at present, in consequence of advertisements from Mr. Bowes of the hard case in which the well effected stand there.
- May 1. Berwick. 40. Robert Bowes to Sir Francis Walsyngham. In behalf of William Cockburne, for the recovery of certain money owing him by one John Clerke, of London, for wines.
- May 2. London. 41. John Colvile to Sir Francis Walsyngham. Thanks for his care of the distressed noblemen of Scotland. Will deliver her Majesty's mind to them. Will Mr. Davison go to Scotland or not?

VOL. XXXIV.

 May 4. 42. Lord John Hamilton to Mr. Davison. Sends the bearer to Wodrington. know whether he has any commission to deal for his relief.
- May 4. 43. Sir Francis Walsyngham to Mr. Davison. Her Majesty's Greenwich. uncertainty in consequence of the late "accident" in Scotland.
 The French Ambassador has requested to go there, and her Majesty has consented that he should do so.
- May 4. 44. Mr. Davison to Lord Burghley. Delayed his journey on Berwick. account of the ill success of the late enterprise at Stirling, and the flight of Angus and Mar into England. Begs instruction. Receipt of a thousand pounds; he delays disbursing it in consequence of the late "accident."
- May 4. 45. Mr. Davison to Sir Francis Walsyngham. Has delayed his Berwick. journey in consequence of the news of the ill success of the late enterprise at Stirling; and has reserved the distribution of a thousand pounds which he had received of Sir John Forster.
- May 4. 46. Copy of the same.
- May 4. 47. King James to Queen Elizabeth. Requests the delivery up of Stirling. certain rebels who had made an attack upon the town and castle of Stirling, and fled into England.
- May 4. 48. King James to the Deputy Governor of Berwick. Begs him Stirling. to expedite the journey of the bearer to England.
- May 5. 49. John Butterweke to Mr. Davison. Reported flight of Mar, Angus, and his accomplices to Berwick. Taking of Lord Lindsay.
 Himself [Davison] better thought of than Randolphe or Bowes. No good expected from his embassy. Fears for the King of Scots' religion. Mutterings about foreign power expected from France.
- May 5. 50. Sir Francis Walsyngham to the Earls of Angus and Mar.
 Informs them of the Queen's intention to provide for their safety during their abode in England, and to use the best means she can for their restoration to their Sovereign's favour.
- May 6. 51. Mr. Davison to Sir Francis Walsyngham. Reported execution of the Earl of Gowry. General exasperation and discontent. Expediency of her Majesty's giving countenance to the exiled Lords; reasons for her doing so.
- May 6. 52. Mr. Bowes to Sir Francis Walsyngham. His advice to Angus, Berwick. Mar, and Glamis to write to the Queen. Their intention to send some one to her Majesty; their preparation to depart to Newcastle.
 Movements of the Court. Execution done on two Douglasses.
 Gowry's life is ended, or will be very shortly.
- May 6. 53. Earls of Angus and Mar and Thomas Master of Glamis to Sir Berwick. Francis Walsyngham. Beg that they may have her Majesty's leave to send some sufficient person to her to inform her at length of the circumstances of their situation, that her Majesty may be the rather moved to show her gracious goodness towards them.

VOL. XXXIV.

May 6. Berwick. 54. Robert Bowes to Sir Francis Walsyngham. The Lords very desirous to send the Master of Glamis to her Majesty. Fears of her displeasure. Sundry things in Scotland not rightly conceived of in England.
- May 6. Berwick. 55. Mr. Bowes to Lord Burghley. His advice to Angus, Mar, &c., to write to her Majesty. Their expectation of Mr. John Colville. Their wish to send Glamis to her Majesty.
- May 7. Berwick. 56. Mr. Bowes to Sir Francis Walsyngham. Thomas Livingston, lately in France, is going with letters to the Queen of Scots from the King. Execution of Gowry. Summonses to certain Ministers. The Earl Marischal summoned and warned by a friend. Reported escape of Lindsay from Tantallon, and arrival of Lord Seton with ships at Leith. Expectation of further troubles.
- May 8. Berwick. 57. Mr. Bowes to Sir Francis Walsyngham. Other nobles concerned in the late action. What might have been done. Good to be done yet. Danger of deserting them.
- May 9. Berwick. 58. Mr. Davison to Sir Francis Walsyngham. Necessity of his having advice from her Majesty. Manifest devotion of the Court of Scotland towards the King's mother. Proceedings against those who are favourers of religion and the amity with England. Object of Mauvissière's coming to Scotland. Gowry's the first part in the tragedy; Lindsay's to be next.
- May 10. At the Court. 59. Sir Francis Walsyngham to Mr. Davison. Her Majesty, finding her credit in Scotland impaired, intends to allow the French Ambassador to repair to Scotland, and one also from the Queen of Scots, and himself [Davison] and most probably Mr. Beale to be joined with them.
- May 11. Berwick. 60. Mr. Davison to Sir Francis Walsyngham. Condition of Glamis' friends at home. Custody of Edinburgh Castle; the person in charge desired to give it up; fears of the Lords on the subject. Her Majesty's countenance desired, and money. Importance of the Castle to the King. Argyle withdrawn from Court. Marischal. Huntly to have the lands of Mar.
- May 12. Berwick. 61. Robert Bowes to Sir Francis Walsyngham. Thanks for letters, and for obtaining leave for him to go into the country on his own affairs, and to the Court.
- May 12. Berwick. 62. John Colville to Sir Francis Walsyngham. The two brethren [the Hamiltons] resolved not to receive conditions from the King. Their concurrence with the distressed Lords. The persuasions of the Lords to them. Their case not desperate. Gowry the cause of their late overthrow. Their power, and devotion to her Majesty.
- May 13. St. Peter's Hill. 63. Thomas Randolphe to William Davison. The posts. Livingston's arrival. Mr. Beale gone to the Queen of Scots. Mauvissière to go to Scotland. Archibald Douglas received into Queen Elizabeth's favour again. Heavy fortune of the Scottish nobles.

VOL. XXXIV.

May 13. 64. "The principal points contained in the French Ambassador's letter to Queen Elizabeth, respecting the solicitation made by Lord Seton that he would intercede with her Majesty in behalf of the Queen of Scots.
- May 14. Berwick. 65. Mr. William Davison to Sir Francis Walsyngham. The Scottish Parliament put off. Morton and others come to the Court. Situation of different Lords, Argyle, Rothes, Lindsay, &c. Charges against the ministry for practising with the Lords in the late action.
- May 14. 66. Copy of the same letter.
- May. 67. The names of such of the nobility and others of Scotland as are presently distressed, of which some are without the realm, and some within the realm.
- May 14. 68. — to Mr. Bowes. The Parliament to be held on Tuesday. The Lords sent for. Certain persons in England extremely hated and will perish. Montrose to be Treasurer. Bothwell constrained to agree with Arran. The King's conference with some Ministers. Details of the trial of Gowry shall be sent with the next messenger.
- May 15. Barn Elms. 69. Sir Francis Walsyngham to Mr. Davison. Demand has been made by the King of Scots for the delivery of the nobles who have withdrawn to England; and her Majesty has declined yielding to his request.
- May 15. Barn Elms. 70. Sir Francis Walsyngham to Mr. Davison. Her Majesty cannot allow that the Constable of Edinburgh Castle should forbear the delivery of the same if ordered to do so by the Parliament. The only way to relieve the distressed nobles is by mediation, and she will omit nothing that it may take good effect.
- May 17. 71. "Reasons to shew that it were neither meet nor honourable to make delivery of the noblemen according to the King's request."
- May 19. 72. Queen Elizabeth to King James. Has appointed the bearer. Mr. Davison, to deliver her answer touching his request for the delivery of certain of his nobles. If her advice had been followed, this disorder in his realm had been avoided. Time and too dear experience may enable him to see how perilous it is for Princes to have such dangerous and wicked instruments about them, and to see his error in neglecting the counsel of those who have shown such care for his well doing and safety.
- May 19. 73. Copy of the same.
- May 19. St. Peter's. 74. Thomas Randolphe to Mr. Davison. Sends an inclosure. Wishes him good luck and a safe return.
- [May.] 75. Mr. Davison to Mr. Kylligrew. Apology for not writing more frequently. Acts of the Scottish Parliament. The present power of Arran in Scotland.

VOL. XXXIV.

May 19. Newcastle. 76. Earls of Angus and Mar and Thomas Master of Glamis to Sir Francis Walsyngham. Have directed Mr. Colville to set forth their case to her Majesty. Beg that he will not be ashamed to deal for them in loving manner, as he has done heretofore, for they are her Majesty's assured friends.
- May 20. Greenwich. 77. Sir Francis Walsyngham to Mr. Davison. Instructions for him to answer the King of Scotland's request for the delivery up of his rebels. Mainevile's going to Scotland is broken off, as the Queen of Scots stands on very high terms, and refuses to mediate for the distressed nobles. Private suit of his [Davison's] for money.
- May 22. Newcastle. 78. Thomas Master of Glamis to Mr. Davison. He and the two young nobles are waiting to hear from Mr. Colville whom they have sent to the Queen. Sends him the instructions they have given to Mr. Colville. Hopes the Lord Treasurer will suspend his judgment.
- May. 79. Instructions from Queen Elizabeth to Mr. Davison on his going to Scotland, in respect to the King's demand for the delivery up of certain his rebels who had withdrawn themselves into England.
- May 21. 80. Instructions given to Mr. Colville by the distressed Lords of Scotland, to lay their case before the Queen of England.
- May 22. Greenwich. 81. Sir Francis Walsyngham to Mr. Davison. The stay of the French Ambassador's journey to Scotland, with a Minister from the Queen of Scots, is fully resolved on, by reason of the Queen of Scots' unthankful construction of her Majesty's meaning. Arran has been suggested by Lord Hunsdon as a fit instrument with whom her Majesty may mediate with the King of Scotland.
- May 22. 82. Draft of the same letter.
- May 23. Berwick. 83. Mr. Davison to Sir Francis Walsyngham. Doings of the Scottish Parliament. The King's speech. An offence taken by the Earl Marischal. Proceedings of the Countess of Cassillis and the friends of Glamis. Bothwell in favour. Fears for the Church.
- May 23. London. 84. Archibald Douglas to Sir Francis Walsyngham. Sends letters to be forwarded to the Queen of Scots. The Ambassador's bed-fellow is sick, and desires to borrow his "asine," for the use of her milk.
- May 24. Berwick. 85. William Davison to Mr. Alexander Hume. Is commissioned by the Queen of England towards the King of Scots, and begs him to procure safe conduct for his passage.
- May 25. London. 86. John Colville to Sir Francis Walsyngham. Begs that he will procure him audience of the Queen, on behalf of the distressed nobles. Recapitulates the substance of his commission from them.
- May 26. Berwick. 87. William Davison to Sir Francis Walsyngham. States the pecuniary difficulties under which he is labouring, and begs his assistance to extricate him from them.

VOL. XXXIV.

May 27. Berwick. 88. William Davison to Sir Francis Walsyngham. Acts of the Scottish Parliament. Order for the apprehension of Ministers. Montrose made Treasurer. Argyle in disgrace. Apprehension of a messenger whom he [Davison] sent for his safe conduct. History of the dealing of Arran and Sir Robert Melvill with Gowry. Incloses,
88. 1. "The Practise of Arran and Sir Robert Melvill against the life of Gowrie;" a narrative of an interview between Arran, Melvill, and the Earl of Gowry, in which the latter was induced by Arran to write a letter to the King, which letter was used as a means to procure the Earl's condemnation and execution.
- May 28. Hutton Hall. 89. Alexander Hume of Hutton Hall, to Mr. Davison. Has left a servant to attend to the matter of his safe conduct, being forced hastily to leave the town. His [Davison's] man not misused, but detained till the Council take trial of some things whereof he was before suspected.
- May 28. Berwick. 90. Mr. Davison to Sir Francis Walsyngham. Proceedings against the Church. The Queen of Scots sits at the stern of the Government there, although elsewhere in person, and disposeth the King as she listeth, and how this can breed any surety for religion, or safety for her Majesty, he [Davison] knows not.
- May 28. 91. Copy of the same letter.
- May 28. Berwick. 92. William Davison to Alexander Hume. Requests to know the reason of the detention of the whom he sent for his safe conduct.
- May 29. Berwick. 93. William Davison to Sir Francis Walsyngham. Receipt of his safe conduct. His messenger released. Sets forward for Edinburgh to-morrow.
- May 29. Berwick. 94. Another copy of the same letter.
- May 29. Newcastle. 95. Thomas Master of Glamis to Mr. Davison. States the kind of support required of her Majesty by himself and the distressed Lords. Begg him to confer with a gentleman named John Reid, who is in Edinburgh Castle. Proposes a plan for their secret correspondence.
- May 31. 96. John Colville to Sir Francis Walsyngham. Has scribbled out a melancholy letter to the desolate noblemen as near his answer as he could remember. The other letters inclosed are on his private matters.
- May. 97. Sir Francis Walsyngham to Mr. Davison. Directs him to require the King of Scots to take some order in reference to certain disorders committed by the Borderers.

banished Lords; his footing in Scotland but slippery. The party dependant on Argyle worth having. Great hope of recovering the Hamiltons in France. The French King not greatly affected to the King of Scotland. Her Majesty coldly affected towards Lord Hunsdon. [Chiefly in cipher.]
- August 2. 6. Sir Francis Walsyngham to Lord Hunsdon. Her Majesty does not think it convenient that he should go into Scotland till he has met the Earl of Arran.
- August 2. 7. Earl of Leycester to Mr. Davison. Has been absent from the
From Greys, Court to comfort his sorrowful wife, God having lately taken from Sir F. Knollys' them their only little son. Thanks him for information respecting House. some alleged hard speeches of his [Leycester's] against the King, which he denies. His bringing up has been too long about Princes for him to be so ill spoken of them; so he is to tell the party who gave him the information that if he [Leycester] be honest, honourable, or a Christian man he never passed any ill words of the King of Scotland to any one. As to the other matters stated by the Archbishop of St. Andrews, he never saw him but once; that Prelate is like some of theirs in England, who can say well in the pulpit, and do unhappily out of it; God mend them! For himself, he trusts the Lord will give him peace to live in His fear, to behave faithfully to his Sovereign, and honestly to the world.
- August 3. 8. Lord Hunsdon to Mr. Davison. Surprised at the delay of his Berwick. servant in Scotland. Arran's "greatness" with Maitland and Edinburgh. to the Master of Mar by the King in respect of the custody of Edinburgh Castle. Heartburnings between Colonel Stewart and Arran. A letter from Argyle after the delivery of the castle to Arran. Reports in France as to the King's marriage with Lady Frances Haward. Arran's interview with Lord Hunsdon.

Vol. XXXVI.

- 1584.
- August 18. 34. Mr. Davison to Lord Burghley. Recompense made to Mar Edinburgh. by the King. Heartburnings between Colonel Stewart and Arran.
Reported object of the meeting between Arran and Hunsdon. Ambition of Arran.
- August 18. 35. Mr. Davison to Lord Hunsdon. Arran's charges against the Edinburgh. Lords in England. Hopes that the good beginning between his Lordship and Arran will repair the unkindnesses subsisting between the two Sovereigns.
- [August.] 36. Sir Francis Walsingham to Lord Hunsdon. Instructs him to deal with the King of Scots, to take a more mild course with the exiled Lords, that they may have their livings, &c., and in case he refuse to do so to show what inconveniences he will bring upon himself, and what opinion her Majesty will conceive of his professions towards her.
- August 20. 37. Sir Francis Walsingham to Mr. Davison. A conspiracy is laid to the charge of the exiled Lords; her Majesty desires, therefore, that for the present they should not repair to Berwick.
- August 20. 38. Lord Burghley to Lord Hunsdon. Informs him of the Queen's dissatisfaction generally with the Earl of Arran's reply to him, and of certain articles particularly to which she does not give credit in respect of the harbouring of Jesuits in Scotland, and matters connected with the Queen of Scots. Expresses her consent to receive the Master of Gray, although she doubts greatly of his good meaning.
- August 21. 39. Sir Francis Walsingham to Mr. Davison. Her Majesty's

A more violent course is intended in Scotland against all Queen Elizabeth's friends, and all the Queen of Scotland's favourers to be exalted. Death of Lord Seton. The corpse of Dunfermline to be taken up and forfeited at the next Parliament. Fears for Lindsay. The poor Lords in great trouble about their removal.
- Jan. 22. Holyrood. 5. The Master of Gray to Queen Elizabeth. His happiness in being well thought of by her Majesty. The King's affection towards her. The pretended association with Queen Mary, his mother. Lying speeches of Nau. The King's satisfaction at his [Gray's] negotiation in England. Necessity of removing the rebel Lords. [Signed "Le Lieurcau."]
- Jan. 22. Holyrood. 6. Master of Gray to Lord Burghley. Thanks for his unrecompensable courtesies. The King's satisfaction at the result of his negotiation. Nothing to hinder the continuance of friendship, if her Majesty will put the Scottish rebels out of her country.
- Jan. 24. 7. Sir Francis Walsyngham to the Earl of Angus and others at Newcastle. Her Majesty's misliking of their stay there after the direction given to Mr. Colville for their removal. She wishes them immediately to leave that place, and doubts not that things will have better success than they expect.
- Jan. 24. 8. Sir Francis Walsyngham to the Master of Glamis. The impression he has conceived of a certain person is not to be gainsayed; but God often useth the ministry of ill instruments to bring good purposes to pass. Begs him to use all his credit to persuade the Lords to take her Majesty's orders in good part.
- Jan. 24. 9. Sir Francis Walsyngham to Mr. Colville. Her Majesty is offended with the Lords for not following her directions for removal. Begs him to be earnest with them, to persuade them to comply immediately.
- Jan. 26. Newcastle. 10. John Colville to Sir Francis Walsyngham. The Lords are resolved to comply with her Majesty's wishes, and only wait for a sum of money for which an order had been given by him. [Walsyngham] to a Mr. Anderson, who is now absent.
- Jan. 26. Newcastle. 11. Earls of Angus and Mar and the Master of Glamis to Sir Francis Walsyngham. Beg his favour towards the bearer, who has affairs to do at London, and who is sore distressed with them in defence of the good cause.
- Jan. 28. Paris. 12. J. Forret to Sir Francis Walsyngham. My Lord of Ross is preparing himself for Scotland. Great "research" of all the young men that are papists. My Lord of Glasgow hopes to hear from Lord Seton.
- Jan. 30. Newcastle. 13. Earls of Angus and Mar and the Master of Glamis to Sir Francis Walsyngham. Inform him of their intention to leave that town before the 10th of next month. Express their regret at her Majesty's displeasure, but hope to be restored to her favour when she shall be informed of their obedience.

VOL. XXXVII.

March 5.

27. Sir Francis Walsyngham to the Earls of Angus and Mar and the Master of Glamis. Informs them of an accusation against three of their train of being concerned in a conspiracy against the King's person, and hopes that it will be the occasion of trying out their Lordships' innocency.

March 9.

Norwich.

28. Earl of Angus to Sir Francis Walsyngham. Groundlessness of the accusation against the gentlemen their friends. Their chief comfort, next to their innocency, is the assurance that her Majesty will not easily believe it.

March. 10.

Norwich.

29. Earls of Angus and Mar and the Master of Glamis to Sir Francis Walsyngham. Profess their innocency of the accusations against them, and beg his protection. They have been put to great expenses, are among strangers now, and ashamed to want. What they most desire is to be tried immediately, and that the matter may not be passed over in silence.

March 23.

30. Sir Francis Walsyngham to Angus, Mar, and Glamis. The Ambassador hath moved her Majesty that they may be sent for to be charged before the Council, and her Majesty, knowing it to be no less their wish, desires them to repair there with as much speed as possible.

April 13.

- July 18. Falkland. 94. Secretary Maitland to Sir Francis Walsyngham. The bearer informed of his mind in regard to the league. The King's constancy to be depended on.
- July 19. Falkland. 95. King James to Queen Elizabeth. Assures her of his good will and constancy in the matter of religion and the league, and begs the continuance of her favour.
- July 19. At the Court. 96. Sir Francis Walsyngham to Mr. Wotton. Excuses the delay in Scottish matters, on account of the prospect of going to war with Spain.
- July 22. Falkland. 97. Edward Wotton to Sir Francis Walsyngham. Marriage of the Master of Gray. Overtures of Lord Maxwell to the King; prospect of his pardon. Holt, the Jesuit. Foreign news. The Dukedom of Cornwall to be requested for the King.
- July 23. Falkland. 98. Edward Wotton to Sir Francis Walsyngham. An incursion by the English Borderers into Scottish ground. Morton devoted to the Master of Gray. Fruitless designs of Arran. The King will attribute any opposition to the league to Arran and Montrose. [Chiefly in cipher.]
- July 25. Paris. 99. W. (?) Hamilton to Lord Hamilton. Is in pain in not having heard of his arrival in England. The Governors were all commanded to stop his voyage. The Bishop of Glasgow's anger at his departure. The Queen's faction say that he is gone to cut the King of Scotland's throat. Regret at his ill treatment. His coffers and dogs are sent to Rouen, and will thence be sent to England.
- July 27. 100. Sir Francis Walsyngham to Mr. Wotton. The Queen's commands for the apprehension of the offenders in the late attempt on the Borders. Her approbation of his discreet manner of proceeding in Scotland, but she hath as yet no leisure to resolve concerning the Scottish causes.
- July 28. 101. Sir Francis Walsyngham to Mr. Wotton. Instructs him to dissuade the Master of Gray and others from making a request to her Majesty for the granting a Duchy in England to the King of Scots, and to inform them of her Majesty's good disposition towards the King in regard to his title.

VOL. XXXVII.

- July 29. 102. Edward Wotton to Sir Francis Walsyngham. The slaughter
St. Andrews. of Lord Russell and capture of Sir John Forster on the Borders. The King shed tears like a newly beaten child. Suspicion of Arran's being the cause of it. The King's promise to send him to England to be tried. The Master of Gray to be sent within two or three days with Farnihurst as a prisoner.
- July 30. 103. Edward Wotton to Sir Francis Walsyngham. Arran com-
St. Andrews. mitted to the castle; the King offers to send him to England; good reasons for keeping him in prison two or three years; his practices with the Highlanders, and with the Duke of Guise. The King's grief. Captain Bruce to be sent to England instead of the Master of Gray.
- July 31. 104. The Justice Clerk [Sir Lewis Bellenden] to Sir Francis St. Andrews. Walsyngham. Vindicates the King from all participation in, or knowledge of, the late affair on the Borders.
- July 31. 105. Sir John Forster to Mr. Wotton. Particulars of the late fray Alnwick. and the mischievous and unfortunate mischance in the killing of my Lord Russell. Refers to the bearer, Robert Carvell.
- July 31. 106. Edward Wotton to Sir Francis Walsyngham. The Queen
St. Andrews. will do well to take great offence at the death of Lord Russell, as it was a plan between Arran and Farnihurst, and the latter was one who notoriously has sought her Majesty's destruction. Good effects that will follow. Arran to be sent to England for trial. [Chiefly in cipher.]
- July 31. 107. Secretary Maitland to Sir Francis Walsyngham. Credits the St. Andrews. bearer, sent towards her Majesty on account of the late unhappy accident on the Borders.
- July 31. 108. Laird of Arbroath to James Hudson. The King's grief at the late "accident." Warding of Arran; good likely to result. [With a postscript by the Master of Gray, requesting commendation to his friends in England, especially Sir Philip Sidney.]
- July 31. 109. — to Archibald Douglas. The King's grief at the death
St. Andrews. of Lord Russell. Arran committed to the castle of St. Andrews. Matters could not have happened better.
- 1585? 110. "Memoir of certain small pleasures for the King of Scotland," and "a memoir of certain private instructions," in the handwriting of Archibald Douglas, of requests to be made to the Queen of England in respect to the marriage of the King of Scotland, the lands of the Earl and Countess of Lennox, the murder of Lord Russell, and the pension promised to the King of Scots by his Majesty's Ambassador.
- July 31. 111. Articles of a treaty to be made between the Queen of England and the King of Scotland. The declaration of the Nobility and Estates on the subject of the treaty. A consideration had by the Queen's Majesty upon certain articles of the said treaty, and an abstract of Mr. Wotton's letter on the subject.

[July.] 112. "Postils to the Ambassador of Scotland's articles" of requests to be made in respect to piracies, and the murder of Lord Russell.

VOL. XXXVIII. AUGUST—DECEMBER, 1585.

- [August.] 1. — to Archibald Douglas. The Queen of England has caused him to meddle so far against Arran that he has sought his [the writer's] life. Sees nothing but his own overthrow. The return of the banished Lords is his only hope. Promises them the assistance of Lord Maxwell and others, if they can levy some men and come to the Borders, as the King must then either yield or leave the country. The King will by no means deliver Arran into England. [Not signed ; and has probably been written in invisible ink.]
- August 2. 2. Queen Elizabeth to King James. Expresses her grief at the horrible slaughter of Lord Russell. Believes him [the King] innocent in the matter, but fears it will minister to the world great occasion to suspect the sincerity between them. Hopes that he has already given charge that the truth may be sifted out to the bottom.
- August 2. 3. Copy of the same letter.
- August 2. 4. Secretary Walsyngham to Mr. Wotton. Instructs him to press the late matter with the King, that justice may be done on the offenders. The Queen thinks it was not an accident, because Farnihurst came more strongly accompanied than he was wont, and because the English were chased four miles into English ground.
- August 2. 5. Copy of the same.
- August 5. 6. Sir Francis Walsyngham to Mr. Wotton. Instructs him to insist more earnestly in aggravating the matter of Lord Russell's murder, and in pressing the King to yield due satisfaction for it.
- August 5. 7. Copy of the same. .
- August 5. 8. Sir Francis Walsyngham to Mr. Wotton. Her Majesty's approval of his conduct in respect to Lord Russell's murder. Her wish that he should urge certain matters against Arran, so as to prolong the time of his imprisonment; and also inform the King of the suspicions of Russell's friends against Arran, and their earnest demand for justice.
- August ? 9. "Informations against the Earl of Arran;" charges to be made against him, for communicating with the Duke of Guise to break the league and seize the King of Scotland's person, for forging the King's handwriting, and other matters.
- August 6. 10. King James to Queen Elizabeth. Informs her that he has delivered the Earl of Arran from the castle [of St. Andrews], and has ordered him to his own house under restraint, and of his reasons for doing so.

VOL. XXXVIII.

- August 6. 11. Edward Wotton to Sir Francis Walsyngham. The King's
St. Andrews. affection for and relief of Arran. The Master of Gray a mediator for him. Arran not to come to the King's presence. The King and Council desirous for the league. Persons to be won over if its continuance is desired. The only two ways to relieve the distressed Lords are through Arran or by force. Her Majesty's resolution required. A "practise" to convey away the Queen of Scots. [Chiefly in cipher.]
- August 7. 12. Sir Francis Walsyngham to Mr. Wotton. Lord Russell's friends marvellously incensed in respect to the late murder. Sir William Russell is gone secretly to the North to challenge Farnihurst. Great offence must follow if Arran be set at liberty. His most earnest persuasions to be used that the King may minister justice in the cause as appertaineth.
- August 7. 13. Copy of the same.
- August 7. 14. Edward Wotton to Sir Francis Walsyngham. The Secretary
St. Andrews. and Justice Clerk are desirous that the Master of Gray's fault should be overlooked for the present. His treachery in receiving money of Arran to procure his liberation from St. Andrews' Castle. His correspondence with Mauvissière. The King moves to Stirling on the 9th.
- August 7. 15. The Master of Gray to Sir Francis Walsyngham. In favour St. Andrews. of the bearer to have recompence of certain spoils committed on him by English pirates.
- August 9. 16. Edward Wotton to Sir Francis Walsyngham. The Master of St. Andrews. Gray very penitent. Hopes of recovering him thoroughly. Expedience of overlooking his fault. Arran likely to be sent to England. The King's promise in regard to the murder of Lord Russell. Farnihurst commanded to bring forth the murderer. An order against the Jesuits. Divers men are meddling in the French course, but he holds the King to be free in the matter.
- August 9. 17. King James to Queen Elizabeth. In favour of Andrew King, St. Andrews. to have redress for certain spoils committed on him and others by English pirates.
- August 9. 18. Sir Francis Walsyngham to Mr. Wotton. Farnihurst's assertion that the late disorder grew upon cause given by England. Her Majesty's indignation. The King to be pressed for Farnihurst's committal. A sharp answer sent to the King in respect to the liberation of the Earl of Arran.
- August 12. 19. Sir Francis Walsyngham to the Justice Clerk. The late accident happened in the person of Lord Russell is likely to affect the good will between the two nations; he [the Justice Clerk], who has shown himself so good an instrument between their Majesties, will doubtless prevent the inconveniencies that may ensue thereby.

VOL. XXXVIII.

- August 12. 20. Sir Francis Walsyngham to the Master of Gray. The King's coolness in the prosecution of those suspected of the late dolorous accident is likely to work great interruption in that which they both seek to preserve. Is sure that he [Gray], than whom no man loveth the King better, will be careful to continue him in his good disposition.
- August 12. 21. Sir Francis Walsyngham to Secretary Maitland. Is assured of his best endeavours to prevent the malicious efforts of those, who, on account of the late accident, are striving to interrupt the harmony between the two kingdoms.
- August 13. 22. Edward Wotton to Sir Francis Walsyngham. The King's Stirling. promise to keep Arran in ward till trial shall be made of his innocency. His coldness in respect to the sending of Arran into England. His desire for the league. Farnihurst's defence of himself in respect to the killing of Lord Russell.
- August 13. 23. Laird of Pettynwem to Sir Francis Walsyngham. Thanks Stirling. for care in his wife's "adoes" in the Low Countries, and solicitations in respect to a petition of his own.
- August 14. 24. — to —. Things are not going on as he wishes, but Stirling. there is no hope of retreat. Professions towards the Earl of Leicester. It will be better for him [the person addressed] if he write to the King, and declare his innocency of the crime alleged against him.
- August 19. 25. Edward Wotton to Sir Francis Walsyngham. Farnihurst
Stirling. and Fenwick's declarations in respect to the murder of Lord Russell. Committal of Farnihurst. Fair words of the King. Arran's confinement. The Master of Gray's friends ashamed of him; difficulty of doing without him. Certain articles of the proposed league. Spaniards landed in Ireland.
- Aug. ? 26. Instructions for the Lord President, Lord Eure, and John Harbert, Esq., to conclude a treaty with Scotland offensive and defensive.
- August 20. 27. The Mayor and others of Aberdeen to Sir Francis Walsyngham, praying redress to Andrew King and others for spoils committed by English pirates. Lat.
- August 21. 28. Edward Wotton to Sir Francis Walsyngham. The effects of Stirling. a sharp letter from her Majesty to the King; his promises. Committal of Farnihurst. Arrival of Robert Bruce with money from France. The King's speeches against the Duke of Guise. The Master of Gray still to be entertained with sweet words if the league is desired.
- Aug. ? 29. Instructions given to Captain Bruce on going to Scotland, to warn the Master of Gray of his danger.

VOL. XXXVIII.

- August 21. "Ane letter writtin in quhyit ink from A. to S.," remonstrating on the inconstant dealing in Scotland, stating the indignation felt in England at the extraordinary behaviour of the Court of Scotland in respect to the murder of Lord Russell. Referring to the rendering of Antwerp, and other matters. [With No. 29.]
- August 21. Another letter "in white ink, of the same date," warning the person addressed of some evil reports against him, of his being the chief furtherer of Arran's liberty, and of his dissimulation to England; informing him also of the evident course towards the relief of the banished Lords. [With No. 29. These two letters were probably addressed to the Master of Gray.]
- August 21. 30. Edward Wotton to [Sir Francis Walsyngham]. Robert Bruce reported to be at Falkland; his interview with the King; he is suffered to escape by the Master of Gray. Hostages to be required for the surety of the league. Has heard nothing more of the practice touching the Queen of Scots.
- August 21. 31. Sir Lewis Bellenden, Justice Clerk, to Sir Francis Walsyngham. Stirling. Begs him to use his endeavours that the death of Lord Russell may not interrupt the good purposes between their Sovereigns. Advises the continuance of his favour to the Master of Gray for the removal of all jealousies.
- August 22. 32. Edward Wotton to Sir Francis Walsyngham. Commissioners Dumbarton. appointed by the King to settle the league. No news of Hay or Dury. The King's promise to get them apprehended. The Highlanders in Ireland to be recalled. Quarrel between Angus M'Onell and M'Lean. Expedience of her Majesty's pensioning the latter. A report that the Master of Gray hath set up the mass; the King's opinion of him; his strength and wealth.
- August 25. 33. Edward Wotton to Sir Francis Walsyngham. The Master of Dumbarton. Gray's opinion that they are running a wrong course in seeking to disgrace Arran with the King; he advises that her Majesty stay the league and let slip the Lords, who will be able to take Arran and seize on the person of the King. Suspicions of Morton. [Chiefly in cipher.]
- August 26. 34. Earls of Angus and Mar and the Master of Glamis to Sir Westminster. Francis Walsyngham. Submit the improbability of certain effects following her Majesty's expectation, in consequence of the undiminished credit of the Earl of Arran, and beg his intercession with her Majesty in their behalf.
- August 26. 35. Sir Francis Walsyngham to Mr. Wotton. The 4th of next month is too soon for the meeting of the Commissioners about the murder of Lord Russell. Lord Scrope will have warning two or three days beforehand when her Majesty's Commissioners are ready.
- August 26. 36. Copy of the same.

VOL. XXXVIII.

- August 30. 37. Edward Wotton to Sir Francis Walsyngham. The Master of Hamilton. Gray's complaint of the alteration in his [Wotton's] behaviour towards him. His suspicion that the Justice Clerk and Maitland are in the course of the Queen of Scots. Grounds for suspecting Maitland. Position of Arran. Morton desires to make his peace.
Bothwell admitted to the King's presence. [Chiefly in cipher.]
- ' [August.] 38. [Edward Wotton to Sir Francis Walsyngham]. Gray's fears about the plot. Pride of the Stewarts. Sir William Stewart braved him [Wotton] at Court, so he told him he lied and could do no less. Gray is anxious for an answer respecting the Lords, and their coming to Scotland.
- [August.] 39. "Memorial for Scotland;" being memoranda of divers matters to be recollected in regard to Scotland, the King's pension, Commissioners for the league, Mr. Wotton's revocation, &c.
- Sept. 1. 40. Edward Wotton to Sir Francis Walsyngham. The Lords to Hamilton. agree secretly with Morton for the better effectuating the matter proposed by the Master of Gray. Morton to make an incursion, and on what pretext. The King's person to be taken possession of.
Gray's promises, if he have a certain sum of money. Necessity of having some one at Court to hold the King from Arran. Expedi-ence of acceding to Gray's requests. Prorogation of the meeting of the Commissioners. His own danger if the violent course be resolved on, and the necessity of his revocation. [Chiefly in cipher.]
- Sept. 3. 41. Edward Wotton to Sir Francis Walsyngham. A reported Stirling. secret dealing between her Majesty and Arran, of which Cuthbert Armorer is the instrument; the indignity offered to himself, if it be so. Communication between Arran and the Jesuits.
- Sept. 4. 42. Edward Wotton to Lord Burghley. Begs him to procure his Stirling. revocation, as he is in great danger, and can do the Queen no service.
- Sept. 4. 43. [Privy Council] to Mr. Wotton. Excuse to be made to the well affected in Scotland for the coldness shown to them. No way to remove the jealousies between them except the return of the banished Lords.
- Sept. 4. 44. Sir Francis Walsyngham to Mr. Wotton. The commission Nonsuch. and instructions for inquiring into the murder of Lord Russell are sent to Lord Scrope. Arran's delivery not to be urged, unless sufficient matter be found out by the Commissioners to prove him guilty of the breach of truce and the murder.
- Sept. 4. 45. Copy of the same. ↘ Nonsuch.
- Sept. 4. 46. Sir Francis Walsyngham to Mr. Wotton. Instruction for the alteration of a passage in an article of the proposed league. Her Majesty is willing to recall him after the conclusion of the treaty

VOL. XXXVIII.

1585.
Sept. 4. 48. Sir Francis Walsyngham to the Master of Gray. Assures him of her Majesty's disregard of the reports spread to his discredit, and that she could never condemn so devoted a gentleman as himself upon such slight bruits.
- Sept. 4.
Stirling. 49. [Master of Gray] to the Laird of Johnston. Informs him of a report, which had reached the King and Court, that all the Johnstons had appointed with Lord Maxwell. Assures him of his own and the King's disbelief of it, but desires to be advertised with certainty.
- Sept. 4. 50. Mr. Secretary [Walsyngham] to Mr. Wotton. Her Majesty has not been able before to take advice, touching the matter of the league, on account of the absence of the Counsellors. The Commissioners are to meet on the 20th. He has forgotten to set down the amendment for the sixth article, touching the aid to be given by her Majesty in case of invasion. The Queen intends to authorize the Commissioners on her part to treat of matters of the Borders as well as the general treaty.
- Sept. [5.] 51. Mr. Wotton to Mr. Secretary [Walsyngham]. Has had an interview with the King on the subject of the treaty. The King has assented that the 11th article for the delivery of the rebels shall pass, provided that they shall first be lawfully proved to be rebels. The King assented to these conditions upon the understanding that her Majesty, according to offer made, should promise under her hand and seal not to do anything to the prejudice of his Pretended title. The Commissioners for the League are to be empowered to determine Border causes.
- Sept. 6.
Stirling. 52. Edward Wotton to Sir Francis Walsyngham. News sent to Arran of the intended return of the banished Lords. The King's trouble, and his letter to Lord Hunsdon. His own danger, and his intention to leave the country of his own accord, if he be not revoked.

- May. 78, 79. Two other copies of the same speech.
- May 12.
Edinburgh. 80. Archibald Douglas to Sir Francis Walsyngham. The Master of Gray, not having received any answer to his offer for the Low Countries, has sent Thomas Tyrie to procure one. How far it doth import him, he must leave to his Honour's more grave consideration.

VOL. XXXIX.

May 12. 81. Earl of Leycester to the Master of Gray. Wishes particularly Arnheim. to speak with him on a subject of the greatest importance; or to some very trusty and discreet gentleman whom he shall commend to him. There will be work for him and he must use expedition.
- May 13. 82. Thomas Randolphe to Lord Burghley. Discontent of the Nobles at the King's agreeing to the league without their consent.
Everything is agreed to in the hope that her Majesty will send the promised twenty thousand crowns, and some assurance about the King's pretended title. The King seems specially grieved with some words in her Majesty's letter.
- May 13. 83. Thomas Randolphe to Sir Francis Walsyngham. Honest dealing of Mr. Archibald Douglas. The King; his professions towards her Majesty; his pension. Delivery of certain persons in

- May 17. 84. Doctor George Fletcher to [Sir Francis Walsyngham]. Sends Edinburgh. him some particulars of the proceedings of the General Assembly.
Begs to be employed in some honest service in England.
- May 17. 85. Master of Gray to Sir Francis Walsyngham. Begs him to
From the Court. dispatch Thomas Tyrie to the Earl of Leycester, as his stay has done him harm, both in mind and substance. Mr. Douglas is to have his trial shortly. The King has consented to all things; but he [Gray] had enough to do to make him take the money.
- May 18. 86. Thomas Randolphe to Sir Francis Walsyngham. Particu-Edinburgh. lars of the practices of one Peter French with the French Ambassador, the papists, Jesuits, and others. The King averse to the delay of the league. His desire to send an Ambassador to England. The men suspected of the murder of Lord Russell to be delivered up.

Cantons of Switzerland; the object of their mission. Fr.
- May 18. 88. Archibald Douglas to Sir Francis Walsyngham. A long Edinburgh. detail of an interview with the Secretary respecting his [Douglas's] cares, and the part he wished him to take in supporting the King in his present course of conduct as regards the Queen of England.
- May 21. 89. Master of Gray to Sir Francis Walsyngham. A letter from Edinburgh. the Earl of Leycester. The long stay of Mr. Tyrie does him harm many ways. His [Gray's] anxiety to have an answer. Commissions from my Lord of Leycester for lifting of men.
- May 21. 90. Mr. Randolphe to Lord Scrope. Sends the names of certain Edinburgh. persons suspected of the murder of Lord Russell, who are to appear this day before the King, and are to remain prisoners at Carlisle at her Majesty's pleasure.
- May 21. 91. Mr. Randolphe to Sir Francis Walsyngham. Better state of Edinburgh. things. The Commissioners to meet on June 19. Unjust complaints of piracies.

Vol. XXXIX.

1586.
May 24. 92. Sir Francis Walsyngham to Mr. Randolphe. Instructions to inform the Master of Gray of the crosses and vexations thrown on the Earl of Leycester in the Low Countries, and consequently of the inexpedience of his [Gray's] continuing in his purpose with reference to going there. The Queen will not agree to their advice in regard to the King's pension.
- May 24. 93. Sir Francis Walsyngham to the Master of Gray. Informs him of the restriction of the Earl of Leycester's authority in the Low Countries, whereby he is not able to give him that entertainment that he looks for. His good offices for the mutual benefit of the two Crowns will never be forgotten.
- May 24. 94. Sir Francis Walsyngham to Mr. Archibald Douglas. Glad of the King's favour to him. The restriction of the Earl of Leycester's authority and the impossibility of his employing the Master of Gray in the Low Countries. He [Douglas] has done well not to accept the charge of employment in England.
- May 28.
Edinburgh. 95. Master of Gray to Sir Francis Walsyngham. Acquittal of Mr. Archibald Douglas. Expected alteration of affairs. Firmness of the King. Men sent to the Earl of Leycester. Want of means for them.

- May 28.
Edinburgh. 97. Thomas Randolphe to Sir Francis Walsyngham. A letter from the King, supposed to be concerning those who are to be delivered into England. The Secretary is a great friend to them, but in his [Randolphe's] opinion no favour or courtesy ought to be shown in such a matter.
- May 29. 98. The names of the Captains and leaders that do offer to follow the Master of Gray into the Low Countries.
- [May.]
Westminster. 99. John Colville to Mr. Davison. Sends a letter for his perusal. Begg he will remind the Queen and the Treasurer of the matters of which they spoke at their last meeting.

Vol. XL. JUNE—JULY, 1586.

June 2. 1. Queen Elizabeth to King James. Returns thanks for his readiness in joining with her in the proposed league. Has lately sent him a portion meet for his private use, but not so much as her mind would yield. Hopes that she will always be able to continue and not to lessen this manner of kindness, and promises, on the word of a Queen, to suffer nothing to be done to the derogation or diminution of any greatness, right, or title due to him in any sort.
- June 2. 2, 3. Two other copies of the above.

Vol. XL.

June. 4. Queen Elizabeth's instructions given to the Earl of Rutland, Lord Eure, and Mr. Randolphe to conclude the league between her Majesty and the King of Scotland.
- [June.] 5. Queen Elizabeth to Lord Eure. Appoints him a Commissioner, with the Earl of Rutland and Mr. Randolphe, to conclude a league with the King of Scotland.

- [June 4.] 7. Copy of the same.
- June 4. 8. Sir Francis Walsyngham to the Master of Gray. Thanks him for his good friendship to Mr. Archibald Douglas. Cannot encourage him in regard to his project for the Low Countries, but advises him to send the troops to Lord Leycester, and himself to spend the summer there with Sir Philip Sidney privately, in order to learn the customs of the country. Arran's stay in Scotland is likely to revive unnecessary jealousies.
- June 5. 9. Secretary Walsyngham to Mr. Randolphe. The 9th article of the proposed treaty, respecting the inquiring into injuries done on the Borders, to be left out as needless and impertinent.
- June 5. 10. Another copy of the same letter.
- June 5.
Carlisle. 11. Lord Scrope to Mr. Randolphe. His care to prevent disorders since the beginning of the treaty. Particulars of an incursion by some Scots upon the Esk, and of the outrages committed by them.
- June 8.
Edinburgh. 12. Master of Gray to Sir Francis Walsyngham. The change in the Queen's determination, and in the wishes of the Earl of Leycester relative to his aiding him with troops in the Low Countries. His regret. How is he to give up the project without loss of reputation, and what course is he to pursue at home?
- June 9. 13. Archibald Douglas to Sir Francis Walsyngham. Proceedings of his enemies on his trial. A Convention to be held at Cupar, and the King's marriage to be proposed. The excessive charges incurred by the Master of Gray in levying soldiers for the Low Countries. Necessity of her Majesty's helping him. The Secretary is the cause of all the ills there in Scotland; his credit and his friends. Arran desires to come to England.
- June 10.

Vol. XL.

- [June 10.] 15. Sir Cuthbert Collingwood to ——. Remonstrates on his staying the men contrary to his faithful promise. This is the first need he had to use his friendship, but seeing he esteems the favour of a thief more than his own promise, he will forbear ever after to charge him.
- June 10. 16. Sir Cuthbert Collingwood to ——. Sorry that he has had Eslington. occasion to report ill of him to my Lord Ambassador, but, if he has offended, he will make him lawful amends.
- June 10. 17. Mr. Randolphe to Sir Francis Walsyngham. Probability of Berwick. Mr. Archibald Douglas's advancement. The King's promise not to stay the league. James Stewart's [late Earl of Arran] stay in the realm. The late combat and disorders. Names of the Commissioners for the league.
- June. 18. Lord Burghley to Mr. Randolphe. In reply to the dissatisfaction expressed in Scotland in respect to the not sending more than 4,000*l.* to the King, and also in regard to her Majesty's not having sent the instrument promising the assurance of his title. Her Majesty denies having promised more than 4,000*l.*, and declines signing the instrument on account of its unfriendly law-like form.
- June. 19. Copy of the same.
- June 12. 20. Mr. Randolphe to Sir Francis Walsyngham. Little time to Berwick. make certain insertions in the league. No fitting provision for the Commissioners. Poverty at Berwick. Complaints against Sir John Forster.
- [June 16.] 21. [Sir Francis Walsyngham] to Mr. Archibald Douglas. The ratification of the treaty to be deferred. Inexpedience of his and the Master of Gray's being concerned in it. Treasonable giving up of Grave [in Holland]; hopes that the Governor and his accomplices have by this time received their due.
- June 16. 22. Archibald Douglas to [Mr. Randolphe]. Insinuations by the Falkland. Secretary to prevent the King from yielding to her Majesty's wishes. A promise made to the French Ambassador that the league shall not be concluded before July. False reports spread about respecting the defeat of the Queen's forces in Holland. Means to be employed to intercept letters. [Not signed.]
- June 16. 23. Archibald Douglas to Mr. Randolphe. The King's indecision Falkland. in regard to the delivery into England of the persons suspected of Lord Russell's murder; reasoning with him; his ultimate consent, and upon what terms. Desired prorogation of the meeting of the Commissioners.
- June 16. 24. Master of Gray to Lord Burghley. Will follow his advice as Falkland. to the giving up of his intended voyage to the Low Countries; should never have designed it except to serve her Majesty; and, seeing that he can do so better where he is, will remain at home and use all his diligence to procure the good feeling between their two Sovereigns.

[Nov. 4.]

51. Advertisement of affairs in Scotland :—Dr. Allen made Cardinal, and Holt sent to the seminaries at Paris. Angus advanced to the Lieutenantship. Letters sent out of England to the King and Hamilton declaring an intended accusation of Hamilton's being of the conspiracy for the Queen of England's death. James Stewart [Arran] rules the King and Court though absent. Differences between Maxwell and Angus. A general pacification wished for amongst the nobility, which might lead to attempts against England. Plot for the general subversion of religion. The King of Spain preparing a great army. The execution of the late traitors, and the matter against the Queen of Scots were speedily reported at Rome. Hamilton had written to Angus to forbear extreme dealing against Maxwell.

Nov. 5. 52. Archibald Douglas to Lord Burghley. Is contented that Keith be lodged with him. Imprisonment of his host, whose case he begs may be submitted to law.

Nov. 5. 53. William Keith to Mr. Davison. Informs him of his arrival.
London. Wishes to know when he may have audience.

Nov. 5. 54. Archibald Douglas to Mr. Davison. Keith to be lodged with London. him. Unjust imprisonment of his host. A robbery at sea.

Nov. 5. 55. William Keith to Sir Francis Walsyngham. Informs him of London. his arrival, and wishes to know when he may have audience.

Nov. 6. 56. Master of Gray to Sir Francis Walsyngham. The King still Holyrood. insists to have his mother's life. The ill affected are very busy. Difficulties. His grief for Sir Philip Sidney. Does not wish now to serve in the Low Countries. The Queen's letters to be written in favour of his men there.

Nov. 6. 57. Archibald Douglas to Mr. Davison. Mr. Keith arrived, and London. very desirous to know when he shall be admitted to her Majesty's presence.

Nov. 8. 58. Robert Gourlay to Mr. Davison. In favour of his son, who Edinburgh. has sustained a great loss in the pillage of a vessel at sea.

Nov. 13. 59. Archibald Douglas and W. Keith to Mr. Davison. Beg the London. conveyance of some letters to Scotland. Beg his remembrance of the case of their host unjustly imprisoned; and his favour towards the suit of a miserable Scotchman, who had received injustice at Carlisle. Advert to the frequent cases of piracy.

Holyrood. Scotland. Hoped disunion with England. Another conspiracy in England. His wish now not to go to the Low Countries. The King to revoke his men thence; their payment. Certainty of the King's breaking with the Queen of England if she put hand in his mother's blood. The whole Catholics of the realm are alert.

VOL. XLI.

Nov. 16. Mons. De Courcelles to Mons. D'Esneval. Pretended affection of Gray towards the French King, and enmity towards the Queen of England in consequence of the nonfulfilment of her promises to the King of Scots. [With No. 1., Vol. xlii.]
- Nov. 19. 62. Mons. [De l'Aubespine] to Mons. de Courcelles. Bellievre arrived from France to intercede for the Queen of Scots. Little hope for her. Parliament resolved on her death. My Lord Buckhurst is said to be gone to convey her sentence to her, having an order for her execution. [In cipher.]
- Nov. 20. 63. M. Maheut to M. de Courcelles. Hoped for his return with Mons. D'Esneval. Good services of M. Pinart. His [Courcelles'] health, medicines, &c. Fr.
- Nov. 20. 64. Roger Aston to Sir Francis Walsingham. Excuses for not seeing him before he started for Scotland. The Queen has given him something in reversion.
- Nov. 20. 65. Archibald Douglas to Sir Francis Walsingham. His suspicious colleague [Keith]; the hasty dispatching of his servant to Scotland; his communication with the French Ambassador respecting the Queen of Scots, and his desire that an Ambassador be sent in solemn embassy to deal in her affairs. The matter may be prevented at home better than there [in England]. The secret dealing in it recommended to his wisdom. Expedience of sending some bucks to the King, that one pleasure may tend to put out another grief.
- Nov. 20. 66. Mons. de Courcelles to the King of France. Delivery of his letters to the King of Scotland and declaration of his [the King of France's] good feeling towards the Queen of Scots. The Queen of Scots' trouble on account of the imputation cast upon her of being concerned in the late conspiracy against the Queen of England. Conference with the King about the Queen of England's treatment of his mother, and the probabilities of her death. Progress of catholicism in Scotland. Fr.
- Nov. 20. 67. Mons. De Courcelles to M. Brulard. The King of Scots determination to intercede for his mother. Rumoured change in the Scottish Court and religion. The soldiers prepared for Flanders in the service of the Queen of England are countermanded. Fr.
- Nov. 23. 68. Archibald Douglas and William Keith to Mr. Davison. In consequence of letters received from Scotland, they desire to know when they may be admitted to the Queen's presence.
- Nov. 27. 69. Master of Gray to Sir Francis Walsingham. Things likely to turn out ill in the matter of the Queen of Scots. The King means to send a great Ambassador to England and has pressed him [Gray] to go; if he does so he hopes to do to their contentment.
- Nov. 27. 70. Robert Stewart to the Commendator of Pittenweem. His letter well received by the King. Accusation against the Queen of Scots. The King's ill opinion of her doings. His affection. Validity of her trial. Certainty of her fate. The nobility. Miserable state of things.

VOL. XLI.

Nov. 27. 71. Robert Stewart to Captain Dakchie, Serjeant Major in the Edinburgh. Scottish regiment in Flanders. Begs him to deliver a letter to the Laird of Pittenweem. The conspiracy in England. Danger of the Queen of Scots. Great appearance of revolting against religion.

Holyrood. Fullarton, concerned in some matter of piracy.
1586. 73. "The present state of Scotland." Disposition of the King generally towards England and towards his nobles. Dispositions of the nobility, who are affected to England and who not; and how they are to be treated. [Indorsed by Mr. Randolphe.]
- Nov? 74. King James to [Archibald Douglas]. The pretended condemnation of his mother. His sorrow that the Queen hath suffered it to proceed so far to his dishonour. King Henry the Eighth's beheading his bedfellow was a tragedy far inferior to this if it proceed as seemeth to be intended. His intention to send an embassy to England; one man to be in it deserving the greatest credit from the Queen. There is a jewel of honesty locked up in his [the King's] heart, which she only, by her good behaviour in this case, can open.
General indignation in Scotland. His [Douglas's] most earnest diligence to be used in the matter as he loves his Master's honour.
- [Nov.] 75. Bond or obligation from David Stewart, of Vezines in France, Leith. to pay a sum of money to Thomas Murray, who had assisted him during his stay in Scotland during the pestilence, and on his departure from the kingdom.
- Dec. 76. — to [Sir Francis Walsyngham]. Mr. Archibald Douglas to be satisfied touching his instructions till the Queen gives him audience.
- Dec. 77. Part of a letter written out of Scotland about the King's care to remedy disorders in his kingdom; his late proceedings in regard to the broken Irishmen; the troubles in the West March, &c.

London. syngham. A letter received from my Lord Treasurer. The bearer to be directed to Scotland with it. Request he may have a commission for post horses.
- Dec. 6. 79. Archibald Douglas and William Keith to Lord Burghley.
London. The Queen's refusal to grant a safe conduct to Keith, in consequence of the tenour of a letter delivered by him that day. Her Majesty is to be persuaded that it hath proceeded from a necessity to which the King of Scotland is forced by the exclamation of his subjects.
- Dec. 8. 80. Advertisements sent from the Catholics of Scotland to the Catholics of England.
- Dec. 8? 81. A memorial of certain heads to be communicated to the Lord Secretary of Scotland [from Sir Francis Walsyngham], expressing the reasons of his not having answered his letters; his wonder that the King should be so importunate, in regard to his mother, upon whom the Papists build all their hope; the mischief done by the late message sent by Mr. Keith, &c.

VOL. XLI.

1586.

- Dec. 13. London. 84. Archibald Douglas to [Lord Burghley]. Piracies. Ill usage of some Scotsmen by my Lord Admiral's servants. A request in favour of one Acheson, troubled at the Newcastle. Incloses,
84. 1. E. Herman to Archibald Douglas. Complains of a piracy committed on a ship of Leith, and requests assistance to obtain restitution of his goods. Bristol, Dec. 10.
- Dec. 13. Holyrood. 85. Master of Gray to Sir Francis Walsyngham. Strange dealing towards him [Gray]; his answer to the accusations against him of having promised to procure a toleration in religion, and to dissolve the amity with England, and that he had made the King to deal so earnestly for his mother.
- Dec. 14.
24. Paris. 86. Henry III., King of France, to M. de Courcelles. Expresses his satisfaction that the King of Scots is so earnest in behalf of his mother, a disposition that will procure him the respect of all the Princes in Christendom. Begg that he will constantly remind him that they who would kill his mother would not hesitate to essay the like upon himself. Fr.
- Dec. 15. 87. Archibald Douglas to Sir Francis Walsyngham. Suspicious doings of Colonel Stewart in Paris. The piracies are likely to produce ill effects in Scotland if speedy order be not given for remedy.
- Dec. 16.
26. Mons. De Courcelles to Mons. D'Esneval. The King of Scots' care for his mother. Bothwell, Gray, and Sir Robert Melvill to go to England. Opinion that the Queen dare not go further against the Queen of Scots. [With No. 1, Vol. xlii.]
- Dec. 17. Holyrood. 88. Secretary John Maitland to Sir Francis Walsyngham. The King has chosen the Master of Gray and Sir Robert Melvill to intercede for the life of his mother. Recommends the latter [Melvill] to his favour, as some hard conceits may be bred of him, and the King could not have chosen a person more apt for the service.
- Dec. 18. Edinburgh. 89. James Melville to Mr. Davison. Congratulates him on his promotion to the office of Secretary, so well deserved on his part and so well acknowledged by the Queen of England, his Sovereign.
- Dec. 18.
28. Mons. de Courcelles to Mons. D'Esneval. An assembly of nobles there [in Scotland] to advise with the King on the case of his mother. "[With No. 1, Vol. xlii.]" is not without its use. Fr. [With No. 1, Vol. xlii.]

1586, Dec. 23. Mons. Villeroy to Mons. Bellièvre. The Huguenots will not do 1587, Jan. 2. what they desire. Extravagant capitulation made by Guise. Need of his [Bellièvre's] return. Any favour shown to the Queen of Scots will not be for any regard to France. [With No. 1, Vol. xlii.]

Dec. 25. 91. Master of Gray to Sir Francis Walsyngham. His arrival so Stamford. far on his road to London. Tenour of his instructions. The King's meaning in the offensive letter sent by Mr. Keith. Injustice of the charge against himself of having communicated with France.

Dec. ? 92. Memorial from the Scottish Ambassadors to the Queen of England, of matters to be requested of her in regard to the condemnation of the Queen of Scots; to beg a copy of the decree against her; to see her Judges; also in regard to some piracies, and Border matters, &c.

1586 ? 93. Laird of Pury Ogilvy to Sir Francis Walsyngham. Pressed to travail with the Master of Gray to reconcile the King of Scotland to the Earl of Arran. Supposes that they dare not effectuate anything against the life of the Queen of Scots. Great jealousy between the Secretary and the Master of Gray.

1586 ? 94. "An advertisement out of Scotland," of letters written by
 A. B. to the Duke of Guise and Prince of Parma, inciting them to embrace the cause of Scotland, and respecting letters to the Master of Gray on the same subject.

1586 ? 95. A short pedigree, in the handwriting of Lord Burghley, showing the descent of Mary Queen of Scots from King James IV.
 and Margaret Queen of Scotland, sister of King Henry VIII.
